'I Tearfully Agreed To Mother's Marriage'

One afternoon in late childhood, on my return from school my mother gently informed me that she had decided to marry again, putting the situation in eloquent terms in which I was given to understand that it was a case not of losing my mother but gaining a father.

His name was John Rasin. He was a member of a wealthy and politically prominent family.

During his courtship of my mother he had been extremely kind to me. I had liked him until my mother told me of her intention to marry him.

In a flash kindly Mr. Rasin was transformed in my mind into a sinister and hateful rival.

In my shock and hurt I cried out to my mother that I would never let her marry him; that I would run away. Nothing she could say stopped my tears or assuaged my grief. The argument went on for days.

Seeking a way to bring me round, Mother summoned Aunt Bessie Merryman and Cousin Lelia to add the weight of their arguments.

Patiently they explained that my mother loved Mr. Rasin and that since she no longer had my father she wanted and needed Mr. Rasin to fill the void. Her love for him would not subtract from her love for and her need of me.

Finally I tearfully agreed to the wedding, but I still insisted that I did not see why Mr. Rasin had any right to come and live with us afterwards.

Misleading Picture of Role

The newspaper accounts of the wedding list me as having "attended" my mother. This, however, was a misleading picture of my actual role. More truthfully I was in attendance upon the wedding cake.

While the ceremony was in progress in the parlor I slipped out and made my way to the dining room, where the cake stood unguarded on the table. It was never in my mind, I am sure, to damage the beauty of the cake in the slightest. My only object was to determine the precise location of the ring, the thimble, and the dime.

I had in fact located the thimble and was probing for the dime when there came a gasp from the dining room door through which my mother and new stepfather were leading their guests.

The cake was not exactly a shambles but neither could it be said that its original beauty had survived unmarred; and there was I, caught in the dreadful act.

Then, as I whirled around, a roar of laughter went up and I felt myself being hoisted into the air, almost to the ceiling. Finally I came face to face with a very red and happy Mr. Rasin—and all he did, of course, was to give me a great big kiss.

In time I became fond of Mr. Rasin—I always so addressed him. My mother's life became secure, if not actually serene.

I moved to a boarding school, but in the spring of my first year there the walls of my little castle of contentment were brought tumbling down.

On April 4, 1913, I was called out of the classroom and informed gently that my stepfaher had passed away. The marriage had lasted not quite five years.

Mother Once More on Her Own

My mother moved to a small apartment. We were as hard-pressed as we had ever been, for the income from Mr. Rasin's trust fund no longer came to her after his death.

She was once more on her own.

The thought of going to college never occurred to me—it just didn't exist for girls of my upbringing. Nor did I ever, at what might have been for me a fruitful moment of choice, give a thought to finding a job and earning my own living. Baltimore girls of my generation were not sent to school to learn useful vocational skills.

What, then, was life supposed to hold for us? The answer, in a word, was marriage.

However, before a Baltimore girl could be considered eligible for marriage she had to make her debut. This presented a problem, in view of our straitened circumstances.

Fortunately, Uncle Sol came to the rescue. "Naturally, your mother is making arrangements to bring you out this winter," he said.

"Yes," I answered meekly. "At least she hopes to be able to make the arrangements."

"Good," said Uncle Sol. "I want you to know the kind of life your father would have given you if he had lived. I shall help, of course."

He kissed me on the forehead and pressed something into my hand, something crumpled into a small wad. I dared not open my hand until I was back in the car. There were two ten-dollar bills.

This was the beginning of a strange, intermittent and commendable practice. Whenever Uncle Sol thereafter gave me money, it was usually in that odd way—a small wad pressed into my hand at the moment of parting.

To be presented at the Bachelors' Cotillion was a life-and-death matter for Baltimore girls

Children Rescued From Flaming Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two small children had a narrow escape from death when a neighbor rescued them from a burning car outside his suburban Burnaby home.

Melvin Marshall, 30, heard the terrified screams of the trapped children, Johnny Redekop, 2, and his sister Nina, 1, and pulled them from the smoke-filled car.

Their father, John Redekop, left the children alone in the car across the street from Marshall's home while he went to a nearby house to borrow some tools. He returned only a few minutes later to find the car in flames.

"The children would have died if Mr. Marshall hadn't got to them," said Mr. Redekop. "They could never have opened a door."

He said he did not know the cause of the blaze. "It could have been a short circuit in the ignition wiring or the children may have found some matches in the glove compartment."

CCF Proposes Three Names For Webster Seat

VANCOUVER — George Home, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, Alex. B. MacDonald, lawyer and provincial president of the CCF, and Harold Thayer, provincial CCF secretary and editor of CCF news, have been proposed for nomination as CCF candidate in Vancouver East, the seat formerly held by Arnold Webster, former CCF leader who has retired.

Humidity Critical In B.C. Forests

VANCOUVER (CP)—Warmer weather and lower humidity had forestry officials worried about fire conditions today. There were 107 new fires during the weekend and 26 are still burning, but all except a 2,700-acre blaze on the Sechelt Peninsula 50 miles northwest of here are under control.

A forest official said the humidity had dropped to 35 today. Anything below 30 is considered extremely dangerous.

A Pacific storm is bringing rainy weather to the northern B.C. area, but continued high temperatures are forecast for the southern part of the province.

Wedding Party Kills Three

GUARD FOR QUEEN ENLARGED BY YARD

LONDON (AP)—Three Cypriot gunmen today were reported being hunted by police who have thrown a close guard around the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and other members of the Royal Family.

The trooping of the color ceremony next Thursday, at which the Queen will ride on a horse for an hour in the midst of a large crowd on the Horseguards' parade grounds, is giving police a headache.

Scotland Yard has called many extra policemen from outlying districts for duty at the ceremony. All available central London detectives will be mingling with the throngs.

Extra security precautions were evident when the Queen and her children returned from a holiday in Scotland Sunday.

Spectators were cleared from the platform at Euston station at which their train arrived. There were rain-coated men, on a sunny day, at the station. They were presumed to be security men, with coats covering pistols.

W. A. ROBINSON
... under motion of censure

Government Slows Rush on Pipe Loan

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government retreated in the Commons today under the Opposition's attack on its pipe-

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent announced the government would not force immediate postponement of debate on the remaining clauses of the bill, currently before the House for clause-by-clause study, as it did on the first three clauses last week.

He said the House could debate whatever clauses it wished of the remaining four for the balance of the week.

But a new debate was launched immediately when Opposition leader George Drew moved a motion of censure on House committee chairman William Robinson (L-Simcoe East), who, he said on Friday when Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) was suspended, had lost the confidence of Opposition members.

Fleming returned to his seat in the House just before Prime Minister St. Laurent made his announcement. He was roundly applauded by the Conservative group.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra), who fainted in the parliamentary restaurant Friday night after the strenuous House debate, also returned to his seat today. He was applauded by the Conservatives and a sprinkling of Liberals.

Drew's immediate reaction to Mr. St. Laurent's announcement that debate would be permitted on clauses 4 to 7 of the bill, was one of protest. He said the House should revert to clauses 1 and 2, to make a fresh start on clause-by-clause study.

Mr. St. Laurent said it was the government's intention to postpone debate on the earlier clauses of the bill and debate the clause 4 to 7 because they contained the real meat of the legislation.

LPP PICKET COMMONS

OTTAWA CP)—Some 30 persons today walked a peaceful picket (line in front of the Parliament Buildings to protest the government's natural gas pipeline legislation.

The only member of parliament who apparently took notice of the placard-carrying marchers from the Labor-Progressive Communist party was Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William.

He came out of the Parliament Buildings, looked at the picket line and shouted, "Hurray for the Liberals" and "Hurrah for C. D. Howe."

"Take another drink," shouted one of the marchers.

Communists Lose Ground In Italy Vote

ROME (UP)—Italy's Communist party, the biggest in the free world, suffered losses today in the first returns from Italy's nationwide local elections.

Premier Antonio Segni's Christian Democratic party, the pro-western group that has governed Italy through the postwar struggle against Fascism and Communism, took heart from the early but conclusive returns.

A big turnout among the 30,000,000 eligible men and women voting in the west's first big test of the Kremlin's "smile offensive," encouraged Democratic parties which had feared Democratic apathy would give the local posts to the Communists.

But apparently the Communist party was undermined by Moscow's flip-flop on Josef Stalin, for early returns showed Democratic gains.

It was too early for any cheering by the west. Voting continued today and there were no results from the major icties' tight races.

City administrations were at stake in such major cities as Rome, Turin, Genoa, Milan, Venice, Trieste, Bologna, Florence, Leghorn, Naples and Bari. A total of 7,141 communities or districts in 79 provinces was involved.

Pupkowski Ordered to Essondale

The B.C. Cabinet today ordered that Czeslaw Pupkowski, charged with murder and committed for trial in Victoria April 19, be removed from Oakalla Prison to the provincial mental hospital at Essondale. Pupkowski was charged after he was pulled from the sea after attempting suicide. His wife's beaten body was found in their James Bay Home.

The Cabinet said that satisfactory evidence that Pupowski is "mentally ill" had been submitted.

Speaker Ready To Answer Opposition

OTTAWA (BUP) — Speaker Rene Beaudoin told the Commons today he was willing to submit his record in the speakership to a House committee composed entirely of opposition MPs.

He suggested that the novel committee, with no government supporters on it, be under the chairmanship of Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre), party whip and rules expert.

Beaudoin said that during the weekend he had reviewed all the rulings he had made since the pipeline debate started, and found them all correct, with two minor exceptions. One was a ruling supporting a motion by opposition leader George Drew to divide the bill into two bills, and one was a ruling allowing Knowles to move the adjournment of the House, although he believed at the time that the motion was out of order.

He said a motion to adjourn the House was always in order.

New H-Bomb Blast?

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists announced their instruments indicated the United States set off another hydrogen blast at Bikini today, comparable in power to the mighty May 21 H-bomb explosion.

Mishaps Kill 42 in Canada

By the Canadian Press

Fort-two Canadians died accidentally during the weekend, 20 in traffic mishaps and 14 by drowning.

A Canadian Press survey shows from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday 20 persons died in Ontario, seven in Quebec, seven in British Colubia, four in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, and one each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Four men were drowned in British Columbia when their boat overturned in the Squamish river. Another drowning and two traffic deaths boosted B.C.'s toll to seven. (See Page 11.)

Swiss Match Hillary

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Swiss mountaineering teams have made an unprecedented grand slam by twice climbing Everest — world's tallest peak conquered but once before by a British team in 1953—and reaching the summit of neighboring Lhotse, a Nepalese government spokesman announced.

The announcement said the first pair of Swiss climbers to win victory were Ernest Reiss and Fritz Luchsinger, who climbed to the summit of 27,890 - foot "Lhotse One" May 18.

Following this success, climbers Ernst Schmied and Jurg Marjet toiled up the winding ice-strewn trail which Sir Edmund Hillary and his Sherpa guide, Tensing, followed just three years earlier to pin the Swiss flag to the top of the world's highest mountain May 23.

A day later another team of Swiss climbers—Adolf Reist and Hands Rudolf von Gunten—fought their way through low clouds to Everest's summit, the announcement said.

"All members of the Swiss team are proud and happy," the Nepalese spokesman reported.

BUSY SEASON

Only the Argentine team attempting to climb the 26,810-foot Mount Dhaykagiri in central Nepal is still in the field.

There has been no report from South American climbers for one month.

The Swiss success, together with the Japanese expedition's double successful assault on Manaslu peak —which previously was unclimbed —May 9 and May 11, makes the present summer season one of the most successful in modern history of Himalayan climbing.

Albert Eggler, leader of the expedition, said in a message to the Nepal foreign office that the two assaults on Everest were made from the 26,000-foot south col between the two mighty peaks.

Eggler said Luchsinger and Reiss reached the Lhotse summit from Camp Six on the south col, while Schmied, Marmet, Reist and Gunsten climbed Everest from Camp Seven on the south col, which is 26,000 feet high.

The Swiss assault groups climbed 1,890 feet from the barren, windswept south col to conquer Lhotse, and 3,028 feet to reach the summit of Everest.

LONDON (Reuters) — Brigadier Sir John Hunt, leader of the successful 1953 Everest expedition, said today he was "simply delighted" to hear of the Swiss success.

"Please tell them we send tremendous congratulations from all the members of the 1953 British team," Hunt said.

"Only last week we had a reunion in Wales and discussed the Swiss team. We sent them a message wishing them every success."

Pearson Starts Job

OTTAWA (BUP)—External Affairs Mihister Lester B. Pearson will fly to Washington June 9 in his role as a NATO "wise man" to confer with U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, the external affairs department said today.

PROMOTER PUZZLES JORDAN RIVER

40 Loggers Get $250 Each For Staking Mining Claims

BY DON INGHAM

A free-wheeling mining promoter has brought both sudden prosperity and mystery to a group of loggers at Jordan River.

They are not certain of the details of the last 10 days' operations, but they do know that about 40 of them made $250 each for three days' work, and that the benefactor was Peter A. Schwerdt, well known figure in the oil and mining markets of Canada and the United States.

On the Friday before the Victoria Day weekend Mr. Schwerdt "dropped in" to Jordan River in a helicopter chartered from Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. Starting Saturday, he had the whirlybird ferry men in groups of two to a central location beyond Jordan River, where they staked mining claims.

$100 EACH

The work went on for three days, under licences provided for the men by Mr. Schwerdt, and at the conclusion of the operation he paid them $100 each for rights to their claims, and $50 per day for their efforts.

Since eight claims can be staked on one licence, it is estimated Mr. Schwerdt has more than 300 claims in the area, all within about a 15-mile radius of Jordan River. Some are close to the West Coast road, others are in the vicinity of the B.C. Electric storage dam, and some are east of the watershed.

HE HAS IT

When he arrived with his proposition there were some who doubted that Mr. Schwerdt had the wherewithal to back up his ideas, but it was soon found that he was perfectly able financially to do the same thing again next week, and for a good many other weeks if he were so inclined.

The loggers now have their $250 each, which in practically all cases is safely tucked away in a bank account against the likelihood of a forest closure and lack of employment.

The money is doubly pleasing because it is capital gain and not subject to income tax.

And Mr. Schwerdt has 300 claims on—what?

Well, copper has enjoyed a big boom in Canada, and the price of copper is still high. Mr. Schwerdt has been interested in copper prospects before, and it is understood there are a number of expired copper claims in or near the area staked by the Jordan River "miners."

"I had a bit of gambling money and I'm gambling," was the only explanation Mr. Schwerdt would give his parttime helpers.

Well, guess Everest's all ready fer th' real estate men any time now.

* * *

Took a few million years t' make thet gas. Guess it c'd wait another year fer a pipe.

* * *

PRAYER FOR TODAY

FATHER IN HEAVEN, we stand amazed at the design that is evident in all things; the tides that rise and fall with precision; the barn swallow building her nest; the stars in their courses. May these remind us that there is a design also for each of us, a plan for our individual lives; and give us the courage to find and pursue it; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

No Inquest For Frogman, Paper Claims

Court Inquiry Feared by Gov't?

LONDON (Reuters) — A special death certificate is expected to be issued for Lt.-Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, British frogman who disappeared in Portsmouth Harbor near a Russian cruiser, it was reported Sunday.

The Sunday Dispatch says the certificate will "avoid the necessity of the family having to go to court to get him officially presumed dead."

The newspaper adds: "The government wants to hear no more about Crab's activities.

"They fear that a court inquiry, or a body-less inquest, might mean the disclosure of certain facts which they want kept quiet.

"Even if the hearing were in camera, many people would have to be let into the secret how Crabb met his death and it is thought that the fewer people who know the better.

"Crabb's life insurance cannot be collected until he is officially presumed dead. His estate is being wound up and this money is needed to settle a few debts."

Crabb is presumed to have died in Portsmouth harbor at the time Russian naval units were there when Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev visited England.

In a debate in the House of Commons on Crabb's disappearance, the British Labor opposition raised doubts about the efficiency of the secret service. But Prime Minister Eden refused "to say a word more" about the Crabb case.

Sechelt Fire Under Control

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sechelt peninsula forest fire, threatening the logging village of Egmont, is "reasonably under control."

Vancouver district forester, D. B. Taylor, made the report Sunday after an aerial survey of the 2,500-acre fire.

Egmont's 200 residents, including 40 children, were prepared to evacuate by sea Saturday if the flames broke through firelines two miles from the settlement. Two hundred men and 12 bulldozers still are battling the blaze.

Two major fires were reported to have broken out along the right of way of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. At Oenat Poole creek in the Lillooet district 200 acres were aflame. The second fire at Mile 63 covered 125 acres. The fires, 10 miles apart, were being fought by 80 men.

Col. Cy Peck May Not Attend VC Centennial

Col. Cyrus Peck, 85, one of three district holders of the Victoria Cross, may not be able to attend the VC centennial celebrations in London, June 25, it was learned today.

He entered Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney, Thursday, suffering from what was believed to be heart trouble. Hospital authorities today said his condition is "improving."

Original plan was to leave here June 16, and this will still be followed if the colonel has rallied sufficiently by then. Last January he was stricken with pneumonia, but recovered rapidly.

Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, VC, 1254 Lyall, also leaves June 16. He and his wife intend to stay in England until July 20.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, 1268 Tattersal, and Mrs. Pearkes will be going.

HOLIDAY IN AUSTRIA—Wallis Warfield Simpson, left, does calisthenics at Austrian spa. Duke of Windsor's aide-de-camp, Dudley Forwood, acts as instructor. A friend, Mrs. Buist is at right.

. . . DUCHESS

in those days. The invitation list was strictly limited; and, as the board of governors' judgment concerning eligibility carried the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, the issuing of invitations was awaited in a state of suspense bordering on agony.

One morning, the postman put into my hand a large envelope of fine texture that I instantly recognized. I was one of the fortunate 47 invited.

From that moment until the cotillion I was lost to all other earthly considerations.

Looking back upon that season of 1915, and considering that most of us, before long, were to find ourselves classed as the first postwar, or "lost," generation, I am struck by how simple, how decorous, how really calm our lives were.

The word "date" had not then come into vogue; we spoke of "engagements" with boys. On gala occasions we formed theatre parties.

But the usual evening was in a quieter tempo. A boy would telephone to ask whether one would be "home" after dinner. He could usually count upon a fairly breathless affirmative.

The young man would appear about 8 o'clock. There would be an interval of polite conversation with the parents, or, in my case, with my mother. Then the elders would witndraw, leaving the privacy of the living room to the young. But the privacy was only an illusion. Even though out of sight, the older generation hovered vigilantly in hear proximity.

I doubt that any Baltimore girl of my age ever went to a restaurant alone with a boy.

I think today's more natural relationships are far better, but something has been lost. Seldom do I witness nowadays the profound respect that my generation had for our elders.

Late in the winter Corinne Mustin, my cousin Lelia's sister, invited me to visit her at Pensacola, Florida. Her husband, Captain Henry Mustin of the U.S. Navy, had recently been appointed commandant of the new air station there.

The month was April, 1916.

The day after I arrived I wrote my mother a letter beginning: "I have just met the world's most fascinating aviator. . . ."

The fascinating aviator was Lieut. Earl Winfield Spencer. We met casually at lunch.

TUESDAY: Love at First Sight.

'Mile of Pennies' Aim of Drive By Boys' Band

"A boy who blows a horn won't blow a safe,' said John P. Abel, in an appeal to Victorians today to support a campaign to raise money to assist the Victoria Boys' Band.

Mr. Abel, president, said the band Monday will start a house-to-house canvass in the city to raise a "mile of pennies" for the purchase of uniforms and instruments.

The boys will canvass for two weeks, he said.

"The band is not sponsored by or affiliated with any society or other organization," said Mr. Abel. "Your support for this cause is urgently requested."

World Crusade For Peace Urged By Lions' Head

QUEBEC (CP) — International president Humberto Valenzuela of the Lions Clubs said Sunday he would like to see a world peace crusade under taken jointly by all similar service organizations.

Mr. Valenzuela, who has been visiting 65 of the 75 countries where there are Lions Clubs, said in an interview he would like to make a suggestion to the international bureau of Lions Clubs at its next assembly in Miami, June 27-30.

The Santiago, Chile, man said he has been struck by the number of soldiers and war weapons he has seen "in a world which aspires towards peace at any price."

"However, there is the arms race in the Arab world . . . what I saw in Egypt made a particular impression on me.

"I cannot understand that all these countries that wish for peace can arm in the manner of Egypt, for example, and all the Middle East countries.

Wild Mob Pulls French Troops From Train

Protest Recalls For Algeria Service

ST. NAZAIRE, France (AP) —A mob of about 1,500 men stormed through police lines today and carried home in triumph a group of reservists who were scheduled to leave by train for service in Algeria.

A force of about 1,000 mobile guards and special riot police, swinging gunbutts and clubs was unable to check the demonstrators' march on the railway station in this heavy Communist seaport and shipbuilding town. Tear gas and practice grenades also were used in vain.

The mob threw anything within reach at the police—stones, iron bars and heavy bolts. Several persons were injured on both sides.

About 200 reservists were on the train, due to leave for the Mediterranean at noon.

LEAVE JOBS

The protest started off with about 300 persons swarming over the railway tracks and around the station, and swelled rapidly as workers left their jobs in metal working plants and in the construction industry at the call of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail.

The non-Communist unions did not order their men to join in the walkout but expressed sympathy with the reservists recalled to active duty.

Demonstrations against sending troops to Algeria have been increasing. A train between Bourg Saint Maurice and Chambery in the French Alps was delayed for 40 minutes Sunday. The demonstration ended when it was learned no recalled soldiers were on the train.

While the fighting at St. Nazaire was still in progress, the reservists left the railroad station to go home. Demonstrators picked them up and carried them on their shoulders.

Word passed through this city that similar action might be taken later today at Nantes. A big force of policeman was on duty around the station at Nantes.

Mrs. Grace Dawe Succumbs in City

Mrs. Grace Dawe, 1564 Rockland, a resident of Victoria since 1912, died Thursday in the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was the widow of Rev. William Henry Dawe, former curate of Christ Church Cathedral. There is no immediate family in Victoria.

Funeral will be held Monday, with the cortege leaving Hayward's Chapel at 1.25 p.m. for Christ Church Cathedral, where Very Rev. Dean Brian Whitlow will officiate at 1.30. Cremation will follow.

Mrs. Dawe was born in England but lived much of her life in Victoria.

She was a member of B.C. Electric Quarter Century Club and BCE Retired Employees' Association, and for many years served actively in Christ Church Women's Auxiliary.

PICKED OUT OF TRASH CAN

Policemen Breathe Life Into Abandoned Infant

NEW YORK (UP)—Two policemen saved a new-born baby, abandoned in a trash can, from death Sunday by breathing life into his fragile body.

Paul Llorens, superintendent of a dingy Harlem tenement, discovered the infant crammed into a rubbish can beneath a stairway.

Llorens called police and patrolmen Paul Gottlieb and Dennis Healy raced to the building.

The body of the hours-old infant was cold when they arrived. His face was blue from suffocation and his umbilical cord was tangled around his tiny throat, cutting off his breath.

Healy disentangled the cord and massaged the baby's chest.

They tried to tie the cord to stem the bleeding, but had no string so Gottlieb pulled two parking tickets from his pocket, tore the twine from them and stemmed the flow of blood.

Then the two officers took turns breathing into the baby's mouth. Perspiration covered their faces as they grimly blew life into the fragile body. They heard a sound.

"The baby started to cry and then we knew we had him," Gottlieb said.

An ambulance summoned by Gottlieb finally arrived, and by that time the child was crying loudly.

Doctors put the baby on the incubator and said he was in "very good condition" today.

Each of the policeman has two children.

New Flood Crest Menaces Creston

Kootenay Town Reinforces Dikes; Fraser Valley Situation Easier

CRESTON (BUP)—Waters of the surging Kootenay River were at the critical level of 23½ feet at Creston Sunday night with apparently a higher crest to come.

Trucks hauled dirt all day yesterday to reinforce the dikes, which were constantly patrolled by men and periodically inspected from the air.

With no sign of a letup in the hot weather, opinions vary as to when the Kootenay will crest.

At Cranbrook, cooler nights have lowered the levels of roaring streams, and the situation is eased, although the emergency is not yet considered over.

A close watch is being maintained on stretches of highway threatened by floods, but it is no longer necessary for the public works department to tow cars through 18 inches of water in the Yahk district.

The usual high water period in the Cranbrook area is the first week in June, and there is still a good deal of snow to come down.

Meanwhile, the flood threat with the Fraser River at Mission has passed for the present.

The river dropped a further two inches in the past 24 hours.

Tickets for the Velda Willie "Maytime Revue," sponsored by Esquimalt Chapter, IODE, may be obtained at the Royal Theatre tonight, prior to the performance at 8 p.m.

ISLAND HIGHWAY CHECK REJECTS HALF OF CARS

NANAIMO (BUP)—Almost half the cars checked over the weekend by Nanaimo and District Traffic and Safety Association were rejected because of faults and the drivers will likely receive check-up slips from police this week.

The voluntary check preceded an official compulsory RCMP check which began this morning and will continue until Thursday.

Check-up slips require a car owner to have faults in his auto repaired and then report back to police for confirmation.

'Down on Ice Field' Radios Missing Pilot

WINNIPEG (CP) — A third SOS signal and terse message, "down on an icefield," strengthened the hope Sunday that a pilot missing nine days in the Arctic barrens about 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg was safe.

RCAF headquarters at Winnipeg reported indications were the signals, picked up at 5.25 a.m. Sunday by a marine radio station on Nottingham Island, came from C. C. Crossley. The 60-year-old pilot from Toronto has been missing since May 19 on a flight from a secret DEW-line site to Churchill, Man. No other planes are known to be missing in the area.

The messages were garbled, but a bearing indicated the pilot's position was near Sturges Island, northwest of Southampton Island and between Southampton and Melville peninsula.

THREE SEARCHERS

Three RCAF aircraft operating out of Coral Harbor were expected to investigate the latest report.

Two other planes, a Lancaster from Torbay, Nfld., and a Canso from Vancouver, were scheduled to join the search Sunday.

Two SOS signals were picked up Saturday but search planes failed to find any trace of the missing pilot when they scoured the area Saturday night after being grounded by a low ceiling most of the day.

'Copter Rescues Injured Climber

Woman Falls on Mount Seymour, Flown to Lawn of Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 29-year-old Edmonton woman was in "satisfactory condition" in hospital today following an alpine accident and a helicopter rescue on the steep slopes of Mount Seymour Sunday.

Mrs. Olive Bavins, a resident of Vancouver for only three weeks, fell 100 feet down the sheer side of a cliff Sunday and then tumbled into a 20-foot fissure.

She was rescued by a twin-rotored RCAF helicopter which took her from the accident scene to the lawn of Shaughnessy Military Hospital.

Mrs. Bavins was with a party climbing at about the 4,500-foot level of the craggy peak when she lost her footing and plummeted down the snow-covered cliff.

Helpless members of the party, including her husband, watched her fall into the fissure after tumbling down the cliff.

The climbers worked their way down to Mrs. Bavins but were unable to get her out of the deep crack in the snow.

Vancouver's volunteer mountain emergency squad and the RCAF were called in.

The big Piasecki, with a medical officer aboard, landed at the 4,700-foot level.

Emergency squad and ski patrol members lifted Mrs. Bavins from the fissure, strapped her on a toboggan and then carried her to the helicopter.

About 10 minutes after the 'copter lifted from the peak it sat down at Shaughnessy 20 miles away.

U.K. COMET TO RUSSIA

LONDON (AP)—Britain disclosed Sunday it will send a new Comet jetliner to Moscow next month to carry British air chiefs in eye-catching style to the Soviet air show. The new Comet is an advanced version of the ill-fated airliner abandoned by Britain after a series of crashes in 1954.

6 Years, 18,000 Miles On Visit to Parents

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Maj. Adrian Hayter, 36, arrived Sunday "to see my parents"—after a six-year trip covering 18,000 miles in the tiny yawl Sheila II.

Troubled by unfavorable winds and running out of food, he spent 78 days crossing the Tasman sea from Perth, Australia, on the last lap of the marathon voyage from England.

Hayter steered his storm-battered, nine-ton craft into Westport river, on the west coast of South island, Sunday morning. He was three weeks overdue.

Six Inches of Rain Fall Within 3 Hours

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — A thunderstorm drenched northern Acukland with six inches of rain in three hours Saturday night, causing an estimated £500,000 worth of damage to buildings, roads and bridges in the area.

PROPOSAL REJECTED—A proposal by Montreal financier Lloyd C. Champion to build the proposed 2,200-mile Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline without federal assistance has been given a cold shoulder by the government. Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Mr. Champion's plan has been placed before the cabinet.

Big Congregation Attends Ordination

In the presence of one of the largest congregations seen this year in Christ Church Cathedral Archbishop Sexton Sunday pronounced the sacred words which made Richard Newton Mugford a deacon and elevated Rev. William John Lunny and Rev. John Cameron McDonald from the diaconate to the priesthood.

In the procession, which was more than twice the length of the nave, the vested choir of Queen Margaret's Girls' School, Duncan, had a place.

The young choristers had sung in Victoria before and were heard in the Sunday afternoon program, Church of the Air, in which they and Archbishop Sexton were heard all across Canada two weeks ago.

The big congregation included 400 who had come to the city from Lake Cowichan, where Mr. Lunny ministered for the past year. The girl choristers were also passengers on the special train.

Mr. Mugford, a native son of Victoria, will serve as an assistant at the cathedral during the summer months, and in the autumn will return to the Anglican Theological College, University of B.C.

Mr. Lunny will return to serve at Lake Cowichan, and Mr. McDonald will be at St. John's Church, Victoria.

Tories 'Crusade for Democracy' In Commons, Drew Tells Party

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — George Drew, national Progressive Conservative party leader, said Saturday the rights of the Canadian people are being challenged by the federal government.

He said the Liberal administration has grown contemptuous of these rights and that the opposition in the House of Commons now is on a crusade for democracy.

In reference to the tumultous happenings in the Commons last week during debate on the controversial trans - Canada pipeline issue, the opposition leader said:

"The opposition is the most important part of Parliament. It is what differentiates our government from a dictatorship. The existence of the opposition is the hallmark of democracy. This now has become a crusade for democracy."

RIGHTS CHALLENGED

Mr. Drew, speaking to a meeting of the Simcoe East Progressive Conservative Association, added:

"The rights of the Canadian people are being challenged today by the government, which has been long in power and has grown contemptuous of the rights of the representatives, who have been sent to Ottawa by the people."

He said the issue is broader than the financing of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. It involved all of Canada's national resources.

Mr. Drew said he believes in United States investment in this country but added that all natural resources should be examined carefully so the benefits could go to Canadians.

The Commons dispute stems from the government's bill to speed construction of a 2,200-mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec. The government plans temporary financing of two major parts of the $375,000,000.

Mr. Drew said his party objects to the method of financing the pipeline because Canadians must finance the line for a company that is "83 per cent United States owned," and not because "we don't want natural gas in eastern Canada."

He said Trans - Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., was granted a charter because it said it could build and finance the pipeline with its own money and without government assistance.

"Imagine an American representative going to Congress and asking the United States to finance a Canadian company building a pipeline in the U.S. He would be laughed out of Washington. These people should be laughed out of Canada."

Back to Diplomacy

CANADA AND THE UNITED States are evidently beginning the most important negotiations on their joint business since the abortive Reciprocity agreement of 1911.

A dispute on the Columbia River has broadened out into a general discussion of all rivers flowing across the international boundary, and especially the Yukon, which rises in British Columbia. The official statement issued by the Governments in Ottawa and Washington even indicates that the treaty of 1909 under which all former arguments have been settled, may have to be revised.

All this results from the decision to remove the question of the Columbia's future use from the International Joint Commission on Boundary Waters. The Canadian and American representatives on the Commission being deadlocked, the two national Governments will attempt to solve the Columbia problem by direct diplomatic discussions.

In one sense this is a retrograde and regrettable step.

The whole purpose of the existing treaty was to detach the administration of international rivers from the sphere of politics, to place it under a non-partisan tribunal and to surround it with an established code of law.

The Laurier Government desired this system because in various diplomatic encounters with the United States—notably the Alaska boundary dispute — Canadian interests had usually suffered. Now we seem to be returning to the old method of negotiation in which local politics and diplomatic pressure will be unavoidable.

On the other hand, the arrangements presently under way may offer Canada its first opportunity to repair the grievous damage of the Alaska boundary award.

Under that decision the Canadian north was cut off from the Pacific by the Panhandle and the United States seemed to have secured everything it wanted.

In those days the United States did not realize the value of the Yukon River, which Canada controls. When American interests sought to divert the headwaters of the Yukon through the Panhandle, to power a gigantic aluminium industry at tidewater, Canada rejected this scheme and it collapsed. Now the people of Alaska are so anxious to secure the industry that they appear willing to grant Canada a corridor across the Panhandle and a seaport.

Since Canada also controls the headwaters of the Columbia it obviously possesses large bargaining counters and will use them in the new negotiations. The possibility of a settlement on both rivers, satisfactory to both nations, is rapidly emerging.

But there will be no final bargaining until after the American election of November and the Canadian election, whenever it takes place. Neither Government wishes to plunge these complex and delicate matters into a political campaign.

There can be no long delay, however. Canada will need power from the Columbia as soon as it can be developed, and its development will require at least ten years, perhaps longer. By that time the metropolitan area around Vancouver—and probably Vancouver Island which will be using mainland power—may well face the danger of a power shortage.

Canada's interests in the negotiations now beginning are wide and varied—the use of Columbia power on the coast; compensation for the downstream benefits created in the United States by Canadian dams upstream; and the chance to break through the barrier of the Panhandle and thus develop the north.

Union Without Pressure?

IN AN ADDRESS LAST FRIDAY President Eisenhower declared that that dream of centuries, the union of the countries of Europe, is closer today than it ever has been.

This may well be true, but it is a comparative assessment, not an absolute one. There are still many apparently insuperable obstacles to a genuine European union—political, economic, military, social. Time and continuing effort may yet find solutions to these problems, but another fundamental factor remains.

Perhaps the most powerful impetus toward unity in any group, whether of individuals or nations, is provided by outside threat. Throughout history fear of aggression has forced co-operation on otherwise individualistic countries, often at the cost of relinquishing a measure of sovereignty.

An outside threat is a cohesive force, and since the end of the Second World War it has been exerted or western Europe by Communist Russia. This has driven the western European peoples to seek some form of group safety. The European Defence Community was such a project, yet it was not achieved because of the failure of the member states, particularly France, to resolve their internal difficulties.

Western European Union is another attempt to achieve the same goal. Yet even while Stalinism and the heavy fist were still dominant Russian policies, WEU did not have much practical effect on international affairs.

Now that Soviet policy has taken a new turn by adopting friendly co-existence, trade and diplomatic manoeuvring in place of military pressures, the consequences are being felt in western Europe. There is less anxiety, less tendency to look fearfully eastward, and less enthusiasm for close unions with neighboring states.

Even NATO is having difficulty in achieving its military quotas as the warming smiles from the Kremlin melt western fears.

Because of this, some cohesive force other than outside threat must be found. For even though the outside threat still remains—and this is the opinion of such men as External Affairs Minister Pearson—it is less evident today. The easing of tension has masked the danger.

A positive force may be found in the need of every nation for better trade relations with others, for easier cultural, scientific and social intercourse. Through such a need European union, like NATO, may find new life, but it will need the aid of time and the growing enlightenment of the twentieth century.

When and if it comes it will provide, in the words of President Eisenhower, "bright promise for the future of our European friends and for the growth of strength and liberty." But it is not likely to come of its own momentum. It will require long preparation and determined effort.

Drugs and the Death Penalty

WHILE A SPECIAL COMMITtee in Ottawa studies capital punishment, the U.S. Senate judiciary committee has unanimously decided to recommend that the death penalty be an optional punishment for habitual dope peddlers.

The American decision is impressive. It reflects the repugnance of most decent people to the man who, trafficking in drugs illegally, also traffics in human souls.

Yet the application of the death penalty for that offence will not be universally endorsed. An Oregon newspaper discusses the situation. Admitting the need for stiff penalties to discourage illegal narcotics' sales, it suggests the death penalty might have the opposite effect.

Where a penalty is extreme, it points out, juries may be inclined to acquit rather than convict, not on the basis of evidence, but in consideration of the consequences of their verdicts.

Once a prisoner has been executed, no review of his case, no presentation of new testimony, no correction of error can renew his life.

Apply stern and just penalties to the dope peddler, says the Oregon newspaper, but not so harsh that they defeat themselves.

The argument deserves consideration by the Canadian committee studying the broader question.

The Absentee

FROM ALL THE POLITICAL controversy at Ottawa and in three provincial election campaigns one issue is notably absent. No politician, so far as we know, is attacking the Federal Government's recent taxation offer to the provinces. The famous Plan C, which was expected to be a major subject of controversy, is never mentioned in the current debate.

Premier Frost, of Ontario, attacked this policy when it was announced and predicted that it would prove to be the nation's ruin. After one angry utterance he has fallen silent.

Premier Bennett went to the last federal-provincial conference breathing fire and demanding huge tax concessions, which he didn't get. He returned full of sweetness and light, proclaiming an era of goodwill between Victoria and Ottawa.

Even in the present Quebec election Premier Duplessis has failed so far to revive his old cry of autonomy and to denounce the greedy national Government.

Plan C, in fact, has dropped clean out of sight, for the time being anyway. It must represent a pretty fair settlement between the federal and provincial treasuries when no one is even interested in discussing it.

Keep Up the Good Work

May I through your paper congratulate those who were responsible for, and who did such a wonderful job on the activities of the past few days.

There has been some talk of this being the last year of parade and other activities. I think this would be a great pity. When a person sees the joy and happiness on the part of those who see very little of the enjoyment of this life, those who are shut in etc. it really makes it worthwhile to put a great deal of time and effort into the celebration.

Then too, children always get great enjoyment out of these things. Do keep up the good work.

L. M. STROUD.

Non-Partisan

My attention has been drawn to a letter published in the Times and written by one, Ronald M. Grant, who states "he has been the recipient of much comment" because Councillor J. Ronald Grant states "he, Reeve Ash and others were doing their best to inject the philosophy of Liberalism in municipal politics." It will be noted that Ronald M. Grant slyly omits quoting Councillor J. Ronald Grant in full, i.e., after the word "politics" he did not include the words "without being partisan."

While everyone has a right to an opinion, publicly or otherwise, may I state as one who has held public office for fifteen years, mostly municipal affairs, I have never at any time attempted to inject party politics into municipal affairs, nor have I ever been accused of doing so.

During my term of office I shall endeavor to keep our Saanich affairs on a non-partisan basis as they should be.

For the edification of Ronald M. Grant, a liberal is defined as being generous, free of narrow views, an advocate of freedom, an attitude of mind. No party or individual can ever claim a monopoly on liberalism.

ARTHUR J. R. ASH.

On to Ottawa

Some years ago when the Republicans were searching through the highways and byways of the U.S. for a platform which would enable them to beat the Democrats and get back into office, they were likened to a "blind dog in a butcher shop searching for meat." The present attitude of the Conservative party in Canada seems to present an exact parallel to that of the Republicans.

To those who are free from partisan loyalties and prejudice the position of the Conservative party is seen as quite hopeless. They would be well advised to adopt the policy of the old Tammany Hall politician who said "if you can't lick em, join em." After all if they have any serious policies and ideals which they cherish, their weight could be brought to bear in any party they did join.

The root of the quarrel between the Liberals and the Conservatives is the ancient grudge which separates Quebec and Ontario. The time is long overdue when a solid block of Social Credit federal members should be sent to Ottawa from western Canada. They would bring a breath of fresh air into the tedious debates which stem from the mutual animosities of the two largest provinces in Canada.

Four million Canadians live west of the great lakes and they have problems which will never be solved by the futile bickering which has been poisoning public life in Canada for generations.

CHIPS — By DAVID BROCK

A Hobby of Establishing Precedents

LAST week I said something about that old-fashioned character, the briefless barrister. I spoke a bit too soon. No sooner had the words been printed than I picked up The Sunday Times (London) of April 29 and read that the barristers and solicitors of England had never had it so tough. People in England are just not suing each other any more. Not on the scale they used to sue each other, anyhow. Of course, what seems like only a little suing in England might seem like a lot in Philadelphia, or some other centre of brotherly love. But compared to what it used to be, English litigation is in a dreadful slump.

Brock

ONLY about a hundred people a month are asking for state-subsidized lawsuits (legal aid) in the county courts of England and Wales. Of 15 new county court judgeships created to deal with an expected boom in litigation, only one appointment has been made. Only half as many Q.C.'s have been designated as last year. In the Chancery division, lawyers say the slump is the worst for 30 years.

"Solicitors, too, are feeling the pinch," says The Sunday Times. "They explain that former clients have suddenly become non-litigious. And there are no new ones to take their place."

Maybe the English are eating the wrong breakfast foods. All the fight's gone out of them. They are losing the old zip. Time was, and not so long ago, when the English would sue each other as a sport, a hobby, a duty, a form of the old duelling punctilio, a gesture of independence, and even as a method of communication.

IF two Englishmen were too shy or stubborn to speak to each other, they could always sue each other instead, and their lawyers would get together, and in that way a sort of bond was established.

It is true that a good lawyer will do his best to keep his client out of court, in England or anywhere else. Particularly if the case involves the vagaries of the law of libel, or some such tricky matter. But not every lawyer is a good lawyer. Besides, while there may be one or two reasons for staying out of court, there may also be five or six reasons for climbing right in. And if the law seems uncertain, or even unknown, in a particular set of circumstances, it may be a citizen's pleasant duty to go and ask a court to make a guess, and hang the expense. They say hard cases make bad law, and I dare say this is true, but unique cases make interesting law.

WHEN I was young my family lived on the edge of Jericho Beach, which was then outside Vancouver in Point Grey but is now part of Vancouver. The tidal currents used to build the beach up, so that our property was slowly increasing. But then the RCAF, to the west of us, changed the currents, what with dredging and with various fences and ramps running down into the water, and in our opinion it was the RCAF which caused our property to start growing smaller instead of bigger. An English judge was staying with us and he was fascinated by the legal aspect of this affair. He said that while there are plenty of cases on altering fresh-water currents, he couldn't recall any on altering tidal currents in the sea itself. He begged and implored us to sue the government. We reminded him that we would have to get permission to sue the Crown; that you can't predict the outcome of cases like this; and that the cost to ourselves might be terrible.

HE was shocked by our attitude. What did money matter in an interesting case like this? He somehow made us feel like wet blankets, spoilsports, ignoramuses, and bad citizens. And if a judge can so easily become excited about an interesting case, just think how it must appear to a lawyer who has a chance to be right in the thick of it . . . at what one might call the thick end of the stick.

It is against the law for a lawyer to go round stirring up lawsuits . . . this sort of naughtiness is called barratry. It is also against the law for him to dabble in champertous agreements . . . champerty means (among other things) his making a speculative deal with his client, whereby if successful he may share the spoils. But there is nothing wrong with a kind of intellectual barratry and champerty . . . an academic interest in getting the law settled by means of court cases.

IF I were rich, and had a legal mind, and were English, I would make a hobby of going round provoking leading cases . . . cases to establish precedents where none existed before. This would not be barratry, but Good Citizenship.

People would say "You see that man over there? That's Dave Brock, the Good Citizen of 1951-52-53-54-55-56. He has provoked over 650 leading cases in six years. Thanks to his implacable spirit, awkward questions, and total lack of compromise and forbearance, we have cleared up hundreds of points of law. Thanks to his lawsuits, we now know, for example, that the Communist Party was always illegal in Canada; that no news photographer has a right to take and sell pictures of dead bodies; and that traffic police who exceed the speed limit three times must lose their drivers' licences, and thereafter chase cars on foot."

I SAID "if I were English." But the news says the English have lost interest in suing each other. I always said the drug of tolerance would be the ruin of us all, and be used as a mask for a hundred lazy faults. I was almost the first man who said it. But I will not be the last. Like many other drugs, tolerance can be a wonderful thing, full of virtues. But you've got to know when and how to use it. You mustn't let this dope make you comfortably fat-headed. It is far better to let the lawyers grow fat than let your mind grow fat.

FROM ARNPRIOR, ONT. — By ART STOTT

Something Can Be Done Even if the Bomb Falls

(Last of three articles on the Civil Defence newsmen's conference.)

IN the closing phases of their Civil Defence conference at Arnprior, newsmen from all parts of Canada directed sharp questions and criticism at C.D. leaders there. The tone of the exchanges was significant. It showed that the assembled press, radio and television people had not come prepared to accept unconditionally the basic theories of Civil Defence planners.

Stott

But it was matched by a more positive reaction. When they had heard the lectures, fired their questions, seen the demonstrations of C.D. work and considered the planning, the newsmen left with the conviction that something could be done to defend civil populations from atomic weapons dropped on Canada.

Constructive Result

That, probably, was the most constructive result of the conference. An earlier sense of fatalism, a prevailing hopelessness in the face of the new instruments of destruction, was counter-balanced.

The newsmen left Arnprior with the conviction, in most cases, that the people of Canada's target cities need not be wiped out in entire communities if nuclear war broke out.

The changed attitude was a tribute to the effectiveness of speakers, their frank discussion of problems and refusal to minimize dangers, to the excellent illustrations of survival training techniques, and to the outline of plans already made to protect Canadians from the new type of warfare.

Those who lectured and those who carried other parts of the conference were top-level experts, from Mr. F. F. Worthington down. (The Mr. supplants "Major-General" as Civil Defence in Canada tries to de-emphasize the military rank of its personnel.)

Outstanding Men

The Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare, under whose jurisdiction Civil Defence falls, opened the conference, talking freely of Canada's planning. Mr. G. S. Hatton, deputy civil defence co-ordinator (again the "General" has been dropped) was lucid in his discussion of proposed federal policy. Dr. E. E. Massey, scientific advisor, made the effects of the new weapons understandable in layman's terms. J. F. "Jack" Wallace, acting-commandant at the college, who was born at Victoria's St. Joseph's Hospital while his parents lived at Work Point, and who lost a leg when a German shell penetrated his tank near Ortona, faced facts and answered questions without evasion.

Air Commodore E. M. Reyno, deputy commander of Air Defence Command (D.N.D.) defined precisely the air defence and radar network thrown up to meet enemy attack.

Rounded Picture

All down the line high level personnel was employed to give a rounded picture of the over-all plans laid for protection of the people.

Beyond that newsmen saw a demonstration 200-bed mobile hospital unit bought from the United States and presumably due for use in Canadian target areas.

The equipment was surprising—200 beds, three operating rooms, an X-ray department, pharmacy, stores, shock-treatment centre, convalescent quarters and those multitudes of instruments and pieces of equipment needed to save life. This can be carried in a big trailer and set up in schools, complete with its own water system and portable generator. And the cost per 200 bed unit is under $30,000.

The newsmen saw rescue techniques in rubble-strewn areas, stretcher drills with patients lowered from high buildings, clean-up work with chain saws and acetylene cutters to remove heavy debris from victims, casualty treatment centres, fire-fighting equipment, testing devices for radioactivity, and different types of shelters that will still be used to give protection against radioactive fall-out.

They heard experts describe the part the forces will play in supplementing Civil Defence work, the methods to be followed by health services, the division of finances and authority between different levels of government, federal to municipal.

And from John Huber, Director of Emergency Operations for the United States Federal Civil Defence Administration, they learned of plans to use Civil Defence organization and facilities for natural disasters.

Peacetime Disasters

On this continent, C.D. is still primarily concerned with saving life and maintaining morale so that government can continue in the event of attack. At the same time and newsmen were impressed by the point—agencies created by it can serve highly valuable purposes in the case of floods, big fires, hurricanes and other "acts of God."

Civil Defence has given such service in particular cases both in Canada and the United States.

No one at Arnprior suggested that perfection had been reached in planning for disaster. It hasn't and it never will be, partly because the nature of the disaster cannot be foretold in detail.

But of major importance to the people of Canada is the fact that action is being taken to meet emergencies.

This is not the action of self-important people going busily about haphazard, ill-considered activities. It is hard-headed planning.

The Work Goes On

Courses in specialized work are continuing at Arnprior. Different groups from various parts of Canada are being taught how to cope with problems that the disruption of their cities will create.

The recent conference stressed use of a familiar statement aimed at apathy and the belief that there is little chance of one particular community being hit. "It can happen here," members of the group argued.

Governments at different levels, federal, provincial and municipal, have given varying degrees of leadership to protect civilian populations. Ultimately, of course, the responsibility rests with the civilians themselves. They can help to discharge it by finding out for themselves what is expected of them and what they can do if it does "happen here."

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK — By RUTH ENKE

Bingo

I DON'T think I shall have time to go to the next Big Bingo Night at the Arena, because June is a very busy month on a farm and I have more than enough on my hands already.

But I thoroughly enjoyed the first Bingo Night the Kinsmen Club put on.

Ruth

I enjoyed watching the efficient handling of so many people, and thinking about crowd psychology and human nature and the gambling instinct.

I especially enjoyed dreaming about what I'd do with the power mower, the movie camera and the car I was all set to win.

I also enjoyed the people near me.

* * *

The unknown man in the seat next to mine had been brought up on a farm near Regina. He sure wouldn't have missed that training for the world, he said, and he knew just what his kids were missing by being brought up in the city. We talked about the people he'd recently visited in Seattle. They had a lovely home, he said, and a dandy car and the latest model of everything. But not a thing was paid for, he found out. All of it was bought on time. He didn't go for that, he said. It seemed all wrong to him.

The girl on the other side of me worked in an office. She wanted to win the electric stove, she said. She was going to give it to her mother, because her mother sure could use a new stove instead of the old one they'd got. And she could just imagine her mother's face when she said, "Mum, I've won a brand new stove for us!"

The woman behind me came from a logging community up-island. A solid woman. She was solid in body and solid in common sense. Her children were grown up and gone, she said. Two sons were studying to be doctors, and the girl was training to be a nurse.

If I know anything of women—and I do—that woman was capable, practical, kindly and a hard worker. I bet she's always shopped shrewdly and bought wisely. I bet she's a fine member of her community.

And I'd just like to know how, in the name of Fortune, a few Bingo Games are going to hurt the "moral health" of people like these.

I don't want to pick on the United Church particularly, because I know so many fine people who belong to it.

But I hate this wholesale condemnation of drinking, smoking and gambling. For, to my mind, none of these activies is wrong in itself. They are only foolish and wrong if they are carried to excess.

The man or woman who drinks too much is obviously a mess. But the fault lies with the individual. It does NOT lie with the drink.

But, because some people drink to excess, are we to forbid drinking to everyone?

If some people gamble to the point of harming their families are we to stop everyone from gambling?

If that's the line of reasoning, then, because some people are dangerous the moment they get behind the wheel of a car, are we to stop the sale of cars?

To carry the argument one step further towards absurdity, let's argue that because some people are positively piggish over sex, then we must obviously frown upon all sexual activity and put a stop to it.

I'm not trying to be nasty about this. But I just don't understand the logic of the Church's objection to bingo games. And I hate not being able to understand.

* * *

I simply know that, as an average woman, I was quite happy to pay out two bucks to charity and, at the same time, to buy myself a very remote chance of winning a lovely prize.

Actually, I was buying myself a little bit of hope and a spell of dreaming about what I'd do with the lovely prize I didn't win.

I'd be willing to agree that we make certain that the net proceeds of such games go to bona-fide charities, and NOT to private interests.

I'd be willing to have bingo games limited to a certain number per year, or stopped for a time after the public has raised so many thousand dollars in a single fiscal year.

But to stop them altogether on the grounds of "moral health" wouuld make me really fighting mad.

I like my little bit of hope and dreaming. And, if you ask me, so did the 7,000-odd other contestants who went to the Bingo Game.

If you ask me, their "moral health" didn't slip so much as a single notch!

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A Cure for Bowlegs

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation

Every so often persons ask if anything could be done to straighten their bowlegs. Yes; sometimes much can be done to help the situation. I was just talking to my good friend, Dr. James Stack of Chicago, who tells me that, especially when the bowed legs are associated with some arthritis and bad strains in the knee joints or ankle joints, an orthopedist can operate. He can take a little wedge out of the leg bone that is most badly bowed, and in this way, to a large extent, he can straighten the leg.

Dr. Alvarez

Years ago I saw a lovely Mexican girl who, when thrown from a horse, had the bone in one thigh broken. It was so badly set by the country physician that later, in Mexico City, it was rebroken and reset by a surgeon. Again the result was bad and by now the girl's thigh was badly bowed and one extremity was shortened by 2½ inches. My friend, Dr. Ralph Ghormley, made a slanting cut through the bone so that the lower fragment could be pulled down past the upper so as to restore the proper length of the limb. He straightened the bone and wired the two fragments firmly together. The girl recovered with a perfect result.

Years ago, hundreds or thousands of people were bowlegged because of the then common rickets of childhood. This was due to malnutrition. Now that we know the great importance of vitamin D in infant nutrition, no child should be allowed to grow up with bowlegs.

SOME LATE IN LIFE

Dr. Stack tells me that the bowing can be in the knee joint. Bowing can come late in life, due to what is called Paget's disease. In some of these cases a good orthopedist can straighten the bone or bones involved.

Dr. Stack tells me that most orthopedists are reluctant to operate on people just to make them look better. The trouble is that so often, when a person has such an operation, he ends up disappointed because the results are not as perfect as he expected them to be. Then the disappointed patient not only refuses to pay his bill but feels like suing the surgeon for damages. After a few experiences with such persons, the surgeon says, "No more." I have seen cases in which I thought the results remarkably good, but the patient, a woman, did not think so. She had expected after the operation to look just like Marilyn Monroe!

Many plastic surgeons refuse to perform a cosmetic operation on a person who does not need it very much. He or she is then too likely to be disappointed, again, because too much perfection was expected. The only person many a surgeon will operate on is someone who is so disfigured that almost any improvement in appearance will be gratefully received.

I tell of these difficulties because many a person has asked me why a certain plastic surgeon refused to operate on him. I knew why, because the fellow was neither sensible nor emotionally stable. He may even have been a bit psychotic and a sure trouble-maker. Sometimes the surgeon can see that he is dealing with a paranoid person who would feel murderous if anything went wrong. And things can go wrong. I remember a very able surgeon friend of mine who got into an awful mess because the man he operated on had some peculiar defect in his body which caused every wound to fester. Even when the surgeon operated with penicillin dripping steadily into the man's veins, his wound festered.

The average layman naturally cannot understand how such an accident can happen. Even we physicians have no idea why they happen, but we know that they can happen when no one is at fault. Because of these dangers and difficulties, I greatly admire the plastic surgeon who has the courage to go ahead and try to help thousands of unhappy people. In scores of cases all will go well and miracles will be performed, and then something will go wrong and the surgeon will have a nasty lawsuit on his hands.

RAFT L'EGARE DRIFTS 120 MILES FROM START

HALIFAX (CP)—The raft l'Egare and her four adventurous crew members who are trying to cross the Atlantic has sailed and drifted more than 120 miles from her launching point near Halifax.

Bearings taken Saturday night placed the 30-foot log raft just south of Sable Island.

It is believed the raft is attempting to manoeuvre around the southern tip of Sable Island and into the Gulf Stream which the four French sailors hope will carry their raft across the Atlantic.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Water Must Reach Plant's Deep Roots

When gardeners speak of a plant as being hardy, they usually refer to winter hardiness, but a plant specialist will include summer hardiness in the same term.

Hilda

A certain plant may survive any amount of frost, or cold, and yet succumb to summer drought.

The only way to ensure survival of newly planted trees, shrubs, or the deeper rooting perennials during the current dry season is to provide ample moisture in the root area at all times. If planted with humus added to the soil around the roots, moisture should not be too difficult to maintain.

Test the soil around the tree or shrub frequently by scratching gently below the surface dryness. If no moist soil is encountered in, say, about two inches, it is wise to assume that more free moisture is needed below.

SLOW TRICKLE

Lay the soil soaker or an open end hose beside the plant and allow the water to trickle slowly for an hour. The hose will need moving from one side of the plant to the other in the case of a large specimen.

Most trees and shrubs becoming established enjoy a fine spray of water over the foliage and branches in early evening, and before the sun becomes hot in the morning.

Large new plantings may be kept adequately supplied with water at their roots by laying a soil soaker in and out among the plants. The pressure should be kept very low to prevent water running off instead of soaking into the soil.

PUSHED BABY-BUGGY 30,000 MILES

'Man in Iron Mask' Dies Penniless

BRIGHTON, Eng. (Reuters) —Harry Bensley, who won fame pushing a baby carriage 30,000 miles while wearing an iron mask, died here last week. He was 80.

The one-time wealthy London playboy died penniless with only his 80-year-old widow and two friends to attend his cremation.

But in 1908 when he took a bet and became "the man in the iron mask," he was living on a yearly income of £5,000 from Russian investments.

In that year American millionaire Pierpont Morgan bet Lord Lonsdale that a man could not walk around the world unrecognized.

Bensley agreed to act as the "guinea pig" although his identity was kept a secret at the time.

Under the wager, he had to wear a mask all the time while he pushed a baby carriage through 169 British towns and 125 cities in 18 other countries.

SOLD POSTCARDS

He had to support himself by selling postcards on the way and to find a wife before the walk ended.

The prize for passing all 15 conditions of the wager was to be £21,000.

Thousands cheered him as he set off from Trafalgar Square in London, pushing a spindly baby carriage and wearing his weird mask.

He met King Edward VII at Newmarket races and sold him a postcard for £5. The king asked for his autograph but Bensley refused it to maintain his anonymity.

A hotel chambermaid once hid under his bed in an unsuccessful attempt to unmask him and earn a £1,000 reward by disclosing his identity.

He was arrested at Dartford, Kent, for selling postcards without a licence and was allowed to wear his mask in court when he was fined two shillings.

More than 200 women offered to marry him during six years of trekking around the world.

He walked 30,000 miles, passing through New York, Montreal, Sydney, Australia, and many other cities.

Then, with only 7,000 miles to go, the First World War broke out. The wager was called off, and Bensley returned home to a £4,000 consolation prize and to join the army.

He gave the prize to charity —and in the years of obscurity which followed lost his lucrative private income.

Island Man Near Death From Beating

Savage Fight in Vancouver Waged With Bottles, Knives, Pipe

A Port Alberni man is close to death as a result of a beating suffered Saturday in a brutal melee in Vancouver's west end.

Doctors described the condition of William Robert Martin, 22, as "very poor." Both sides of his head were split open.

Police said the fight began when three youths drove up to a Morton Street house and were challenged by two others who left the house.

Windows were smashed and the front door of the house battered in during the fight. An iron bar, beer bottles, knives and splinters from the smashed door were used as weapons during the brawl.

TWO HELD

Martin's assailants used a long piece of metal to beat him about the head. Two men are in custody and are being questioned.

Vancouver police said it is known that a father and his son watched the battle from its inception, and have urged them to identify themselves.

Martin, a garage mechanic at Port Alberni, visits Vancouver regularly on weekends.

Vandals Smash Up-Island School

LADYSMITH (CP)—Vandals believed to have acted in reprisal for being denied entrance to the school grounds, smashed 18 windows in the junior-senior high school here.

The windows, including two glass doors, were broken sometime between Friday night and Saturday morning, principal John Petrack said. Damage was estimated at $150.

Also smashed were six windows in a new greenhouse at the back of the school, a project of the industrial arts class.

Officials laid the blame on out-of-town hot-rodders, and not on students. They said hot-rodders had been in the habit of parking at night on the school grounds, and posts and a chain had been placed across the entrance to protect the grounds.

RCMP are investigating.

SHAWNIGAN BOYS WIN TRACK MEET

LADYSMITH (CP)—Shawnigan Lake Boys' School rolled up 62 points to win the first mid-island track and field meet held here Saturday.

The school from Shawnigan Lake beat out competition from Nanaimo, Ladysmith, Duncan and Lake Cowichan.

In second place was Duncan High School with 38 points.

Nanaimo was third with 44 points; Lake Cowichan, fourth, 28 points; Ladysmith, fifth, 25 points.

Individual honors went to B. Oulton of Duncan and R. Volden of Nanaimo, senior boys, who each scored eight points for the best individual score.

City Car Flips Near Sidney; Driver Survives

SIDNEY — Archie Courtnall, 1079 Deal street, Victoria, escaped serious injury Saturday night when his car left West Saanich road on a curve near Patricia Bay Indian reserve, and rolled over into a ditch.

He was taken to Rest Haven Hospital, but was released when it was found his injuries were not serious.

Damage to his late-model car were reported as heavy.

A juvenile driver was fined $25 and costs in court here Saturday and had his licence suspended for six months when RCMP reported he traveled at 90 miles per hour on the Patricia Bay Highway Wednesday.

A second juvenile paid $5 costs and was placed on probation for six months for careless driving in Sidney.

Builders Hire All Skilled Tradesmen

NANAIMO—A continued construction boom here through May absorbed all available skilled tradesmen, according to J. H. Fox, manager of the National Employment Office here.

"Unless a forest closure develops as a result of dry weather, the next period will see a record total of persons working in Nanaimo district," he said.

All logging camps in the district have been in continuous operation and employment in the trade and services industries is good.

Employment in the construction industry continues to be high. Projects under way are a new junior-senior high school, police station, three new apartment buildings, court house, tourist bureau, three service stations, and Nanaimo river bridge at Cassidy.

Reconstruction is proceeding on the highway north and south of the city.

A serious shortage of experienced stenographers and waitresses exists, he said, since the local supply of labor available for this type of work is practically exhausted.

New Phone Building Slated for Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A new building will be erected here by the B.C. Telephone Co. to house additional exchange equipment.

Two parcels of land near the city centre, and opposite St. Andrew's United Church, have been sold for the building, and new cables are being laid underground as far as Departure Bay road. There they will come above ground and serve Lynburn and Beach Estates.

Lionel Huxtable, company manager here, said he had no statement to make as to when actual construction of the new premises would begin.

'Near Full Employment' Status Boasted by Cowichan District

DUNCAN—There is a condition of "almost full employment" in the Cowichan area, according to R. S. Robinson, manager of the Duncan office of the National Employment service, in his review of the labor situation during May.

While the full employment situation held true in the logging and sawmill industries, there were fewer calls for construction workers than in April.

The applications for work were reduced by 300 during the month, but Mr. Robinson described the future as "uncertain" because of the fire hazard in the woods, which threatens an early closure.

The continued lack of rain and low humidity have forced nearly all logging operations to initiate early shift work. At the same time numerous vacancies for loggers are being received and found to be difficult to fill.

There was a considerable increase in vacancies during May in the sawmill industry, Mr. Robinson reported. Although many of these positions were of a casual nature, eventually it became difficult to find good sawmill workers, let alone skilled ones.

Development and engineering work on the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill at Crofton is progressing on schedule, but no word has been received as to the awarding of the major contract for this job.

HALF DONE

The Nanaimo firm responsible for building the bunkhouses and cafeteria to accommodate some 600 construction workers reports that its contract is more than half completed.

Reconstruction of the Trans-Canada highway just south of Duncan is well under way, and some resurfacing will be done this summer. Highway reconstruction in the Malahat area is promoting increased use of the Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry, and an additional ferry may be put on this run next month.

It is reported that 200-300 workers will be required to build a B.C. Power Commission gas-turbine generating plant at Bare Point, Chemainus. Work on this $15,000,000 project is expected to start within the next two months.

Work is progressing on the high tension power line which will connect the B.C. Electric's trans-gulf cable with the B.C. Power Commission line from Campbell River to Victoria. A switching station will be built in the Somenos area and the entire project completed this fall.

Young Cleric Honored By Music Group

CHEMAINUS — Members of the Musicial Society held a final "get together" this week to conclude a season which saw them stage their operetta "The Lucky Jade" three times.

Charlie Ayling, acting on behalf of society members, presented Rev. Alan Howes with a wrist watch in appreciation of his efforts on behalf of the musical group during the past three years. The young Anglican minister, in addition to playing lead roles in the last two operettas, has been responsible for designing and laying out scenery.

Frank Goldie and Ray West will play off Sunday for the Mt. Brenton Golf Club championship. Both entered the finals last week when Goldie defeated Jack Dowling, and West beat Jack Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hemmingsen won the first round in play for the James Dobbs Memorial Trophy.

Alberni Won't Retire Old Fire Bell

ALBERNI (CP)—The city's old fire bell is not for sale.

A request to purchase the heirloom piece for the Indian village church was received from Tom Shewish and turned down by council.

Mayor Ben Wright said that the Bell, taken from the old fire hall tower when it was dismantled several years ago, should be mounted for use as an auxiliary alarm in case the modern siren could not be used in a power failure.

The bell hung for about 40 years in a tower at the corner of Burke and Elizabeth Streets.

Farmers Clipped Twice On Initial Road Trip

City Ball Club Drops Two Narrow Decisions

Burnaby 4, Farmers 3
Bellingham 4, Farmers 2

Farmer Construction's first road trip of the season in the Northwest International Baseball League proved unrewarding over the weekend as Ed Ash's crew dropped two games of a split doubleheader on the mainland.

In the first game in Burnaby, Farmers lost out to a home run in the bottom of the 11th inning, 4-3, then moved down to Bellingham, and lost again, 4-2.

The first one was the heartbreaker for Farmers. They outhit the winners, seven to four, but Davis' homer in the 11th off reliefer Lowell Hodges tucked it away for Burnaby.

BAD THROW

The game was actually lost in fourth inning, when starter Paul Beck threw the ball past third baseman Stu Mitchell on an attempted force-out and two runs scored.

Hodges took the loss, his second in a row.

Moving down to Bellingham, Farmers were kept at bay until the top of the ninth inning, when they scored both their runs.

Art Minnace did the damage for Bellingham, hitting two towering home runs, good for three runs, in the second and third innings.

The loss went to Bill Garner, while Aronsen, who departed in the sixth, took the win.

Colwood Pair Keep Tee Buttons

City button defenders Vic Painter and Bill McColl had a rousing battle thrown at them Sunday but the Colwood aces prevailed to engineer the second defence of their buttons.

Painter and McColl scored a narrow victory over the Gorge Vale pairing of veteran Bob Woods and junior Mike Kolb over the challengers' home course.

The holders had a three-up lead at the turn and won the 10th to go four up. However, Woods eagled the 11th and Woods and Kolb took the 12th with a par to be two down. After the 13th was halved, the Gorge Vale pair took the 14th with a birdie deuce to go one down and the match was squared when Painter three-putted the 15th.

The 16th was halved in pars but the Colwood duo took the 17th with a pair of birdies and halved the 18th to win, one up.

Best ball for the winners was four under and Woods and Kolb were three under.

Spencer, Green Gain Golf Final

Doug Spencer and Frank Green will meet for the Colwood Golf Club handicap championship.

Spencer defeated Neville Gerrard, 3 and 2, Sunday, while Green, a 23 handicapper, fired a gross 84 (net 61) at Vic Painter, who had a 71, to gain the other final berth with a 3 and 1 triumph.

Lea Sets New Mark For 440

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Two world's records—the 440 and two-mile relay—were bettered Saturday night in the Californja relays.

Jim Lea, 23, formerly of the University of Southern California, ran the quarter mile in 45.8 and an all-star two-mile relay team won the two-mile relay in 7.52.2.

Lea eclipsed the 440-yard mark of 46 seconds flat set by Herb McKinley of Jamaica in 1948.

The unattached team from Los Angeles, Jim Walters, Hal Butler, Danny Schweikert and Bill Weiss beat the former two-mile relay standard of 7.27.3 established by Fordham University in 1954. Second place Occidental and third place Southern California with 7.26.6 and 7.26.7 were also under the Fordham time.

Willie Takes Blame for Swaps

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (BUP)—Movies of the famed Swaps' upset defeat by Porterhouse in the $109,800 Californian at Hollywood Park bore out jockey Willie Shoemaker's statement that it wasn't Swaps' fault he didn't win.

DICK WILLOUGHBY . . . makes history.

Porterhouse, under the urging of jockey Ismael Valenzuela, overcame Swaps' two-length lead in the stretch for a photo-finish nose victory Saturday before 58,500 astonished fans.

Shoemaker took the blame, saying he thought he had the race won in the stretch and eased up on the favorite, letting Porterhouse catch him.

The movies showed clearly that Willie looked around twice, once between the quarter and eighth poles when he saw he had better than two lengths, and again between the eighth and sixteenth poles when Porterhouse was closing so rapidly that Willie went to the whip.

In the last few hundred yards, Shoemaker hit Swaps seven times, but he started whipping off stride and as a result did not get the most out of it.

Porterhouse, considered only a sprinter, scored the biggest win of his career in taking the one and a sixteenth mile event in 1.40 4-5, just two-fifths of a second off the world's record set by Swaps in last year's Californian. The victor earned $63,700 in the upset and paid $28.70 to win.

Swaps returned $2.70 and $2.90 and Mister Gus paid $3.90.

Willoughby Takes Third Race Victory

Dick Willoughby, flashing into the lead on the 10th lap and never looking back, once again won the main event at Western Speedway Saturday night in the weekly stock car races.

It was Willoughby's third straight main event victory, the first time a driver has accomplished such a feat in the three-year history of the Langford track. The win gave him the lead in the track point competition.

Willoughby was pressed all the way by Lamont Brooks, winner of opening first main event of the season, who finished second, followed by Jerry Sylvester, who was third for the second week in a row.

Brooks took the trophy dash and fast time for the evening.

Results:

Main event: 1—Dick Willoughby, 2—Lamont Broks; 3—Jerry Sylvester.
Trophy dash: 1—Lamont Brooks; 2—Ray Pottinger; 3—Bert Gilmour.
First heat: 1—Dick Willoughby; 2—Lamont Brooks; 3—Mike Newton.
Second heat: 1—Jerry Sylvester; 2—Ray Pottinger; 3—Dick Varley.
Third heat: 1—Dave Hansen; 2—Chris Benson; 3—Dave Francis.
Mechanics race: 1—Frank Addison; 2—Ray Newton; 3—John Gelling.
Blindfold race: 1—Oller Newton; 2—Mike Newton; 3—Jerry Sylvester.

Sterling Moss Race Winner

NUERBURGRING, Germany (BUP)—Sterling Moss of Britain, taking advantage of a 17-second pit stop by Juan Manuel Fangio, gunned his Maserati to the front four laps from the finish and won Sunday's 1,000-kilometer (620-mile) Nuerburgring sports car race.

Moss, with France's Jean Behra as co-driver, was timed in 7.43.54.5 hours for an average of 129.7 kilometers per hour (80.41 mph) for the dash around hairpin curves in the Eifel Mountains.

U.S. Players Dominate French Net Tourney

PARIS (BUP)—United States tennis players won or shared three of the five titles decided during the weekend at the French championships.

Bob Perry of Los Angeles and Don Candy of Australia pulled one of the season's big surprises Sunday by defeating top-seeded Lew Hoad and Ashley Cooper of Australia, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3, for the men's doubles crown.

Althea Gibson, the New York girl who defeated Britain's Angela Mortimer, Saturday for the women's singles crown, teamed with Angela Buxton of Britain to win the women's doubles final yesterday. They defeated Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., and Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., 6-8, 8-6, 6-1.

Luis Ayala of Chile and Thelma Long of Australia took the mixed doubles title by defeating Miss Hard and Australia's Bob Howe, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Hoad, the husky Aussie Davis Cup star, won the men's singles crown Saturday by defeating Sven Davidson of Sweden.

BRITISH AMATEUR OPENS

Strafaci Wins, Sanders Loses

TROON, Scotland (UP)—Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., competing in the British Amateur Golf Tournament for the seventh time, defeated Keith Tate of England, 1 up, in the opening round today, but Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., one of the leading U.S. hopes for the title, was eliminated.

Sanders, rated second only to defending champion Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., as America's best bet to win the title, was defeated by David Mackie of Scotland, 2 and 1.

Another victorious Yank among the early finishers when Joe Golden, a serviceman from Austin, Tex., trounced Dr. Tom White of Scotland, 9 and 8.

Lt. Kipling Layton, an air force officer from Corpus Christi, Tex., was eliminated by Matthew Alexander of Scotland, 6 and 5.

Strafaci, who has won the metropolitan New York amateur championship seven times, won a hard-fought match on the last hole after paying a one-stroke penalty when his approach overshot the green and landed on the clubhouse path.

Ian Caldwell of England, a member of the British Walker Cup team, eliminated Norman Scheer, a serviceman from Newark, N.J., 2 and 1. In an all-American first round match, Jennings Randolph of Washington, D.C., an army private stationed in England, defeated Charles Gilbreath of Sulphur Springs, Tex., 5 and 3.

Bill Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., scored the fourth American victory of the opening day's play when he defeated Derek Gardner of England, 3 and 2.

Finlay Goslin, a Pan-American pilot from Endi, Okla., who is now based in London, was eliminated by David Dobie of Kenya, 4 and 3.

Alan Slater of England, last year's runner-up, was eliminated in the first round 2 up by Hobart Manley Jr., of Savannah, Ga.

HONEYMOON SURPRISE

AUGA CALIENTE, Calif. (AP) — A mechanic on a honeymoon won $12,724.80 on a $2 horse racing bet Sunday. The previous high here was $11,180.80 paid last week to Mrs. G. W. Winderscheidt of Palm City, Calif.

Sunday's winner was Warner G. Shelton, a San Diego, Calif., aircraft plant worker who picked all six first-placers from the fifth through 10th races.

Moore to Get First Crack At Crown

BOSTON (AP) — The executive committee of the National Boxing Association Saturday approved an elimination series for the heavyweight title starting with the Hurricane Jackson-Floyd Patterson bout next month.

The committee decided the NBA would recognize as champion the winner of the three-bout series.

The winner of the Jackson-Patterson bout June 8 would meet light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore, stopped by Rocky Marciano in the latter's last bout before retiring as heavy king.

CHAIRING SECTION

Satchel Paige, still with showman Bill Veeck, has an easy armchair at the end of the Miami Marlins' bench. The venerable pitcher recently hurled a four-hit victory for the IL club.

PARRY O'BRIEN shows the determination that enabled him to hurl the 16-pound shot to a new world record of 61 feet, one inch.

Polyettes Find Crowhursts Tough

Victoria Polyettes' three-game winning streak in the Intercity Major Women's Softball League came to a rude end over the weekend at Central Park.

Polyettes were stopped twice by B.C. champion Vancouver Crowhursts, 4-3 and 9-3, to drop 3½ games off Crowhursts' unbeaten pace.

In the second game Sunday, Polyettes committed six errors, but were still soundly beaten as Crowhursts scored in every inning but the first and last.

It was pitcher Jocelyn Richmond's first loss in 42 starts on the mound.

Polyettes came closer in the first game Saturday, but two unearned runs in the fifth inning on an error by Lorna Luney gave the powerful visitors the margin they needed.

Losing pitcher Ruth Oster only allowed four hits, while winner Ev Bonneville gave up five.

Polyettes coach John Oster announced Sunday that Polyettes will play Arrows of the Victoria Senior "A" Men's Softball League June 1 in a benefit game for those players on the Polyettes who lost money to a thief in Vancouver last weekend.

Crowhursts are planning a similar game in Vancouver.

Linescores:		R.	H.	E.
Crowhursts	014 112 0—	9	9	3
Polyettes	020 001 0—	3	5	6
Richmond and Pettigrew; Kurliak and Fowler.

Firefighters Near Lead; Meet Leaders

Firefighters set the stage for a battle of the giants when they scored a 10-9 victory over Re-Refined Oil in Sunday's Senior B Softball League feature at Heywood Avenue Park.

The victory left Firefighters just half a game behind Brodies Bakery in the league standings with the clubs having it out for the league lead Tuesday night at Heywood at 6.30.

Barry Jackson, Firefighters' mound ace, was called on in relief and was hard-pressed to hold off the surging losers.

Starter Amos Happy gave way in the third and Jackson, who at one time had a 10-4 lead, went the rest of the way to preserve the victory.

Nellie Nelson and Martin Fraser each poled out four hits for the Firefighters while Jack Rogers picked up a homer and a double. Roy Jones had three hits for the losers.

Short score follows:	R	H	E
Re-Refined Oil	9	10	3
Firefighters	10	15	3

Rod Turner and Red White; Amos Happy, Barry Jackson and Herb Weatherall.

Fabius Victor

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Fabius won the $62,000 Jersey Stakes Saturday one week after his Preakness victory at Baltimore, rushing up in the stretch at Garden State Park to haul down first money of $44,700. King Maker was second and Career Boy third.

University School Defeats Visitors

University School scored an 88-26 victory over St. George's School of Vancouver Saturday in an inter-city match at the University School grounds.

Reider Getz was the outstanding player for the winners, batting for 29 runs and taking six wickets for eight runs.

Reds Clear, Red Official Tells Avery

CAIRO (AP) — President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee said Sunday the committee's Russian representative has investigated whether Russians were following Olympic amateurism rules.

Brundage said during a press conference that doubts had been raised on whether the Russians were following the rules. The Russian committee member told Brundage that they were.

"We have to trust him because we have no other proof that Russia infringes the rules of amateurism," said Brundage.

Bowlathon Record Set

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Four Prince Albert bowlers Sunday claimed a record for non-stop bowling in Canada. They bowled for 25 hours 34 minutes, topping the previous record set in Timmins, Ont.

The bowlers were Joe Plaschusky, Charles Smith, William Apps and Robert Tunbridge.

The four staged the "bowlathon" in an effort to raise funds for completion of Memorial recreation centre. Some $100 was donated. They quit at 2.34 p.m. Sunday because they "were tired" and one bowler had to go to work at 4 p.m.

Timbermen Still Charging Ahead

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo Timbermen avenged their only defeat in the Inter-City Lacrosse League here Saturday night by trouncing Vancouver Pilseners 24-7 before a near capacity house.

Pils are the only team to beat the powerful T-Men to date.

The game was studded with 62 minutes of penalty time with Vancouver drawing 38 minutes including a 10-minute misconduct to Bob Parry. Nanaimo nicked up 24 minutes.

Bobby Allan with six goals and three assists; Don Sherry, four goals and one assist, and Arnie Dugan with one goal and six assists, led the Timbermen. Larry Crema with two goals, and Parry, Chisholm MacKay, Phillips and Mario Crema with one each accounted for the Pils' seven markers.

Greenwood-Griffin Spark Churchmen

Dr. K. Greenwood and A. Griffin made a great second-wicket stand, batting for 41 runs each, as Five C's overwhelmed Incogs, 148-32 in Sunday's Victoria and District Cricket League game at Beacon Hill Park.

Jack Richards of the winners was the top bowler, taking six wickets for a paltry 11 runs.

On Saturday Cowichan remained undefeated when their match with Albions was declared a draw because of rain. Oak Bay climbed to within a point of Cowichan by defeating Alcos by four wickets.

GIVE SEATTLE CLUB VICTORY

Oak Bay Golfers Turn on Clubmates

If two members of Victoria Golf Club aren't too popular with their fellow members today there's a reason.

Wilf Lund and George Wheaton Saturday pulled a sandy against their clubmates.

Loaned to the Seattle club golf team, which was two men short, in the inter-team match at Victoria Club, Lund and Wheaton provided the margin of victory for the visitors.

Lund scored victory in the singles and four-ball matches while Wheaton, paired with Wilcox of Seattle, won his four-ball match. The three points gained for Seattle through the efforts of the Victoria players enabled the Seattle club to capture the event, 25-23.

The four-ball provided the difference, Seattle scoring 13 points to Victoria's 11; singles were split, 12-12.

In the top matches, Victoria club captain George Bigelow, defeated Seattle captain Dick Munger, nad Oak Bay professional Phil Taylor defeated Seattle pro Bill Zonker.

Return match is scheduled June 23 in Seattle.

LADDER DERBY

Bob McDonald's 28-pound 14-ounce catch remained the best as the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby completed its first qualifying week Sunday.

Birds Surprise Husky Crewmen

SEATTLE (AP)—The University of British Columbia varsity threw a scare into Washington's rowing crew Saturday but the Huskies put on a spurt in the final 200 meters to defeat the Canadians by a scant 12 feet.

The Washington crew covered the choppy 2,000-meter course on Lake Washington in 6.02.6, just nine-tenths of a second ahead of their surprisingly strong northern rivals.

Sievers Sinks Sox; Braves Still Lead

IT TOOK PAY RAISE TO STOP LONG COLD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dale Long, Pittsburgh's slugging first baseman who has set a major league record of hitting home runs in seven consecutive games, has been rewarded with a $2,500 pay boost to put his salary at $16,500.

Long said general manager Joe Brown notified him of the pay increase Saturday night.

"Joe told me when I signed my contract that I would hear from him later," Long declared. "I was asking for $15,000 and he wanted me to sign for $14,000.

"He called Saturday night, and when he said he was tearing up my contract and giving me a new one for a raise of $2,500 I choked up."

Long Set New Mark For Homers

By The Associated Press

If manager Mike Higgins of Boston Red Sox today felt like the fisherman who went out for a whale and came back with a couple of minnows who could blame him?

Six months ago Red Sox engineered a deal with Washington, acquiring pitcher Bob Porterfield among others in exchange for five young players and cash. It seemed they had stripped the Senators of their best players but now it is evident the big catch got away. The big catch is Roy Sievers.

What a whale of a job of hitting Sievers has turned in against Red Sox pitching this season, especially at Boston's Fenway Park. In five Washington games at Boston, Sievers blasted 10 hits in 20 times at bat for a torrid .500 average. That's not all. He scored 10 runs, clouted five home runs and two doubles and drove in 11 runs. He also had four for eight and three RBI's in three games in Washington.

MUSIAL SNAPS OUT

The slugging outfielder-turned-first baseman turned on the heat against Boston Sunday, collecting five hits, scoring five runs and driving in five as Washington held the Red Sox to a split in their doubleheader.

It was Roy's 10th inning double that drove in Clint Courtney with the run that gave Washington an 11-10 second-game triumph after Red Sox had come from behind to win the opener 9-7. The big St. Louisian homered in each game, the second four-bagger coming off Porterfield, who failed to finish for the fourth time in five starts. He has a 1-3 record.

Stan Musial snapped out of a slump with seven runs batted in on four hits, one a three-run homer, to lead St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-9 and 12-2 doubleheader sweep over Chicago Cubs.

BRAVES STILL AHEAD

Sparked by rookie first baseman Frank Torre's four straight hits, Milwaukee Braves defeated Cincinnati Redlegs, 7-2, to cling tenaciously to their slim lead. Because they have lost only nine games to St. Louis' 13, Braves are in front in percentages, .640 to .629.

Dale Long's hitting Saturday led Pirates to a 6-2 win over Phillies. He clouted relief pitcher Ben Flower's first pitch in the eighth over the rightfield wall to crack the six-homers-in-six-games mark set in 1922 by Ken William of St. Louis Browns and equalled three times since then.

Dave Ads Glitter To Glossy Record

Dave Emery of United Commercial Travellers, tied another piece to the hottest string in local minor baseball Sunday.

Emery pitched UCT to an 8-1 victory over Menzies Plumbing in Babe Ruth League action at Beacon Hill Park, giving up just one hit. The victory was the fourth straight for Emery and in the four games, he has given up only four hits. He has had a no-hitter, two one-hitters and a two-hitter.

Until Menzies scored on him in the first inning, he had pitched 27 innings of scoreless ball. Losing pitcher was tough-luck Barry Menzies.

Emery struck out 16 and Menzies wiffed 14. Emery also clubbed a three-run homer and a run-producing single. Gordon Mooney got the losers' only hit.

In the other Babe Ruth game, Daryl Lorimer pitched and batted Optimists to an 11-5 victory over McCall-Davey. Lorimer gave up five hits and clouted two triples and a single.

In Pony League action at Carnarvon Park, Jaycees and Cosmopolitans battled to a 4-4 tie that was called by the Sunday curfew. Cosmopolitan pitcher Doug Gilmour struck out 15.

SLUGFEST

In the second half of the double-header, Victoria Police won a wild and woolly 11-6 decision over Oak Bay Police with Ray Benwell hitting three doubles and a single for City Police. Stan McLeod and Garry Foster hit triples for the losers.

Larry De Costa was the big man in the Saanich Babe Ruth League at Reynolds Road. De Costa shut out Patterson Construction on two hits to give Capital City Service the 4-0 victory.

Two games were played in the Esquimalt-Vic West Little League, Yarrows taking a tight 2-1 victory over Lions and Pirates belting Merchants, 16-0. John Kirkendale of Lions picked up three of his team's hits. Pirates were paced at the plate by Chuck Anslow who had three singles and scored two runs.

Lions outlasted Kinsmen in the American Little League, scoring a loose 16-15 victory with Doug Okerstrom getting the victory. In the other half of the twin bill, Oak Bay Kiwanis edged Elks 7-6, with Dave Pollock batting in the winning run with his third hit.

Two games were played in the Colt League at Windsor Park, Victoria Tire shading Morrisons, 8-6, and Dowells edging Pacific Sheet Metal, 5-4. Saunders hit a home run for Dowells.

On Saturday, Odd Fellows stayed in first place in the National Little League by scoring six runs in the last inning to down Gyros, 6-5.

Take Tom's Word for It--- Gridders Have It Tough

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All right, what does it cost a college football player to get through school in these times?

The recent Pacific Coast conference three-year slapdown of UCLA for boosting its monthly payoff to gridders from $75 to $115 makes the answer important and timely.

The answer, in Tom Thaxter's case, is $171.35 a month.

Thaxter, 21-year-old UCLA guard with one more year of eligibility—if the PCC doesn't take it away from him—outlined his expenses in an interview with Bob Oates, Los Angeles Examiner sportswriter.

Thaxter said his present cost of living includes only one frill — a car, which last month cost him $23.69 to operate. That would make his rock-bottom budget $147.66. Some people have recommended that $150 monthly aid to PCC gridders would not be out of line.

This fall, under a new conference rule, coast football players will draw $100 a month. At present, the figure is $75, plus $40 under the table at UCLA.

Here's Thaxter's careful breakdown of his monthly budget:

Board and room, $78.72; weekend meals (his frat house kitchen closes on Saturdays and Sundays), $24.85; laundromat, $2.80; laundry, $6.20; cleaning, $1.40; toothpaste, 49 cents; haircut, $1.50; books, $3.06; tuition, $10; clothing, $1.24; gasoline, $6.14; car repairs, $4.05; car insurance, $13.50; movies and malts, $3.40.

How does Thaxter make up the difference between $115 and $161? He digs ditches for the gas company in Fresno at $1.74 an hour during the summer. Last summer he saved $550.

If he would do it all over, would he make the same financial deal with UCLA?

"I'd have to if I wanted to play football," Thaxter replies. "You can't do three things at once—go to school, play football and work at a job."

Dramatic Eagle Don's Rich Blow

DALLAS (AP)—Don January shot a dramatic eagle on the 18th green Sunday to win the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Golf Open with 268 for 72 holes.

The young Abilene, Tex., player, making his first tour, staged an uphill drive on the final round to score a three-under-par 67 and win the $6,000 purse money by a stroke over Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, and Doug Ford of Hahopac, N.Y.

Finsterwald closed out with a one-under-par 69 while Ford shot a 67. Both earned $2,700.

The three had started the day's final round with Finsterwald leading with 200, January second with 201 and Ford third with 202.

CANADIANS TRAIL

Al Balding of Toronto had a 71 Sunday for a final total of 281 while Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., ended up with a 283.

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., scored 69 in each of the first two rounds but dropped out Saturday after scoring a 41 on the first nine holes.

January had no less than three eagles in his final round, sinking a 25-foot putt on the first hole for one, driving within four feet of the pin on the 11th for another and sinking a chip shot from a bunker 15 feet away for the payoff on the 18th.

LONDON (CP) — Canadian-owned Calgary Court will not run in the June 6 Epsom Derby, it was announced during the weekend. Calgary Court, a 100-to-1 shot, is owned by Max Bell of Calgary.

Wall St. Setback Worst in 25 Years

By ELMER C. WALTZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Industrial shares suffered their severest decline in nearly 25 years on the stock exchange during the past week.

The whole market joined the decline which lopped $8,000,000,000 from the valuation of all listed issues. The total loss since the industrial average set its record high on April 6 amounts to $13,000,000,000, against a $16,000,000,000 break after President Eisenhower's illness. The latter loss was more than fully recovered.

Here are the market statistics as measured by the Dow-Jones averages:

Industrial average closed the week at 472.49, off 23.90 points, widest weekly decline since the 28.95-point break in the week ended June 21, 1950. The industrial figure at the week's close was only 10.14 points above the year's low set on Jan. 23. Industrials have declined in 25 of the 35 sessions since April 6.

Railroads, 165.56, off 9.61, widest decline since week ended July 22, 1933, when it was 10.37 points. Rails have declined in 18 of the past 35 sessions. Rails are 11.59 points above the 1956 low.

Utilities closed the week at 65.13, off 1.04 on the week and up 2.10 from the low of the year.

LOWEST SINCE FEB. 29

Industrials were at a new low since Feb. 16, rails since March 8, and utilities since May 2. The general average was at its lowest since Feb. 29, the day President Eisenhower said "yes."

The extent of the decline would seem to indicate a selling climax. Wall Street experts said this wasn't so because there was no appreciable rise in trading. Daily average turnover of 2,307,747 shares compared with 2,229,700 in the previous week.

A total of 1,414 issues appeared on the tape. Of these, 1,165 declined, 142 gained and 107 held steady. A total of 25 issues made new highs for the year and 319 made new lows.

U.S. Business Boom Fraying at Edges

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — There was good news for some businessmen last week—and a parcel of not-so-good news for others.

Long-range prospects continued bright. Major corporations pushed huge expansion programs; production of machine tools, freight cars and other heavy equipment went ahead at full blast. But on several other fronts the boom showed signs of fraying around the edges.

President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors summed up for GM stockholders:

"The American economy would appear at the moment to be subject to divergent trends. Consumer goods industries, including not only automobiles but housing and certain others, are being affected by a contraction in consumer spending. On the other hand the heavy goods industries are operating at very high levels."

But M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) predicted another year of record earnings—based on an expected five per cent rise in demand for petroleum products in the United States and 10 per cent rise in other non-Communist countries.

Steelmakers look for another good year, but are worried about skyrocketing costs of maintenance and expansion.

That was the consensus among steel industry leaders this week at the 64th general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute here. Roger M. Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel Corporation predicted that the industry's 1956 production will come close to the record 117,000,000 tons poured in 1955. Chairman Eugene Gifford Grace of Bethlehem Steel Corporation forecast a surging pickup late in the year after a moderate summer slowdown.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — All grains dropped to lower levels as heavy selling came into the market near the close of trading today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Broad commercial demand had appeared earlier in barley, including buying by exporters, domestic shippers and others. Domestic shippers also were fair buyers of oats. Prices for both grains, however, fell off in late trading. Flax attracted commission house selling while processors were small buyers on recessions. Shipper orders came into rye on declines, but were not enough to offset the heavy carryover of liquidation from Friday.

Weekend export wheat loadings included: the United Kingdom 2,040,000 bushels, Germany 670,000, Czechoslovakia 500,000, Republic of Ireland 180,000, East Germany 115,000, The Netherlands 100,000 and Belgium 75,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Friday except for IWA and domestic No. 1 durum which dropped one-eighth cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains fell sharply on the board of trade today with losses running to 10 cents in soybeans.

The only resistance appeared in wheat, which at one time managed to get above the previous close. It retreated again late in the afternoon on a renewal of liquidation.

July soybeans fell 10 cents, the daily limit, at one time. Supplies of cash soybeans at Chicago increased last week and both bean oil and bean meal sank in the spot market.

Wheat closed ¼-⅝ lower, July 2.01¼-⅛, corn 2⅛-3⅞ lower, July 1.47⅝-¾, oats 2¼-2⅞ lower, July 62½-⅝, rye 3½-4⅝ lower, July 1.18⅝-½ and soybeans 3½ to 10 cents lower, July 3.01.

360 Apprentices Sought By Army Units

Enrolment of 360 16-year-old army apprentice tradesmen begins June 1 at personnel depots and recruiting units across Canada.

The 1956 group will bring to nearly 1,500 the number of apprentices who have joined the army since inauguration of the plan in 1952. Some 325 are completely qualified and serving in regular army units in Canada and abroad.

Qualifications include education up to high school entrance level, or its equivalent, physical fitness and age of more than 16 but less than 17 years.

Half the pay of a private soldier is granted up to the age of 17, when full pay is given. In addition, trades pay where applicable is granted.

Trade openings are in Royal Canadian Artillery, Royal Canadian Engineers, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and Royal Canadian Electrial and Mechanical Engineers.

Uranium Sale to U.K. In Sight for Eldorado

LONDON (Reuters)—The United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority has entered into negotiations with Eldorado Mining and Refining, Ltd., a Canadian firm, for the delivery of a "substantial" quantity of uranium before March 31, 1962, it was announced Friday night.

Veteran First Aid Worker Feted at Chemainus Dinner

CHEMAINUS—Andy Bennett was honored for his long service to the St. John Ambulance Association at a banquet of Chemainus Centre.

Mr. Bennett earned his first St. John Ambulance first aid certificate in 1927. In 1937, he organized a study group in Chemainus. During the war he served as a first aid instructor in the reserve army. Later appointed chief air raid warden, he conducted three first aid classes weekly for ARP personnel in Chemainus, Crofton and Westholme. For these services he was decorated by the St. John Ambulance Association.

In 1946 he organized Chemainus Centre of the association and has served continuously as its president with the exception of a two-year period. Several years ago he was elected to the Provincial Order of St. John of Jerusalem and to the provincial executive committee of the order.

Still active in first aid work both as an instructor and lecturer, he has served as judge in many Island first aid competitions.

Graduates from his classes number in the hundreds, and it was from a small portion of these grateful men and women that he was presented with an inscribed silver bowl by B. K. Wallace.

In recognition of his service to the community, he also was presented with a cigaret lighter, engraved with a St. John emblem. F. W. Fearman, manager of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., made the presentation.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Weakness Nips Toronto List

TORONTO (CP) — Continued weakness marked mid-afternoon dealings on the stock exchange today. An early advance gave way to light selling after the first hour and prices drifted steadily lower in all divisions. The industrial losses ranged to three points. Mines were off were much as $1. Western oils declined in irregular fashion after making early headway.

Ford A, at $110, and Stelco, at $59.50, each dropped $3. Aluminium was off $1.87.

Consolidated Paper and Industrial Acceptance added a point.

Steep Rock slipped $1 to $18 among mines. Losses of between 30 and 40 cents were marked up to Sherritt, Conwest, Consolidated Sudbury and Hoye.

Gunnar was off 25 cents in uraniums, but Pronto added the same amount.

Among western oils, General Pete climbed 60 cents to $5.70. Jupiter, Banff, Consolidated Mic Mac, Husky, Canada Southern and National Pete were strong. Canadian Export Gas slipped 25 cents.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell in another selloff today despite early buying support.

The decline carried prices down from 1 to about 4 points with all divisions affected.

The market slumped all last Steels and motors were in the forefront of today's drop.

Among Canadian issues, Aluminium Ltd. lost 1⅞. Off fractionally were Canadian Pacific, Distillers-Seagrams, Dome Mines and Hudson Bay Mining. International Nickel dropped a point.

On the American stock exchange Brazilian Traction was off ¼. Small gains were recorded by Shawinigan, Fargo Oil and Wilrich Petroleums.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER — A very quiet market, prices slightly lower.

Ainsworth Base Metals were added to the list this morning selling 5,500 shares at 12½.

Basco moved 6,500 at 55. Van-Tor moved 3,400 at $1.10. Sheep Creek sold 5,100 at $1.75. Skeena traded 5,000 at 30. Trojan sold 10,500 between 64 and 71. Vananda sold 10,500 at 9½.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrial prices were irregularly lower in early moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

SIDNEY ROOFING LTD. ON LIST

Court Action on Price-Fixing Ordered Against 22 Companies

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to press court charges gainst 22 companies allegedly involved in two separate price-fixing combines, it was learned today.

Twelve of them were named in a restrictive trade practices commission report last January dealing with an alleged combine in the transmission chain industry. The other 10 were involved in the commission's report last September on the $40,000,000 asphalt and tar roofing products industry.

The prosecutions will take place in a Toronto court next fall.

Named in the commission's asphalt and tar report were:

The Barrett Co. Ltd., Montreal; Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. Ltd., Montreal; Canadian Gypsum Co. Ltd., Toronto; Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd., Toronto; Bishop Asphalt Papers Ltd., Porteuf Station, Que.; Brantford Roofing Co. Ltd., Brantford, Ont.; Building Products Ltd., Ville la Salle, Que.; Currie Products Ltd., Hamilton; The Philip Carey Co. Ltd., Lennoxville, Que.; and Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd. Victoria.

INSTITUTE MEMBERS

Named in the combine report on the production and installation of heavy conveyor belts, chains and machinery were:

Link-Belt Ltd., Toronto, subsidiary of Link - Belt Co., Chicago; United Steel Corporation (Dodge manufacturing division), Toronto; Jeffrey Manufacturing Co. Montreal, subsidiary of Jeffrey Manufacturing Co., Columbus, O.; Forano Ltd., Plessisville, Que.; Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co. of Canada, Belleville, Subsidiary of Stephens-Adams Manufacturing Co., Aurora, Ill.; Bond Engineering Works; Toronto, subsidiary of the Charles Bond Co., Philadelphia; Webster - Smallwood Ltd., Toronto.

These companies were listed as active or former members of the Conveyor and Power Transmission Institute of Canada which the commission described as a trade association and key link to the combine.

NAME FIVE OTHERS

Also named in the report though not directly linked to the institute were:

Trong - Scott Ltd., Manitoba Bridge Engineering Works, and Vulcan Iron and Engineering, all of Winnipeg; Riverside Iron and Engineering Works, Calgary; and Standard Iron and Engineering Works, Edmonton.

The asphalt and tar roofing report covered a number of products including shingles, insulated and roll siding, roofing, sheathing, waterproofing paints and cements, shingle stains, wood preservatives and disinfectants.

The commission charged there had been joint action by manufacturers to maintain prices at various distribution points; restrict distribution outlets; discontinue certain products in public demand; limit roofing guarantees in some cases; and make tenders for government contract uniform.

The transmission chain case involved conveyor systems, keystone to mass production. The systems take many forms, from belt conveyors to chain conveyors, from feeders to unloaders, from bucket elevators to skip hoists. They carry materials from a span of a few feet to a distance of miles.

The commission said it found that price material, prepared largely by Lin-Belt, was distributed to all institute members through its office and that such material formed the basis of prices charged by institute members.

LONDON

Seven Killed In B.C. Mishaps

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—Denis Nordolu, 13, died in hospital Sunday, a few hours after he was pulled unconscious from Trout Lake in East Vancouver. Firemen of the inhalator crew who treated the boy said he appeared to respond but he died without regaining consciousness.

Six other British Columbians died in weekend mishaps.

Four men were drowned Saturday when their boat was upset in the Squamish river while on their way to help fight a forest fire. The victims were Gordon Confortin, 15; James Harding, 15; Edward Grams, 43, and an unidentified man.

Donald Harvey Milne of Lagnley was killed in a car accident near Smithers, and Sidney Arthur Martle, 34, of Spirit River, Alta., was killed when his pickup truck overturned west of Dawson Creek.

Injured in the Smithers accident were Kenneth George Kristoff, 26, of Cloverdale; Joseph Kozer, 25, of Whalley, and Fred Mayniak, 26, also of Whalley.

In another accident, Ed Quiring of New Westminster was pulled unharmed from the Fraser river after he fell from his fishboat. The 18-year-old youth had noticed he was being overcome by carbon monoxide and headed for shore, but collapsed as he stepped from his boat to the dock.

NEW SUSPECT SOUGHT

VANCOUVER — Police have issued a pickup order for a 38-year-old man suspected of setting seven fires in Vancouver Friday night. A 33-year-old man arrested earlier was released Saturday after questioning.

WAGE HIKE FOR MINERS

PIONEER — Wage increases ranging from 21 to 42 cents an hour have been granted International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) members by Pioneer Gold Mines of B.C. Ltd. Under terms of the new contract, miners will get 29 cents an hour more, bringing their rate to $1.54 an hour from $1.25.

JUVENILE DRUNKS HELD

CHILLIWACK — Two juveniles appeared in court here Saturday on drunk charges and police said charges might be laid against 10 or 12 others as a result of a wild party Friday night at Maple Bay on Cultus Lake.

RCMP are hunting the person who sold liquor to the youngsters.

GIANT TANKER COMING

VANCOUVER — A 45,000-ton super-tanker is scheduled to come here for a load of grain this summer on her maiden voyage from Japan. Her length is 750 feet—30 feet longer than the passenger liner Orsova, now the largest vessel using this port.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

VANCOUVER — William George Skinner, former vice-president of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union, has been awarded an injunction against present officials of the union.

Mr. Skinner is suing the union's international officials for damages over his recent expulsion and asking reinstatement. The injunction restrains Arlund Burton, international representative here, and Lloyd A. Mashburn, international president, from interfering with Mr. Skinner's employment.

STEELERS WIN UNION FIGHT

VANCOUVER—A battle for bargaining rights at Continental Can Co. in suburban Burnaby has been won by the United Steelworkers of America. A vote of employees resulted in 17 votes for the steelers and seven for the incumbent Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers, Local 712.

Widow Asks Compensation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Action has been started in Supreme Court for Mrs. Oline Petrie of Campbell River, seeking compensation for the death of her husband here last Nov. 27.

Mr. Petrie was a passenger in a car which ran off a wharf into Burrard Inlet. His body and that of Daniel William Assu, a Cape Mudge fisherman, were found in the Assu car. Mrs. Petrie's suit is against the Assu estate and is based on the charge that the owner was guilty of gross negligence.

ANCIENT INDUSTRY

Blast furnaces for smelting iron ore were first used in Belgium about 1340.

Theatrical Life Hard on Men, Too Tough for Women, Says Ian

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ian Thorne, winner of the best director award at this season's Dominion Drama Festival, does not want his two small daughters to follow in his footsteps.

The playwright, actor and drama professor says:

"It's too tough a life for girls." The London-born director of the Vancouver Little Theatre production "Darkness at Noon," said in an interview:

"Unless they are inspired performers it's just too hard for young girls to make a successful and happy life out of the theatre."

He said he believed men, with more fields within the theatre open to them, are better able to "take the knocks."

In Canada for the last seven years, he has been school teacher, drama professor, director, author, actor and lecturer in Victoria, the Okanagan and Vancouver.

IWA Steps Up Drive to Sign Steam Engineers

International Woodworkers of America campaign to regain steam plant engineers who left the IWA in 1952 to join International Union of Operating Engineers has extended to the Tahsis area.

Last week, eight engineers and firemen at Moore-Whittington Ltd. voted to rejoin the IWA.

The IWA now has applied to the Board of Industrial Relations for certification of the power plant men at Tahsis to the Port Alberni local of the woodworkers' union.

On the mainland, a similar move has been made to regain engineers at Universal Box for the Vancouver local.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!
Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"
Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.
1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Buick SPECIAL 2-Door Riviera

It's Bigger than Both of 'em

—happiest highway romance of the year!

Why is it that so many, many more Canadians have fallen so wholly, head-over-heels in love with Buick this year?

Well, one answer is the beautiful and brawny Buick SPECIAL shown here—and the low price it carries.

It's the biggest bundle of high-powered performance and high-fashion luxury ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

And that means more people want it and can afford it, because it's priced only a few dollars more than its smaller-car rivals—even less than some models of these very same cars.

But the big answer comes from a sure fact more folks have discovered: you get more pure automobile for your money in Buick than you get elsewhere.

Here, you get the extra wallop of big new Buick power raised to a new high—and pouring in a smooth whisper from a brand-new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine of true high compression.

Here, you get the buoyancy of Buick's great new ride—the extra-safe feeling of Buick's new handling ease—the extra stretch-out comfort of Buick roominess—the extra solidity and strength of Buick structure—the extra pride and prestige of Buick's new styling and dash.

Here, too—and nowhere else—you can get the silk-smooth performance and flash-fast response of Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—the world's only transmission with the gas-saving mileage and switch-pitch action of the modern airplane propeller.

This week—this very day, if you wish—you can sample all these Buick blessings to your heart's content and your pocket's joy. Why not drop in and do just that? You'll fall in love with Buick, too.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

What's NEW in the '56 BUICK SPECIAL?
NEW 322-cubic-inch V8 engine of 8.9 to 1 compression ratio—highest ever for this bedrock-priced Series.
NEW Extra-Massive Frame and Precision-Balanced Chassis, engineered all new from front to rear for extra-rugged roadability.
NEW Deep-Oil-Cushioned Luxury Ride—with all-coil-springing and true torque-tube drive.
NEW Sweep-Ahead Styling—with choice of Fashion Color Harmony inside and out
NEW Smoother-Action Brakes with Centre-Groove Linings and Suspended Pedal
NEW Stepped-Up Gas Mileage
NEW Interlocking Safety Latches and Safety-Aim Head Lamps

New Ask Andy Award Starts Tomorrow.

Beginning tomorrow new prizes will be offered in the Ask Andy feature which appears daily in these columns. Shown above is the main award, a set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia. It is a beautifully bound set with excellent color illustrations. Second award will be either a huge Hammond Globe, a Hammond World Atlas or a Hammond's Nature Atlas of North America.

Today's Ask Andy questions, in which there is a Victoria winner, are the last for the former prizes.

Send your questions to "Ask Andy," c/o The Times, 2631 Douglas Street.

Andy sends a copy of The American Peoples Encyclopedia Yearbook to Dennis Bates, aged 11, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

What Causes Meteors?

The nine planets, you know, are not the only members of the sun's family. They may be the largest, but they are the fewest. There are over 30 moons, some almost as big as planets. There are scores of bright-haired comets. There are thousands of planetoids—little planets. And there are trillions of meteors.

Some are grains of dust just drifting about the solar system. Some are sizeable chunks of stone or metal. Meteors could be bits left over from the larger members of the solar family. They are forever colliding with the larger bodies. When this happens, their wandering days are over. Those shooting stars are falling meteors. They are forever adding their size and weight to the earth.

We are pretty sure that some meteors come from passing comets. Certain comets have failed to return on their regular schedule. Instead, their places have been taken by swarms of meteors. Some comets and meteor swarms share the same orbit. The passing comet, it seems, leaves dust and fragments on its exciting journey around the sun. Most swarms of meteors, showers of shooting stars, are almost certainly comet dust.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American Peoples Encyclopedia to Ronald Abramowski, aged 12, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for his question:

What Is a Cathode Ray?

A cathode ray is a stream of tiny particles. They are electrons, bundles of negative electricity. In the cathode ray, they have been torn from the outer shells of atoms and directed at high speeds. Such a stream of electrons can make all kinds of magic, depending upon how it is directed and what it hits. If you have a TV set, you turn a cathode ray on and off in your own home.

A cathode ray can be made to produce X-rays. Here it is directed to hit a hard substance. It can also be made to produce heat. A cathode ray is sometimes used to produce high temperatures for melting metals. And a cathode ray is used in radar. Here it is directed to force a substance to produce dots of light.

This is also the job of the cathod ray in your TV set. It works with the scanning tube, the iconoscope, to build up those moving pictures we love to watch. The special cathode ray tube in the TV set is called the kinescope.

The moving pictures, of course, begin in the studio at the broadcasting station. That is where the iconoscope does its part of the job. It copies the light and dark areas of the scene into tiny dots. Study a newspaper picture under a magnifying glass. You will see it is built up of large and small dots. Large dots shade the dark areas, smaller dots record the lighter patches. The iconoscope works something like a photoelectric cell to build up such a picture. It scans over the whole scene 30 times each second.

Other equipment translates this scene into electrical impulses. The pattern is carried to the electric wires that bring it to your home. There the cathode ray is waiting in the TV set to do its job.

The kinescope is a large vacuum tube. It can change the electrical impulses back into dots of light. It can direct and gun them to build up exact copies of the picture being scanned by the iconoscope, miles and miles away. Pairs of metal plates in the narrow end of the cathode ray tube control and direct the stream of electrons to make pictures march over the TV screen.

The high speed electrons are gunned at a fluorescent material. This stuff is heavily coated on the inside of the large end of the kinescope. The electrons jostle the atoms in this material and force them to hop about. When hit hard, these atoms glow with light.

Like the iconoscope, the kinescope also builds up pictures by scanning. It starts in the left hand corner, scans a line of dots, jumps back and starts a second row. It builds up the whole picture in the 30th part of a second. The complete pictures follow each other so fast that our eyes are deceived. We seem to be seeing action and movement. Actually we are seeing 30 different pictures every second. Only a stream of minute electrons from a cathode ray could do that wonderful job so well.

BY FREEMAN KING

THE THIRD VICTORIA AND CHINESE TROOPS held a combined map-orienting expedition on Friday evening, leaving town at 8.30 and going to five different localties. They were given a map and an eight-figure coordinate point to reach. All patrols were to terminate at the same point—a distance of about three miles.

A sketch map of the route taken and a report of some outstanding feature were turned in to the scoutmaster. All patrols accomplished the mission. After a mugup the boys were transported back to town.

Ping Louie joined the Chinese troop as a recruit.

DISTRICT NOTES—Twenty-one patrol leaders from Windsor Park, Willows, Oak Bay, 2nd Cathedral, Fairfield and Dunsmuir troops have started a Bronze Arrowhead training course under the leadership of Scouters Jack Jahour and Frank Nelson.

The first meeting was held in headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, on Friday. The course will go into camp at Goldstream over the weekend. Practical work on lashings, cooking, estimations and compass practices will be carried out. A Scouts' Own will be held on Sunday morning.

★ ★ ★

ALL GROUPS should check to see that the returns for the tickets on the scoutorama are turned in to headquarters by May 28.

★ ★ ★

CHEMAINUS GROUP: Ladysmith and Chemainus troops held a combined meeting. Tracking and outdoor cooking contests were held. Scouters Gordon Brand, Bill Cullum and Ray Knight were in charge.

★ ★ ★

WINDSOR PARK GROUP: Scouter Frank Naish took a small party of cubs to Camp Barnard, camping under canvas for the weekend.

'Copter Riddled For Disturbing Game Birds

VERSAILLES, France (Reuters)—An irate gamekeeper riddled a French Air Force helicopter with gunshot—because he said its engine noise was stopping 75 pheasants from laying eggs.

Police said Sunday the gamekeeper, Marcel Richard, suddenly ran out of his home in a forest near here and opened fire on the helicopter as it hovered overhead.

The startled crew, on a training flight from Algerian operations, were unhurt and able to fly the helicopter back to its base.

Questioned by air police, Richard explained angrily that the slightest noise might ruin the entire crop of eggs.

BEST RESULTS

In shopping, as in fishing, the secret of success lies in knowing WHERE to go to get the best results.

The experienced angler "picks his spots" carefully on the basis of the best advance information he can get. The experienced shopper does the same thing. Scans the ads in the paper to find out exactly who's got what for sale and for how much . . . uses the advertising columns as the tried-and-trusted guide to the best "buys" in town. Thus the local daily newspaper renders a double service . . . valuable alike to the shopper who wants to buy wisely and to the advertiser who wants to sell well!

Miss Canada Hopefuls Parade June 14, 15

There'll be a show at the Odeon theatre June 14 and 15 well worth seeing.

For that's where finalists vieing for the chance to compete in the Miss Canada contest will have their finest, or at least prettiest, hour.

Entry forms and rules can be obtained from the Hudson's Bay Co. store, the Odeon or Plaza theatres.

Marilynne Dawson, named Miss Victoria at the Jaycee exhibition and crowned May queen, won't enter the contest. She'll be readying herself to represent Victoria at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver in August.

18-26 YEARS

Girls eligible for the contest here must be between ages of 18 and 26, and have a specific talent. In the judging, they will be required to sing, dance, give a brief interesting talk on a hobby, or similar offerings.

The HBC here has varied prizes for the winner, who will go to Vancouver June 18 where the B.C. zone winner will be selected at the Vogue theatre. The B.C. queen goes to Hamilton for the Miss Canada finals July 2 to 7.

For the Canadian queen comes a plane trip to England, a screen test with the J. Arthur Rank organization, and the opportunity to compete for the Miss America title in Atlantic City on return.

Victoria judges have yet to be named.

LOIS MARSHALL

Toronto Singer Highly Praised By U.K. Critics

LONDON (Reuters)—London critics today applauded Toronto soprano Lois Marshall's first concert performance in England Saturday night.

Miss Marshall performed with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham, at London's ultra-modern Royal Festival Hall.

The Daily Telegraph says Miss Marshall received "the kind of ovation which is only reserved for the few."

Describing her performance of Constanze's Martern Aller Arten which she gave for an encore, The Telegraph says: "This combined the dramatic and coloratura elements of her voice with a skill and thrillingness the like of which have not been heard in London for a long time."

"HYMN OF THANKSGIVING"

Discussing the same selection, The Times critic says: "Miss Marshall's clear, warm and agile voice carried her easily and fluently through the motet. In the aria where Mozart insists that the soprano not only range high in her natural atmosphere but also sink to the gloomy depths where contraltos weave their spells, Miss Marshall could not quite compass that extreme lower range with the resonance that came easily to the other registers of her fine voice. But it was a notable performance for all that."

The Daily Mail, after describing how Miss Marshall had overcome a childhood attack of polio, says her rendition of Mozart's Exsultate Jubilate was not only note perfect but "Miss Marshall infused such a degree of color into her voice that the final allelulia was transformed into a radiant hymn of thanksgiving."

Canada Must Match Russ Or Lose Trade

HAMILTON (CP) — John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, said Saturday Russia's economic offensive is threatening Canada's export trade.

Canadian industry must improve its efficiency and reduce production costs, he told a meeting of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants.

Russia's economic offensive had the same intent as the cold war. Recent Russian trade treaties with Eastern countries were made on the basis of sales and purchases that could not be matched by Western countries, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Lower taxation in Western countries, economic expansion of North Atlantic Treaty Organization objectives and assistance to underdeveloped countries were suggested as counter-measures.

Armchair Executives Fired by Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Izvestia says a high percentage of the administrative staff of the Ukraine's big Donbas region coal mines have been fired for failing to meet new production goals. The government newspaper blames the failure on armchair executives who give orders by telephone.

Alaska Access In Trade for Power Project?

Dulles Hears Plan For Panhandle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegate E. L. Bartlett (Dem. Alaska) today pushed for a grant to Canada of tidewater access across southeast Alaska in return for mutual development of the Yukon river's power potential.

In a letter to State Secretary Dulles, Bartlett suggested that consideration be given to granting Canada a 45-mile land corridor down the Klehini and Chilkat rivers from the boundary community of Pleasant Camp to Pyramid harbor at tidewater.

In return for this, he proposed joint development by the United States and Canada of the hydro-electric potential of the upper Yukon's Taiya project near Skagway, Alaska. Bureau of reclamation estimates placed potential production of the Taiya plant at more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy a year.

CAREFUL STUDY

The suggestion that Canada be given access ways across southeast Alaska from the Yukon territory or northern British Columbia to permit development of those areas had been made in general terms on several occasions through the years.

It was revived recently in the Canadian Parliament by J. Aubrey Simmons (Lib.-Yukon). Bartlett went to Canada earlier this month to discuss the proposal with External Affairs Minister Pearson.

In urging Dulles' consideration of his suggestion, Bartlett said he believes the proposal "is deserving not of the prompt acceptance by anyone but of most careful study by everyone." He said it should be judged by the two countries "from their respective viewpoints.

PERPETUAL ARRANGEMENT

Bartlett told the secretary he felt one "highly desirable feature" of his proposal was the coupling of the corridor grant with the licencing to divert the Yukon waters under Chilkoot pass to the Taiya site.

Such an arrangement, he said, "would likely exist in perpetuity" because Canadians "would hardly cancel or refuse to renew the licence to divert the water if such action would result in an automatic termination of the corridor privilege."

"The same situation," he said, "would apply to the United States in reverse."

Under his proposal, Canada would not be given title to the corridor or the seaport site but would retain control over it as long as it permitted diversion of the Yukon waters to the Taiya project.

Bees, Not Bats, In This Belfry

MALMESBURY, Eng. (AP)—A swarm of bees Sunday night forced Canon D. E. J. Anthony to climb to safety in the belfry of his church.

Verger W. R. Pritchard discovered the bees just before communion, but was able to lock them in the vestry.

The bees remained docile until evening when the canon went to don his surplice but as they started to swarm about him he fled to the belfry.

Once again the verger got them into the vestry and the canon climbed down and held service. A member of the congregation volunteered to remove the bees today.

CCL Official Seen Heading Merged Group

Organized labor in Victoria is expected to elect a Canadian Congress of Labor officer as president of the new Victoria Labor Council with both CCL and Trades and Labor Congress of Canada membership.

First meeting of the merged local council is expected by late June or early in July.

A unity committee, composed of executives of Victoria Labor Council (CCL) and Victoria District Trades and Labor Council (TLC), will make the recommendation regarding a merged executive. Both councils must vote on its approval.

The special committee also proposes the second vice-presidency and chairmanship of two committees go to a CCL officer, with first vice-presidency, secretary-treasurer and chairmen for six committees to come from the TLC council.

Elections for the posts would be held separately by membership of each council as now constituted.

The suggested pattern is similar to what has been done or proposed elsewhere.

Hollywood Trip For Island Man

UCLUELET—George Hillier, who saved the life of a Vancouver man 26 years ago at the north end of Vancouver Island, will be honored for his deed with a trip to Hollywood and a television appearance.

He has been advised by Thomas Penfield Enterprises that a network television show is being prepared to honor and reward persons who have performed outstanding deeds of courage. Mr. Hillier said he will go to Hollywood in the fall.

HAPPENED IN 1930

The incident occurred in 1930, when Harry Moll and W. J. Galligher, Vancouver prospectors, were walking across the northern end of the island. Moll suffered a heart attack, and after four days, Galligher walked to Peddlers cove, where he found an American fisherman sheltering from a storm.

The American promised to send help, and later found Mr. Hillier, who was fishing at Cape Cook. Mr. Hillier rowed ashore in heavy seas, then carried Moll through dense bush back to the beach and managed to row him to his boat. Moll was taken to hospital at Port Alice.

'DEAD MAN'S SWITCH' SAVES CROWDED TRAIN

NEWPORT, Vt. (UP)—Harold Call, 62, engineer of the five-car Boston to Montreal Alouette Express died at the controls Sunday night as the train left a station here.

A safety device known as the "Dead Man's Switch," halted the train immediately when the engineer's foot left the controls.

None of the passengers of the crowded train was aware of the death. The train left a half hour late with the fireman at the controls.

Always remember, if it weren't for the people in this world, there would be no people in this world.

Ralph McCall became a first-time grand-daddy Friday night. Daughter and grandson are just fine, thank you. But please don't ask about Ralph . . . he might tell you.

Those who paid close attention to the front page picture of HMCS Ontario's return home will have no fears for the future of the race.

(There is no—repeat, no—connection between the above two items.)

Something old has been subtracted from Cec Ridout, boss man of King Bros. Ltd. Cec no longer has migraine headaches . . . he obviously must take up another line of work . . . how can you be in the shipping business without headaches?

Pictures of Elvis Presley are now being given away at various places in Victoria . . . warning: don't feed it, it may follow you home.

Jack Boothe was in town for a brief visit last week. . . . I arranged it . . . the briefness, that is . . . for which I am to receive the George medal . . . real George. . . .

Enquiry to Herb Hammill of the Victoria Rock and Alpine Garden Society: I have a rock garden which grows nothing but rocks. Does this entitle me to a blue ribbon? (The rocks are very pretty, even prettier than the ones in my head.)

Is it true certain crew members of Esquimalt-based RCN ships would do well to learn to speak Mexican? (Yes, it is.)

Ron Coulter, police reporter of The Times, is no longer police reporter of The Times. He's a policeman. (Honest, I'm not making this up.)

Moral: If you can't lick 'em, j'ine 'em.

Apropos the above: If you're the second-best 10-pin bowler in Canada and a fair hand at third base, there's a job open for you at The Times.

I didn't know what time it was department: The Betty-Ann Bakery is on standard time on the outside, daylight saving time on the inside . . . how does owner Jim Wilmshurst know when it's time to take his siesta? . . . (He does, though.)

Whatever became of Waldo Skillings?

I think Marlene is making a mistake, but she currently favors the Army over the Navy, the Air Force, and even the Sea Cadets. (More later on this.)

Wouldn't it be terrible for the people in this world if there were no people in this world?

Saanich residents who saw a cougar and three kittens crossing a field near the Dominion observatory Saturday are "lucky to have seen the animals," Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, said today.

"Few people during their lifetime ever see a live cougar," he said. "They are secretive animals and keep out of man's way."

Dr. Carl said in his opinion cougars are not dangerous and residents have nothing to fear from the animal and its kittens.

Game department officials said no organized hunt is being made for the cougar as they have not received "an official" complaint against the animals.

"Cougars travel far," they said. "Today they may be miles away."

Highway Route Tentative Says Gaglardi

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said in Vancouver Sunday he expects to make a decision this week on the route of the Trans-Canada Highway through eastern B.C.

He denied having made any final decision, although a letter in which he applied for federal aid on a route through Rogers Pass was tabled in the House of Commons recently.

Mr. Gaglardi said the letter was written because he had to make a "tentative" arrangement so that federal authorities could estimate their share of the construction cost.

In January it was estimated the Rogers Pass route would cost about $1,000,000 a mile.

PAY PLAN

The federal government would pay 100 per cent for the 20 miles through Glacier National Park, and under an agreement of last fall, 90 per cent for the other 80 miles.

Mr. Gaglardi said other routes have not been rejected completely but "it looks like Rogers Pass to me."

The route through the Selkirk Mountains has been a source of controversy for several years.

Rogers Pass is between Revelstoke and Golden. Organizations and public officials in southeastern British Columbia have been asking that the highway go through the Jumbo Pass further south, between Windermere and Duncan Lake.

Gas Feeder Line Approval Given Northern Company

The B.C. cabinet today approved a recommendation by the Public Utilities Commission permitting the Prince George Gas Co. Ltd. to construct a gas distribution system at Prince George.

It also approved the construction of a number of gas distribution systems and feeder lines in the B.C. interior together with required feeder lines from the main gas transmisison lines of Westcoast Transmisison Co. Ltd. To these distribution systems and to any industrial plants located in the vicinity.

The order specifies that Prince George Gas Company shall make firm arrangements to secure a supply of gas from Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. by agreement subject to approval by the commission within 60 days.

Inland Gas, which holds a Westcoast franchise to distribute gas throughout B.C. earlier received PUC permission to construct distribution system in Okanagan and Fraser Valley communities.

60 Hunt Missing Invalid

Aged Caycuse Man Feared in Danger

More than 60 men from Caycuse camp and other Cowichan Lake areas, led by the RCMP, at press time were searching for a 63-year-old invalid missing from Caycuse since 5 a.m. Sunday.

The camp is on the south shore of Cowichan Lake, 20 miles west of the village of Lake Cowichan.

Eric Carlson arrived at the Caycuse home of his daughter early Sunday morning, as had been customary for several years, then left immediately.

When there was no sign of him at 11 a.m. an alarm was broadcast, and a search of the surrounding area begun. Duncan police and a tracking dog from Parksville entered into the search Sunday afternoon.

Relatives felt there was a slim chance that he left camp Sunday morning with a stranger. He was described as five feet nine inches in height, weighing 185 pounds, and wearing grey tweed trousers, dark wool shirt and a brown fedora hat. He looks ill, they said.

Mr. Carlson, a widower, had worked at Caycuse for 20 years as a night watchman. Despite an illness several months ago he continued to stay at the camp bunkhouse at night until 5 a.m., then adjourn to the home of his daughter.

Two sons also live at Caycuse.

It was reported that he was not strong enough to go far from camp except by car.

Island Ports Enlivened By 12 Ships

A halt to the long deep-sea shipping slump arrived today, with four ships working in Victoria and eight others at Nanaimo, Chemainus, Tahsis, Cowichan Bay, Duncan Bay and Alberni.

Lumber loadings out of Island ports to date this year are down almost 50 per cent over the same period last year.

Of the four ships at Ogden Point today, three are lifting lumber; Atlantic Trader is taking 656,000 feet for U.K.; Merchant Duke, 820,000 feet for South Africa, and Pacific Unity, a deckload of 300,000 feet for U.K.

The fourth freighter, John Bakke, is unloading 1,200 tons of steel plate from Japan, destined for Yarrows Ltd. Victoria agent for all four is King Bros. Ltd.

The arrival board indicates a continuation of the "feast" following the "famine"—if all ships listed turn up as per schedule, always a big "if" in the shipping business.

Main reason for the slump in lumber shipments out of Vancouver Island is the softening of the U.K. market, coupled with current high charter rates for bottoms.

Gordon Sanborn Wins Jaycee Speech Contest

Victoria Normal School student teacher Gordon Sanborn won a Junior Chamber of Commerce Vancouver Island district oratorical contest Sunday and will represent the Island at the Jaycee regional convention in Prince George, June 7-9.

Another Victoria Jaycee, Bill Fletcher, won the novice speaking contest for Island Jaycees.

Runners-up in the main contest were Ron MacIsaac, Nanaimo, and Bill Helen, Port Alberni. All spoke on "A Young Man's Responsibility in the Free World."

Winner of the district contest in Prince George will go to national oratorical finals in Winnipeg, July 2.

The meeting Sunday, held in Victoria, elected Bill McKeigan, Nanaimo, new director of Vancouver Island district, succeeding Gilbert Thom, Duncan.

IN VICTORIA to consult with local health groups is Miss Rose Mary McClan, Ottawa, Western Regional Director of the Victorian Order of Nurses. She will direct discussions on part-time physiotherapy, hospital referrals of patients and student programs. Miss McClan, who visits 18 VON centres in the four western provinces, arrived from Calgary on Sunday, leaves for Nanaimo Wednesday, and will attend the provincial meeting of the VON in Vancouver June 7, 8 and 9.

Californian Here For Strait Bid

Woman Marathoner Seeks Sponsor to Offset Costs

By AB KENT

A love of swimming so strong she came 1,200 miles for a crack at Juan de Fuca Strait is going to be an important factor in Amy Hiland's Victoria-Port Angeles swim try later in the summer.

The bronzed, 32-year-old blonde arrived here with husband Pete late last Friday from their home at Long Beach, Calif., after a three-day drive.

And she'll swim for the American shore whether or not there will be any prize money at stake.

In fact, for 4½ years she has guarded her amateur status jealousy, despite the high level of non-deductible training expenses.

Swimming, according to Pete, "costs more than keeping a racehorse and expenses aren't deductible from income tax unless Amy gives up her amateur standing.

"But she's so crazy about it—and she can really swim—why not let her?"

3-MONTH STAY

The couple are prepared to stay as long as three months in order to train properly and await ideal crossing conditions, but if unable to get suitable accommodation in Victoria they may switch to Port Angeles for training purposes.

If their plans coincide with any prize money arrangements under consideration by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce which hopes to put out an attractive $10,000 purse for a late summer Strait marathon, Amy will go along with it and forget her amateur ticket.

Mrs. Hiland's chief claim as a distance swimmer is her victory last September over Catalina Channel, a 24-mile stretch of violent water mooted by marathoners as tougher than the English Channel.

She set a new Amateur Athletic Union record in that effort, covering the distance in 20 hours in spite of being seasick and having to swim a total of 37 miles to finally set foot on Point Fermin, landing spot on the California mainland.

Water temperature was about 56 degrees and sharks and killer whales swam all around Amy's flotilla. They didn't bother her until the coast guard and several other boats began shooting at them, which angered the ugly fish.

"It was exciting," remarked Amy, but she stayed in the water to finish the swim.

Sea sickness weakened her to the point where her left arm was paralyzed with a cramp for about an hour.

Three weeks ago, in warm Salton Sea, Calif., Amy swam the 12-mile body of water both ways to set a new record and establish herself as the first woman to make a round-trip swim.

Amy has an idea of what she will be fighting in the Strait. She swam for an hour in 46-degree Cordova Bay Sunday and was training again today.

CONFIDENT

"My doctor (Dr. William Slater, formerly an eastern Canadian and now a noted plastic surgeon in Long Beach) has been with me on all my swims, and he thinks I can do the Strait," said Amy.

Dr. Slater was himself a marathoner in his youth.

Born in Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Hiland was in ill health about five years ago and began swimming on advice of Dr. Slater. She loved it and has been in the water the year around for the last 4½ years.

Referring to her original desert home, she said:

"All they've got there is heat. That's why I like swimming so much, because we didn't have any water to speak of there."

After getting settled, the first thing the Hilands want is a sponsor to assist with training expenses. The down money had a sizeable chunk chopped out at San Luis Obispo en route to Victoria. Pete's car broke down there and he had to put a down payment on a new one so the trip could continue.

City Man Ordained Anglican Deacon At Ottawa Service

Owen Adair Evans, 31, son of Trial Island lightkeeper Owen Evans, was ordained as an Anglican deacon Sunday in Ottawa by Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, bishop of Ottawa.

He has been assigned to special missionary duties in the Ottawa diocese.

Rev. Evans attended Victoria schools before going east to enter the ministry and has also served in the army.

In 1953 he was a padre at Work Point during the summer vacation from university. His last visit to Victoria was at that time.

HARES, HATS AND HOCUS-POCUS

Victoria's oldest practising magician, Frank Merryfield, above, will be on stage June 1 at Victoria High School "Magic Circle Show" at 8 p.m., together with other masters of "black art." The show, sponsored by Cosmopolitan Club, will have proceeds go to charity. At presentation, magician Carl Hemeon's prediction of June 1 Times headline will be opened. It was sealed in envelope more than a week ago.

Citizens to Help Repair Wrecked Home

Kind-hearted citizens today volunteered to help repair and clean up the Saanich log cabin home of Mrs. Pat Cooper, the interior of which was wrecked by person or persons unknown Saturday night.

Mrs. Cooper returned from a night spent with her husband's parents in Esquimalt to find her small cabin a shambles; the destruction was complete.

Every piece of furniture was broken or overturned, the windows smashed, the kitchen stove torn from the chimney and dumped upside down, the floor strewn with food.

Mrs. Cooper said she returned from a night spent with her husband's parents in Esquimalt to find her small cabin a shambles; the destruction was complete.

Saanich police were questioning Mrs. Cooper about the incident. They said she lives in the cabin alone. Her husband is on the mainland.

Today she received offers of assistance from a man willing to replace the broken windows, a woman ready to help with the cleaning, and several other citizens.

Oak Bay Engineer Appointed to Improvement Body

Oak Bay representative to the new Capital District Improvement Commission is municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave, it was announced today.

The appointment rounds out the 11-man board which will recommend beautification projects for the district as a whole and will enable calling of the first meeting, probably early in June.

The board includes six government appointees and two from Victoria, one each from Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

11 Year-Old Hurt In Car Collision

Suffering from head and back injuries after his bicycle collided with a car at the corner of Bay and Cook Sunday morning, Roy Everston, 11, 1041 Bay street, was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

Diver of the car was Mary Elizabeth Drummond.

Hospital officials said the boy's condition is satisfactory.

Jordan River Man Faces Trial In Higher Court

Frank Miller, Jordan River, charged with discharging a firearm with intent to cause bodily harm, was committed in RCMP court today to trial in a higher court.

Charges arose out of an incident May 18 at Jordan River, when four boom men reported they were fired on by a man armed with a shotgun.

Miller was represented by J. A. Byers.

Q.—What TV station is Jackie Gleason with from New York? —A.W.

A.—CBS TV. His show, "The Honeymooners," comes on Saturday night at 8 on Channel 11. This show will close down in the coming autumn and Gleason will open in a new hour-long show which will be "live" instead of on film.

Q.—Who or what was the town of Banff, Alberta, named after?—D.L.

A.—It was named by Lord Strathcona after a town near his birthplace in Scotland.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

150 Civic Officials Meet Here For Talks on New Municipal Act

About 150 municipal officials from throughout British Columbia gathered at the Empress Hotel today for a two-day convention dealing with matters pertaining to the proposed new municipal act.

The workshop conference, the 18th to be held, consists largely of discussion periods, and questions asked will be forwarded to the department of municipal affairs.

President of the conference, Ronald Thompson, Vancouver city clerk, said in this manner revision of the municipal act would be aided by ideas from "key men" throughout the province.

"I should not like to see something put in the act which should not be there, or something left out that should be in," he said at the opening session.

Mr. Thompson said steps should be taken to widen association membership. As things now stand, there are municipal employees such as doctors and engineers who have their own groups.

"We would be richer in knowledge and experience if they were more closely associated with us," he said.

Delegates were welcomed on behalf of the government by Municipal Affairs Minister W. D. Black and on behalf of the city by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Specifically, talks will deal with classification of local government units, finance, personnel and administration. Election of officers was scheduled for this afternoon.

Tuesday a banquet will be given delegates by the provincial government in the hotel ballroom and life membership certificates in the association presented by the municipal affairs minister.

HARD-WORKING REGISTRATION DESK PERSONNEL at municipal officers' convention under way here registered about 150 delegates from throughout B.C. Left to right are C. W. R. Harper, Nelson city clerk; A. D. Corker, Campbell River village clerk; Miss C. E. Cartmell, Chilliwack treasurer, and Miss A. W. Dunnignan, Merritt clerk. Registration started Sunday and conference opened at 9.15 a.m. today.

Greats in Sports History Presented on Long Play

By PENNY SAVER

For the keen sportsmen in our midst, I've found an interesting long-playing record featuring exerpts from a popular album of greatest moments in sports with active sounds and voices. Greats such as Jim Corbett, Joe Louis, Tony Galento, Grantland Rice, Knute Rockne, Roger Bannister, Lou Gehrig and a dozen others are featured. This record comes with a plastic-cased razor with 10 blades. The razors are classified light, regular or heavy. The razor, with the unbreakable record costs $1.29.

Some time ago, I wrote about some handy money-management booklets I received. They dealt with children's spending, and your budget, and gave practical advice and suggestions concerning problems and pitfalls of handling money. The latest is For Young Moderns which gives hints on how to determine money management goals. How you get, spend and keep track of money is a mystery and chance affair with many, but this booklet gives some easy charts and methods to straighten out the most confused budgets. These booklets are 10 cents. There are other valuable tips and ideas in similar books put out by the same people. "Your Health Dollar," "Your Food Dollar," "Your Clothing Dollar," "Your Shelter Dollar" . . . and on through home furnishings, equipment, shopping and recreation are all yours at 10 cents each.

The Money Management booklets, except for "Young Moderns," "Your Equipment Dollar" and "Your Recreation Dollar," are available in English or French. The complete library, of 10 booklets in an attractive library box, in English only, costs $1.

Gift wrapping and suitable cards are not seasonal things, but are in constant need for showers, birthdays, anniversaries and the many other occasions that warrant a prettily wrapped gift. For 35 cents you can buy two sheets of beautiful paper in violet, thistle, forget-me-not patterns, or with gold on white congratulations paper. With the attractive paper come matching gift enclosure cards that reflect the pattern of the paper. Shower cards and all-occasion cards are yours at seven cents each.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned in the column today or during past weeks.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Young Girl's Fat Face May Be Blessing Later

Q.—"A girl friend and I have a very unusual problem. It seems that we already have our curves under control but we have very full faces and would like to slim them down. Can you help us? I certainly hope you can! Could you possibly print a remedy or do you have a leaflet about this?"

A.—Thank heaven that you have nice full faces because as you grow older the layer of fat between your skin and your facial muscles will decrease. I know that you are not worrying about that now, but the time will come when you will.

The only way to decrease fat on your face is by a general loss in weight. Since your weight is correct, do not worry. You probably look young and lovely.

However, you should take this into consideration in your hair style and makeup. Wear your hair close at the sides and high on top. If you use rouge apply it closer to the nose. Do not take the color far out toward the temples. Also do not tweeze your brows at the inside ends. In other words, the wider your brows are apart the wider it makes your face appear.

Q.—"Lately every time I argue, yell or get nervous I have a terrible itch under my arms. At first it is red like a rash, then that goes away but it still itches at those times terribly. I stopped using deodorants but it didn't help at all. Can you tell me why this happens?"

A.—You have given yourself the answer except you do not realize it. If you argue and yell and get nervous often it's a blessing that your whole family does not break out in a rash.

You've had the word, straight from your own body, about what arguing and yelling does to you. Have you thought what it does to your family?

The itching could come from allergies or some systemic condition. If it continues see your physician. In the meantime try controlling your temper.

Q.—"I have read that a woman must exercise hard at least an hour each day, preferably more, in order to improve her figure. Is this true?"

A.—Nope! Even 20 minutes of exercise done correctly and regularly each day will make a big difference. A half hour is perfect. And, when you exercise take time for the stretch, and rest when you feel tired.

Memorial Service Planned at Cross of Sacrifice

Plans were completed at meeting of Victoria Municipal Chapter, IODE, for a Memorial Day service at the Cross of Sacrifice in Ross Bay Cemetery, next Sunday at 8 p.m. Padre D. W. Kendell will officiate and wreaths will be placed by the municipal regent, Mrs. A. Warren Smith, Mayor Percy B. Scurrah and regents of primary chapters.

Mrs. Smith presided at the meeting and it was announced that IODE standard bearers will take part in the annual citizenship ceremonies at the Parliament Buildings on June 30 at 7.30 p.m. Miss Christine MacNab said that Bohuslav B. Kymlicka had won the IODE Gold Jubilee scholarship for Canadian history and Catriona P. Downie the $50 scholarship for proficiency. These will be presented in the fall at Victoria College. Mrs. M. Hall, services at home and abroad secretary, reported that a carton of good used clothing had been sent to provincial chapter and that a crate of oranges had gone to St. Michael's School at Alert Bay. Mrs. D. Kerley, convener of commonwealth relations read an article on Pakistan and some of its customs.

Seattleites Here Briefly

Mrs. George Tilden and Mrs. J. Thomas Dowling, both of Seattle, were in Victoria briefly on the weekend en route back to their homes after a visit to Vancouver. Mrs. Tilden will be better known to Victorians as the "Ann Stirling" of radio station KJR for many years. She is now doing two programs for the Midnight Sun network. Mrs. Dowling, who has been coming to this city for 40 years, is a botanist connected with the Washington State arboratum. While in Victoria the Seattleites had luncheon with Miss Dorothy Cox at her home on Falmouth Road and made a special trip to the Mercer Farm on Blenkinsop Road to see and to hear the skylarks.

From England

Mrs. Rowland Paget arrived in Victoria on Sunday by plane from England to visit her brother, Mr. Robin Cran, 1214 Roslyn Road.

Wife Should Welcome Husband's Associates

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

If it helps a man in his business to be able to entertain friends and business associates, his wife should be prepared for such emergencies.

Hurlock

(Q)—"My husband is one of those men who bring friends or business associates in after work for a drink and then, without consulting me, he will ask them to stay and have supper with us. Our children are grown and in their own homes so I don't have a reason to buy large supplies of food as I did when they were at home. Often I have provided just enough for my husband and myself. It is then very embarrassing to me to have to say I haven't enough food on hand after my husband has already asked the man to stay. I have tried to point out to my husband that this upsets me but he claims it is good business for him and I should be prepared for emergencies like this. Do you think he is right?"—Mrs. W.

(A)—I certainly do think your husband is right, both about the value of entertaining business associates and about your being prepared for such emergencies. If you had small children to feed, it would be unfair ofyour husband to bring in guests as he does.

However, with only the two of you at home, you could easily be ready for unexpected guests. As a matter of fact, when your husband brings a guest home after work for a drink and chat, you could save yourself a lot of last minute rush and embarrassment by asking the guest at once if he won't stay for supper with you. Then you would know just where you stood and could prepare accordingly.

With modern refrigeration and frozen foods, you could have on hand enough food for guests all the time. Have food for a whole meal in a semi-prepared state and frozen, like chicken or beef pies, vegetables, and frozen pies or ice cream.

Most men are not too particular about what they eat, as long as the food is good. Our modern frozen food is so well prepared that, in no time, you could prepare a tempting meal and avoid last-minute rushes or embarrassment.

TODAY'S RECIPE

IRISH FRUIT MOLDS

One package lime-flavored gelatin, 1¾ cups hot water, ¼ cup lemon juice, dash salt, 1 large calavo avocado, ½ cup diced celery, ½ cup well-drained crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, salad greens and mayonnaise.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Blend in lemon juice and salt, and cool until slightly thickened. To prepare avocado, cut into halves, remove seed and skin and dice fruit. Fold avocado, celery, pineapple and pimento into thickened gelatin. Pour into molds and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and serve with mayonnaise. Makes six servings.

A RECENT WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Davis are seen leaving the Chapel of the Peace of God with Rt. Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, following their wedding last Friday. Following the ceremony a small reception was held in the Union Club where the Archbishop proposed a toast to the bride's happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are now travelling to eastern United States en route overseas. (Photo by Goertz.)

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Dinner at the Union Club

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. W. H. V. Matthews entertained Saturday evening at a dinner party in the Union Club to honor bride-elect, Miss Patsy Sinnott and her fiance, Lieut. Bill Wilson. Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Matthews are representing Lieut. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Toronto, who are unable to be present for the wedding. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sinnott, parents of the bride-elect; Mr. and Mrs. Dugald McGregor and Lt.-Col. Cyril Wightman and Mrs. Wightman.

Mrs. Norton Welch entertained at tea at her home at Langford on Sunday for Miss Sinnott.

Corsages were presented to her and to her mother, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, when they arrived. An antique Sheffield plate basket filled with summer blooms centred the refreshment table. Pink candles in silver holders completed the arrangement. Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. G. P. Black. Other guests were Mrs. G. Long, Mrs. W. H. Yardley, Mrs. Gerald Emery, Mrs. E. M. Selkirk, Mrs. B. T. Leigh, Mrs. P. N. Welch, Misses Madelyn Coltis, Marilyn Selkirk and Marilyn Leigh. Misses Elizabeth Welch and Diane Southwell assisted in serving.

To Spend Summer Here

Mrs. Barbara F. Richards has returned to her home at 1765 Rockland Avenue after spending the winter in San Francisco. Three children, Penny, Vicki and Timothy will come from San Francisco, where they are attending school, in June. Their brother, Kip, attends Glenlyon School in Victoria.

Elenore Straith and Nelson Crisp Married in Springtime Setting

While Mrs. Roberto Wood played traditional wedding music Miss Elenore Jean Straith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Straith, Burdick avenue, entered First United Church, Saturday evening, on the arm of her father for her marriage to Nelson Albert Crisp, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Crisp, Cadboro Bay road.

In a setting of pink snapdragons and white stocks in large baskets and silver candelabra holding lighted tapers, Rev. A. I. Higgins heard the young couple's vows. Dr. W. G. Wilson assisted. Soloist, Miss Angela Clarke sang "Because."

The attractive, dark-haired bride was radiant in a hand-embroidered nylon tulle over taffeta gown with fitted bodice and picture neckline outlined with dainty stand-up frill of embroidered lace touched with seed pearls.

The puffed sleeves were very short, and the full hooped skirt extended into a graceful train. A pearl and diamente bandeau held her fingertip veil of French imported tulle. Her lily-point mitts were of embroidered tulle. Gardenias, sweetheart roses and lily of the valley formed her lovely cascade bridal bouquet. Only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the groom.

Maid of honor, Miss Margaret Rainey and junior bridesmaid, Miss Jean Crisp, were gowned in organdy over taffeta high-waisted dresses in blue and yellow respectively, fashioned on princess lines with deep yokes of eyelet embroidery extending into long torso lines at the back, ending in huge organdy bows with floating panel ends. They wore matching bandeaux of marguerites and carried the same flowers in their bouquets.

The groom had Darrell Burley as his best man, while Tom Rimmer, Robert Straith and Brian Ruddock ushered guests to pews marked with satin ribbons and white marguerites.

Georgian Room in the Empress Hotel was chosen for the reception party which followed. A large bride's table was centred with an all-white, rosebud decorated cake on a silver stand in a mist of pink tulle. Pink roses, snapdragons and white stocks decorated the table. Dr. W. G. Wilson proposed the toast to the bride's future happiness.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Banff, Lake Louise and the States, the bride wore a silver tinsel wool jersey dress of soft blue, styled with a scooped neckline edged with delicate jeweled beading. Her head-hugging hat was of matching material and her topcoat of parchment shade cashmere. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Crisp will make their home in Victoria when they return.

LIVING MEMORIALS —NOT STONE

QUEBEC (CP) — Nearly $250,000 was spent on education last year by the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, president Mrs. L. B. Smart of Toronto said at Saturday night's official opening ceremony of the IODE annual meeting.

Mrs. Smart said 17 per cent more bursaries and overseas scholarships were awarded by the IODE last year than in 1954.

"Rather than erect stone monuments, since 1920 the IODE has continued to carry on a living memorial to men and women who died in defence of their country by awarding these bursaries and scholarships," she said.

Hand Weavers Hear Teacher

Speaker at a recent meeting of the Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild was William D. West, teacher of art and design at Central Junior High School. Speaking on the topic, "Design and the Weaver," Mr. West told of history and conditions that brought about contemporary design. The speaker was introduced by Miss I. Worthington and thanked by Miss V. Ashdown.

Mrs. A. G. Kinnis presided at the meeting and Mrs. D. E. Redden reported on exhibition plans.

Miss Mary Andrews of Sidney was accepted as a new member. A report on new weaving publications in the Victoria Public Library was given by Miss V. Ashdown. A parcel of British Columbia weaving has been sent to the San Francisco exhibition which began on Thursday and lasts until June 10.

It was announced that representatives of the school board, parent-teacher council and the teachers' federation have met to form a public education information committee which will present debates and forums in the fall as part of a program of public information.

Plans were made for a regional conference in November to provide an opportunity for members of the associations to meet together with provincial federation officers, to discuss the local needs of the area concerned and to bring instruction and information to the member associations.

Mrs. L. E. Moutray was named head of a committee to study the possibility of awarding a bursary to a deserving student. Colwood PTA was welcomed as the 30th member association bringing membership up to 4,554.

The historian's book was on display and Mrs. E. Wadsworth, parent education chairman, distributed booklets on "Public Elementary and Secondary Education in British Columbia."

Newlyweds Now Living In Victoria

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sutherland, who were married recently in a ceremony in St. Aidan's Church, have returned to Victoria after a honeymoon trip to Kamloops, and have made their home at 1325 Fort street.

The bride, the former Miss Helga Mosimann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Mosimann, Southgate street, was gowned in a white net and satin bridal dress, worn with a dainty crown of sequins which held her flowing net veil.

Miss Ann Turner, maid of honor, and Miss Connie Van Wart, bridesmaid, wore mauve and pink respectively, while flower girls, Linda Arnot and Bonnie Roegley, wore mauve and light green dresses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Lenerud, Kamloops, had D. Smart as best man, and G. Wasserman and H. Aichle as ushers.

The ceremony was performed by Elder A. S. Arnot, soloist, Bob Erscutt, was accompanied by Mrs. Peterson, organist.

Andrew Arnot proposed the toast to the bride at the buffet luncheon reception which followed.

For travelling, the bride wore a rose wool knitted suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

6 IN MEMORIAM

LAWSON — In loving memory of Margaret who passed away May 28, 1954.

The face I loved is now laid low,
Your gentle voice is still,
Your hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say and do;
I wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.
—Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mother and Flossie.

ROACH—In memory of Grenfell Blain Roach, beloved son of John W. and Hattie H. Roach, and brother, Francis Lambert Roach. Born Regina, Sask., October 13, 1910, passed away in Victoria, B.C., May 28, 1949.
—Ever remembered and loved by Father, Mother, and brother.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By JIMMY HATLO

6 IN MEMORIAM

ADAM—(nee Elsea Peters) passed away May 28, 1951.
—Always remembered by her Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

HOGUE—In memory of a loving wife and mother, Janet Hogue, who passed away May 27, 1953.

There comes a time for all of us,
When we must say goodbye,
But faith and hope and love and trust
Can never, never die.
Although the curtain falls at last,
Is that a cause to grieve?
The future's fairer than the past,
If only we believe.
—Sadly missed by her husband, Al, and son and daughter-in-law, Micky and Mavis in Campbell River, also her daughter and son-in-law, Millie and Slim in Victoria; grandchildren Janet, Mavis, Rosmarie and Billy.

'BLOOMER GIRL' SPECTACULAR ON C-4 AT 5

"The Montreal Trap"

In his visit to Victoria last week, Mr. Wellum asserted that the Montreal situation was much tougher to deal with than the situation likely to develop here. In Montreal, local Channels 2 and 6 were creating havoc with reception from popular U.S. Channels 3 and 5. But once the "Montreal Trap" was devised and screwed on to the back of sets the co-channel interference was kept to a minimum. Mr. Wellum and Benco are now designing a trap especially adapted to Victoria's needs.

This little gadget, by the way, will cost about $14.95 retail plus the usual service charge, or, about $20 in all.

However, if we may suggest it, don't go rushing out to buy traps or even worry about traps until CKDA owner, David M. Armstrong gets through testing his Channel 6 outlet. So far Mr. Armstrong hasn't divulged where he intends erecting his transmitter and it may be that comparatively little interference will be encountered. If the interference is there, however, then it takes but a phone call to your local dealer to arrange to have a trap—not necessarily Mr. Wellum's—installed.

There will be, of course, the usual gruffing at having to lay out another $20 for one's television entertainment. But we're all getting something out of it—another channel that may prove to be well worthwhile in the years to come.

Meanwhile Mr. Armstrong and his manager Charles R. White are understood busy lining up their programs, network, filmed and "live." An announcement as to their progress can be expected within the next two weeks.

And still they say . . . It's the woman who pays . . .
SMALL BOY'S
RESIGNATION
For weeks he tried to interest her
With stones of red and blue
She snubbed his efforts every one
As only girls can do.
He turned handsprings and hung from trees
'Til clothes were in a wreck.
As a last resort, so great his love,
He washed his ears and neck.

GARNETT RICHARDS'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Highly inspired, mentally active, physically inventive friends and supporters see just what you want to do and give their unqualified backing. YOU must ask for this co-operation. Otherwise they may feel they are being intrusive.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—One in powerful position sees exactly what your career, public, worldly aims are and will give you the necessary lift. Be sure you state your capabilities in interesting terms for best results. Be outgiving. Being civic-minded helps.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Get out of your own rut today. Make the acquaintance of every other individual who can aid you in any way at all. Search out the data you need. Whatever can be helpful is now available. Full speed ahead. Fine for travelling.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—You have very accurate hunch how to add to your income, revenue by more close-knit association with another. Be sure you listen to accurate suggestion given by one who knows what he, or she, is talking about.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Now you have unusually good day for getting in touch with every partner or opponent and arriving at an understanding. Be just as dynamic and outgiving as you wish. Wave your arms and bellow like a lion if others need that to really hear you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is your day for great headway in getting all your work behind you. Pitch in on cleaning, files, all the minutiae of everyday living. Go after new appliances, efficiencies which can be of help. Be open-minded and electric.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—This is your day to really enjoy yourself by getting your creative ideas to the attention of those able to really make them a success in the world of outside action. Get on the beam. Expand, produce. Tonight fine for romance, sports. Be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Try to start an upswing now possible for you by putting into effect, quietly and without rousing others, the efficiencies and progressive systems that you KNOW your need. Get off your laze. Be forceful. P.M. fine for home pleasures, delights.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You like to talk and can utter just the right word, phrase, sentence that will convince others of that plan you wish to put into motion with their help. Once you've stated views, stop yakking and listen to other fellow. Then you win.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Modernizing your own practical thinking where money, property, possessions are concerned is the manner in which a far greater abundance can now be yours. Look to means by which others have been successful. Get out of your rut.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—This is your day to early preen yourself in the best apparel you have. Then get out in the world of action. Let others know your desires. Otherwise how will they know just what to do to aid your progress? Be specific. Draw diagrams.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Now you can look inward, but impersonally, to see just what is necessary to increase your happiness, effectiveness, etc., in your own world. This shows something's holding you back that can be eliminated right now, either thoughts or practical debris.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY . . .

Tuesday's child is one of those very wide-awake, modern and up-to-date youngsters who will be a veritable question-box. Nothing will escape his, or her, attention and you'd better get prepared early to have a veritable "QUIZ KID" in your home, and you'd better also round out your own information on all subjects while your progeny is still in the infant state since otherwise you'll feel pretty silly not to be able to answer the questions asked of YOU: Fine for unique undertaking that your tot will pick out for himself, or herself.

UPLANDS
Set well back from the road on a 116x186' lot, this particularly lovely 4-year-old home will surely meet the requirements of the most discriminating buyer. From the front of the attached double garage, wide steps lead to a very nice weather-protected entrance. A well-proportioned L-shaped through hall gives access to: a large living room, full-size dining room, a completely modern kitchen and utility, a lovely birch-panelled study, bathroom with built-in vanity, two twin-size bedrooms. There is a full cement basement with attractive maid's quarters and an excellent hot-water heating plant. The house is completely insulated and the doors are weather stripped. The very best of workmanship and planning are evident. The floors are ¾" oak throughout. The house is most tastefully decorated and the whole property is immaculate. Quite frankly this home carries our highest recommendation in all respects. It can be inspected by appointment only. An exclusive listing with F. N. Cabeldu Ltd.

Ship Sinking in U.S. Was Work of Nazi Spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sinking of the freighter Panamanian at a Baltimore dock, blamed 16 years ago on failure to observe loading instructions, apparently was the work of a Nazi agent.

This was revealed Saturday when German documents, part of a collection of 534 captured at the end of the Second World War, were made public in a book published by the state department.

Six documents mentioned the sinking of a steamship of the Red Star Line and described circumstances which left little doubt that the Panamanian was the ship in question.

A Nazi agent named Bergmann took credit for sabotaging the 15,575-ton Panamanian.

The Panamanian, a converted liner flying the flag of Panama, was owned by the Red Star Line headed by Arnold Bernstein, a German-Jewish shipping magnate. Bernstein's ships were confiscated by the Nazis and he was sent to jail for two years.

CARGO FOR BRITAIN

On March 21, 1940, the Panamanian sank in 35 feet of water shortly after loading 11,500 tons of tobacco, glucose, automobile supplies, canned goods, resin in drums and steel billets for Great Britain. Only the fact that the ship's stern line was still tied to the pier saved it from keeling over.

About 5,000 tons of cargo was removed before the ship could be refloated by salvage tugs.

The sinking was caused by flooding of the boiler and engine rooms and the cargo holds through the fuel door.

Chief engineer S. Hansen and second engineer Robert Alberto testified before the bureau of marine inspection and navigation that the fuel door had been closed and locked securely before the ship sank. A spanner wrench, which the chief said did not belong to the ship's tools, was found beside the door.

After the bureau blamed the sinking on failure to observe loading instructions the case was closed.

Jet Pilot Risks Life To Save Crowd

CHICAGO (AP)—A navy jet pilot risked his life to avoid crashing into a crowd of about 700 persons while making an emergency landing Sunday at a civilian airport northwest of Chicago.

Witnesses said Lt. Cmdr. Thomas E. Bourdon, 34 of Muskegon, Mich., a reserve pilot, landed his plane down-wind on the short runway at Paulwaukee airport when his fuel supply was almost exhausted.

George Priester, operator of the airport, said if Bourdon had made a normal into-the-wind landing on the 3,400 foot runway, his plane probably would have slammed into an estimated 700 spectators congregated near the field's administration building.

The navy spokesman said that normally jet fighters need at least 5,000 feet of runway to land.

Bourdon took off from the naval air station at Glenview, a Chicago suburb, on a normal training flight but was unable to land there when a heavy fog closed in on the field. Almost out of fuel, he headed for Palwaukee, the nearest airport.

Halfway down the runway, he retracted the plane's landing gear, causing it to slide on its undercarriage and stop just short of the runway's end.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS
WESTERN REGION

Sealed tenders will be received at the office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg, until two o'clock, Central Standard Time, in the afternoon of Tuesday, June 19, 1956, for the construction of a stores and car department building at Vancouver, British Columbia.

Plans, specifications and form of contract may be seen, and form of tender obtained from the office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg; District Engineers at Vancouver and Edmonton; and Division Engineers at Victoria, Kamloops and Calgary.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on form supplied by the Railway and accompanied by an accepted cheque drawn on a chartered bank in Canada in favour of Canadian National Railways, equal to five per cent of the total amount of the tender.

No bid bonds will be accepted with tenders for this work.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Fine Racing Seen In Sunday Events At Yacht Club

Harry Barnes sailed his Dragon class Lil to overall victory in the Darcy Shoal race Sunday, first major event on the Royal Victoria Yacht Club 1956 calendar.

On corrected time, he was nearly 30 minutes ahead of the nearest competitor after sailing a near-perfect race under ideal conditions.

Winner in A class was Jack Smith in the eight-meter Reality. He was first over the line, and on corrected time beat out Lalonga II by a fraction of a second.

Mae D, with Ned Ashe at the helm, was 14 seconds behind Max Young's Skoal in the B-C class, but first by one minute on corrected time. The Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association's Green Teal was third.

In the Dragon class, Lil was first, followed by Bill McIntosh's Heather.

Stars raced a course around Discovery Island and Zero Rock. Winner and runner-up were Denis Coverdale in Tigre and Lionel Edwards in Libre.

Bevan Claims British Policy Could Lead to Another War

NEWCASTLE, Eng. (AP) — Aneurin Bevan, left-wing Laborite, told a political meeting Sunday night the present mood of Prime Minister Eden's government could lead Britain into another war.

"It is because these 18th century backwoodsmen in the House of Commons became bloody-minded," he said, "that the situation has developed in Cyprus, and it looks as though the same thing is going to happen in Singapore and Aden."

Bevan said Britain should realize that peoples have the right to be masters in their own land.

"In fact," he said, "the Tories are getting back into the same mood they were in 1937 and 1938 — the same semi-Fascist mood that led us into the world war and could lead us into another."

Man-Made Moon Visible Over Southern U.s. in 1957

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The world's first tiny man-made moon, Project Vanguard, will pass over the southern half of the United States on its first 94-minute race around the earth next year, Dr. W. H. Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory, said Sunday.

"Thus the observations made from this area will be very important in establishing the orbit," he explained.

The only hope of seeing it, he reported, will be when the sun is shining on the object with the observer in darkness beneath it. The satellite will be only 30 inches in diameter.

"This means," Dr. Pickering said, "that you will have to see the satellite just after sunset or just before sunrise." It will be launched from Florida.

He said a network of both radio and optical stations will be established to study the passage of the satellite.

"The satellite itself never will be recovered," he noted. "As time goes on and it slows down from its maximum speed of around four miles per second, the object will re-enter the atmosphere and burn up before it can strike the earth."

HE JUST HATES TO PAY TOLLS

'The Tender Trap' Snares Plaudits

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

"THE TENDER TRAP"

By Max Schulman and Robert Paul Smith

Charlie Reader	Cliff Clarke
Poppy Matson	Madonna McCabe
Joe McCall	Don Ross
Jessica Collins	Marjorie Gilbart
Sylvia Crewes	Margaret Dewdney
Julie Gilles	Norma King
Earle Lindquist	Russel Gurney
Sbi Schwartz	Don Jacobs

Directed by Phyllis and Jim Dulmage.

It was an excellent first night at Langham Court theatre Saturday, when the Victoria Theatre Guild presented its last play of the season, an exuberant if slight comedy.

By measure of audience reaction, the production, handled by a well co-ordinated team of husband-and-wife directors, was an unqualified success. Laughter was continuous, often explosive in the well-filled theatre.

BIT OF DRAGGING

A few faults were apparent to the critical viewer, such as a bit of dragging at the outset. However, this rapidly picked up and general pace was well maintained.

Modern tone of the set was striking and except for one miscued light, technical side of the production was quite competent.

Margaret Dewdney in the principal female role, gave an intelligent performance though there was some lack of contrast particularly in portrayal of inner emotions.

One of the most delightful pieces of acting in the entire production was that of Norma King, who gave an interpretation that was both animated and charming.

An uneven and overdone southern accent marred what was otherwise a competent performance by Marjorie Gilbart.

ROSS TOPS

Top honors for the show belong to Don Ross who was excellently cast and gave a forthright, convincing performance which he sustained throughout. His line delivery was pointed and perfectly timed so that the full humor of his lines found their mark.

A fine character study by Russel Gurney which was well realized and maintained, a hilarious small bit by Don Jacobs and a commendable performance by Cliff Clarke rounded out a well-balanced male cast.

Most promising of the newcomers on the stage, Saturday, was Madonna McCabe, hitherto principally known for a fine soprano voice. On this occasion she gave an alert, intelligent and pleasantly restrained performance which was in nice contrast to the other three girls.

It was an evening of thoroughly enjoyable entertainment which will be repeated nightly through this week to Saturday.

CARPENTERS CONTRACT FOR 10c IN 2 YEARS

Victoria carpenters in Local 1598 have agreed on a two-year contract providing a total 10 cents an hour increase from firms which are members of Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

First raise, bringing the present $2.25 an hour up by three cents, is effective July 1, and the second boost will be added April 1, 1957.

Carpenters and the exchange also agreed on an additional 2 per cent of gross earnings for holiday pay, bringing the total up to the statutory 4 per cent, plus other minor contract changes.

'I Tearfully Agreed To Mother's Remarriage'

One afternoon in late childhood, on my return from school my mother gently informed me that she had decided to marry again, putting the situation in eloquent terms in which I was given to understand that it was a case not of losing my mother but gaining a father.

His name was John Rasin. He was a member of a wealthy and politically prominent family.

During his courtship of my mother he had been extremely kind to me. I had liked him until my mother told me of her intention to marry him.

In a flash kindly Mr. Rasin was transformed in my mind into a sinister and hateful rival.

In my shock and hurt I cried out to my mother that I would never let her marry him; that I would run away. Nothing she could say stopped my tears or assuaged my grief. The argument went on for days.

Seeking a way to bring me round, Mother summoned Aunt Bessie Merryman and Cousin Lelia to add the weight of their arguments.

Patiently they explained that my mother loved Mr. Rasin and that since she no longer had my father she wanted and needed Mr. Rasin to fill the void. Her love for him would not subtract from her love for and her need of me.

Finally I tearfully agreed to the wedding, but I still insisted that I did not see why Mr. Rasin had any right to come and live with us afterwards.

Misleading Picture of Role

The newspaper accounts of the wedding list me as having "attended" my mother. This, however, was a misleading picture of my actual role. More truthfully I was in attendance upon the wedding cake.

While the ceremony was in progress in the parlor I slipped out and made my way to the dining room, where the cake stood unguarded on the table. It was never in my mind, I am sure, to damage the beauty of the cake in the slightest. My only object was to determine the precise location of the ring, the thimble, and the dime.

I had in fact located the thimble and was probing for the dime when there came a gasp from the dining room door through which my mother and new stepfather were leading their guests.

The cake was not exactly a shambles but neither could it be said that its original beauty had survived unmarred; and there was I, caught in the dreadful act.

Then, as I whirled around, a roar of laughter went up and I felt myself being hoisted into the air, almost to the ceiling. Finally I came face to face with a very red and happy Mr. Rasin—and all he did, of course, was to give me a great big kiss.

In time I became fond of Mr. Rasin—I always so addressed him. My mother's life became secure, if not actually serene.

I moved to a boarding school, but in the spring of my first year there the walls of my little castle of contentment were brought tumbling down.

On April 4, 1913, I was called out of the classroom and informed gently that my stepfather had passed away. The marriage had lasted not quite five years.

Mother Once More on Her Own

My mother moved to a small apartment. We were as hard-pressed as we had ever been, for the income from Mr. Rasin's trust fund no longer came to her after his death.

She was once more on her own.

The thought of going to college never occurred to me—it just didn't exist for girls of my upbringing. Nor did I ever, at what might have been for me a fruitful moment of choice, give a thought to finding a job and earning my own living. Baltimore girls of my generation were not sent to school to learn useful vocational skills.

What, then, was life supposed to hold for us? The answer, in a word, was marriage.

However, before a Baltimore girl could be considered eligible for marriage she had to make her debut. This presented a problem, in view of our straitened circumstances.

Fortunately, Uncle Sol came to the rescue. "Naturally, your mother is making arrangements to bring you out this winter," he said.

"Yes," I answered meekly. "At least she hopes to be able to make the arrangements."

"Good," said Uncle Sol. "I want you to know the kind of life your father would have given you if he had lived. I shall help, of course."

He kissed me on the forehead and pressed something into my hand, something crumpled into a small wad. I dared not open my hand until I was back in the car. There were two ten-dollar bills.

This was the beginning of a strange, intermittent and commendable practice. Whenever Uncle Sol thereafter gave me money, it was usually in that odd way—a small wad pressed into my hand at the moment of parting.

To be presented at the Bachelors' Cotillion was a life-and-death matter for Baltimore girls

COULDN'T OPEN DOOR

Children Rescued From Flaming Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two small children had a narrow escape from death when a neighbor rescued them from a burning car outside his suburban Burnaby home.

Melvin Marshall, 30, heard the terrified screams of the trapped children, Johnny Redekop, 2, and his sister Nina, 1, and pulled them from the smoke-filled car.

Their father, John Redekop, left the children alone in the car across the street from Marshall's home while he went to a nearby house to borrow some tools. He returned only a few minutes later to find the car in flames.

"The children would have died if Mr. Marshall hadn't got to them," said Mr. Redekop. "They could never have opened a door."

He said he did not know the cause of the blaze. "It could have been a short circuit in the ignition wiring or the children may have found some matches in the glove compartment."

CCF Proposes Three Names For Webster Seat

VANCOUVER — George Home, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, Alex. B. MacDonald, lawyer and provincial president of the CCF, and Harold Thayer, provincial CCF secretary and editor of CCF news, have been proposed for nomination as CCF candidate in Vancouver East, the seat formerly held by Arnold Webster, former CCF leader who has retired.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Warmer weather and lower humidity had forestry officials worried about fire conditions today. There were 107 new fires during the weekend and 26 are still burning, but all except a 2,700-acre blaze on the Sechelt Peninsula 50 miles northwest of here are under control.

A forest official said the humidity had dropped to 35 today. Anything below 30 is considered extremely dangerous.

Wedding Party Kills Three

GUARD FOR QUEEN ENLARGED BY YARD

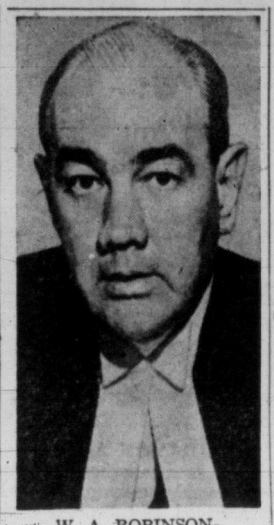
LONDON (AP)—Three Cypriot gunmen today were reported being hunted by police who have thrown a close guard around the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and other members of the Royal Family.

The trooping of the color ceremony next Thursday, at which the Queen will ride on a horse for an hour in the midst of a large crowd on the Horseguards' parade grounds, is giving police a headache.

Scotland Yard has called many extra policemen from outlying districts for duty at the ceremony. All available central London detectives will be mingling with the throngs.

Extra security precautions were evident when the Queen and her children returned from a holiday in Scotland Sunday.

Spectators were cleared from the platform at Euston station at which their train arrived. There were rain-coated men, on a sunny day, at the station. They were presumed to be security men, with coats covering pistols.



W. A. ROBINSON
. . . faces motion of censure

Government Slows Rush on Pipe Loan

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government retreated in the Commons today under the Opposition's attack on its pipelines loan bill.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent announced the government would not force immediate postponement of debate on the remaining clauses of the bill, currently before the House for clause-by-clause study, as it did on the first three clauses last week.

He said the House could debate whatever clauses it wished of the remaining four for the balance of the week.

But a new debate was launched immediately when Opposition leader George Drew moved a motion of censure on House committee chairman William Robinson (L-Simcoe East), who, he said on Friday when Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) was suspended, had lost the confidence of Opposition members.

Mr. Drew's motion was ruled out of order. However, later, when the Commons went into committee of the whole on the pipeline bill, the deputy chairman, E. T. Applewhaite, took over the chair.

Mr. Robinson had been in the chair throughout the first two days.

Fleming and his PC colleague Howard Green (who fainted in the Parliamentary restaurant after Friday's session) were cheered when they returned to the House today.

Drew's immediate reaction to Mr. St. Laurent's announcement that debate would be permitted on clauses 4 to 7 of the bill, was one of protest. He said the House should revert to clauses 1 and 2, to make a fresh start on clause-by-clause study.

Mr. St. Laurent said it was the government's intention to postpone debate on the earlier clauses of the bill and debate clauses 4 to 7 because they contained the real meat of the legislation.

LPP PICKET COMMONS

OTTAWA CP)—Some 30 persons today walked a peaceful picket line in front of the Parliament Buildings to protest the government's natural gas pipeline legislation.

The only member of parliament who apparently took notice of the placard-carrying marchers from the Labor-Progressive Communist party was Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William.

He came out of the Parliament Buildings, looked at the picket line and shouted, "Hurray for the Liberals" and "Hurrah for C. D. Howe."

"Take another drink," shouted one of the marchers.

Communists Lose Ground In Italy Vote

ROME (UP)—Italy's Communist party, the biggest in the free world, suffered losses today in the first returns from Italy's nationwide local elections.

Premier Antonio Segni's Christian Democratic party, the pro-western group that has governed Italy through the postwar struggle against Fascism and Communism, took heart from the early but conclusive returns.

A big turnout among the 30,000,000 eligible men and women voting in the west's first big test of the Kremlin's "smile offensive," encouraged Democratic parties which had feared Democratic apathy would give the local posts to the Communists.

But apparently the Communist party was undermined by Moscow's flip-flop on Josef Stalin, for early returns showed Democratic gains.

It was too early for any cheering by the west. Voting continued today and there were no results from the major cities' tight races.

City administrations were at stake in such major cities as Rome, Turin, Genoa, Milan, Venice, Trieste, Bologna, Florence, Leghorn, Naples and Bari. A total of 7,141 communities or districts in 79 provinces was involved.

Pupkowski Ordered to Essondale

The B.C. Cabinet today ordered that Czeslaw Pupkowski, charged with murder and committed for trial in Victoria April 19, be removed from Oakalla Prison to the provincial mental hospital at Essondale. Pupkowski was charged after he was pulled from the sea after attempting suicide. His wife's beaten body was found in their James Bay Home.

The cabinet said that satisfactory evidence that Pupowski is "mentally ill" had been submitted.

Speaker Ready To Answer Opposition

OTTAWA (BUP) — Speaker Rene Beaudoin told the Commons today he was willing to submit his record in the speakership to a House committee composed entirely of opposition MPs.

He suggested that the novel committee, with no government supporters on it, be under the chairmanship of Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre), party whip and rules expert.

Beaudoin said that during the weekend he had reviewed all the rulings he had made since the pipeline debate started, and found them all correct, with two minor exceptions. One was a ruling supporting a motion by opposition leader George Drew to divide the bill into two bills, and one was a ruling allowing Knowles to move the adjournment of the House, although he believed at the time that the motion was out of order.

He said a motion to adjourn the House was always in order.

Mishaps Kill 42 in Canada

By the Canadian Press

Forty-two Canadians died accidentally during the weekend, 20 in traffic mishaps and 14 by drowning.

A Canadian Press survey shows from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday 20 persons died in Ontario, seven in Quebec, seven in British Columbia, four in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, and one each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotoia.

Four men were drowned in British Columbia when their boat overturned in the Squamish river. Another drowning and two traffic deaths boosted B.C.'s toll to seven. (See Page 11.)

New H-Bomb Blast?

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists announced their instruments indicated the United States set off another hydrogen blast at Bikini today comparable in power to the mighty May 21 H-bomb explosion.

Swiss Match Hillary

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Swiss mountaineering teams have made an unprecedented grand slam by twice climbing Everest — world's tallest peak conquered but once before by a British team in 1953—and reaching the summit of neighboring Lhotse, a Nepalese government spokesman announced.

The announcement said the first pair of Swiss climbers to win victory were Ernest Reiss and Fritz Lunchsinger, who climbed to the summit of 27,890 - foot "Lhotse One" May 18.

Following this success, climbers Ernst Schmied and Jurg Marjet toiled up the winding ice-strewn trail which Sir Edmund Hillary and his Sherpa guide, Tensing, followed just three years earlier to pin the Swiss flag to the top of the world's highest mountain May 23.

A day later another team of Swiss climbers—Adolf Reist and Hands Rudolf von Gunten—fought their way through low clouds to Everest's summit, the announcement said.

"All members of the Swiss team are proud and happy," the Nepalese spokesman reported.

BUSY SEASON

Only the Argentine team attempting to climb the 26,810-foot Mount Dhaykagiri in central Nepal is still in the field.

There has been no report from South American climbers for one month.

The Swiss success, together with the Japanese expedition's double successful assault on Manaslu peak—which previously was unclimbed—May 9 and May 11, makes the present summer season one of the most successful in modern history of Himalayan climbing.

Albert Eggler, leader of the expedition, said in a message to the Nepal foreign office that the two assaults on Everest were made from the 26,000-foot south col between the two mighty peaks.

Eggler said Luchsinger and Reiss reached the Lhotse summit from Camp Six on the south col, while Schmied, Marmet, Reist and Gunsten climbed Everest from Camp Seven on the south col, which is 26,000 feet high.

The Swiss assault groups climbed 1,890 feet from the barren, windswept south col to conquer Lhotse, and 3,028 feet to reach the summit of Everest.

LONDON (Reuters) — Brigadier Sir John Hunt, leader of the successful 1953 Everest expedition, said today he was "simply delighted" to hear of the Swiss success.

"Please tell them we send tremendous congratulations from all the members of the 1953 British team," Hunt said.

"Only last week we had a reunion in Wales and discussed the Swiss team. We sent them a message wishing them every success."

Disappears From Boat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said John G. Biggs, 81, of Vancouver, disappeared early today aboard the CPR's Princess Marguerite on a return trip from Victoria. His wife said she last saw him when the ship was approaching the Lion's Gate bridge at the harbor entrance here.

PROMOTER PUZZLES JORDAN RIVER

40 Loggers Get $250 Each For Staking Mining Claims

BY DON INGHAM

A free-wheeling mining promoter has brought both sudden prosperity and mystery to a group of loggers at Jordan River.

They are not certain of the details of the last 10 days' operations, but they do know that about 40 of them made $250 each for three days' work, and that the benefactor was Peter A. Schwerdt, well known figure in the oil and mining markets of Canada and the United States.

On the Friday before the Victoria Day weekend Mr. Schwerdt "dropped in" to Jordan River in a helicopter chartered from Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. Starting Saturday, he had the whirlybird ferry men in groups of two to a central location beyond Jordan River, where they staked mining claims.

$100 EACH

The work went on for three days, under licences provided for the men by Mr. Schwerdt, and at the conclusion of the operation he paid them $100 each for rights to their claims, and $50 per day for their efforts.

Since eight claims can be staked on one licence, it is estimated Mr. Schwerdt has more than 300 claims in the area, all within about a 15-mile radius of Jordan River. Some are close to the West Coast road, others are in the vicinity of the B.C. Electric storage dam, and some are east of the watershed.

HE HAS IT

When he arrived with his proposition there were some who doubted that Mr. Schwerdt had the wherewithal to back up his ideas, but it was soon found that he was perfectly able financially to do the same thing again next week, and for a good many other weeks if he were so inclined.

The loggers now have their $250 each, which in practically all cases is safely tucked away in a bank account against the likelihood of a forest closure and lack of employment.

The money is doubly pleasing because it is capital gain and not subject to income tax.

And Mr. Schwerdt has 300 claims on—what?

Well, copper has enjoyed a big boom in Canada, and the price of copper is still high. Mr. Schwerdt has been interested in copper prospects before, and it is understood there are a number of expired copper claims in or near the area staked by the Jordan River "miners."

"I had a bit of gambling money and I'm gambling," was the only explanation Mr. Schwerdt would give his part-time helpers.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

FATHER IN HEAVEN, we stand amazed at the design that is evident in all things; the tides that rise and fall with precision; the barn swallow building her nest; the stars in their courses. May these remind us that there is a design also for each of us, a plan for our individual lives; and give us the courage to find and pursue it; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Court Inquiry Feared by Gov't?

LONDON (Reuters) — A special death certificate is expected to be issued for Lt.-Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, British frogman who disappeared in Portsmouth Harbor near a Russian cruiser, it was reported Sunday.

The Sunday Dispatch says the certificate will "avoid the necessity of the family having to go to court to get him officially presumed dead."

The newspaper adds: "The government wants to hear no more about Crab's activities.

"They fear that a court inquiry, or a body-less inquest, might mean the disclosure of certain facts which they want kept quiet.

"Even if the hearing were in camera, many people would have to be let into the secret how Crabb met his death and it is thought that the fewer people who know the better.

"Crabb's life insurance cannot be collected until he is officially presumed dead. His estate is being wound up and this money is needed to settle a few debts."

Crabb is presumed to have died in Portsmouth harbor at the time Russian naval units were there when Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev visited England.

In a debate in the House of Commons on Crabb's disappearance, the British Labor opposition raised doubts about the efficiency of the secret service. But Prime Minister Eden refused "to say a word more" about the Crabb case.

Sechelt Fire Under Control

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sechelt peninsula forest fire, threatening the logging village of Egmont, is "reasonably under control."

Vancouver district forester, D. B. Taylor, made the report Sunday after an aerial survey of the 2,500-acre fire.

Egmont's 200 residents, including 40 children, were prepared to evacuate by sea Saturday if the flames broke through firelines two miles from the settlement. Two hundred men and 12 bulldozers still are battling the blaze.

Two major fires were reported to have broken out along the right of way of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. At Oenat Poole creek in the Lillooet district 200 acres were aflame. The second fire at Mile 63 covered 125 acres. The fires, 10 miles apart, were being fought by 80 men.

Col. Cy Peck May Not Attend VC Centennial

Col. Cyrus Peck, 85, one of three district holders of the Victoria Cross, may not be able to attend the VC centennial celebrations in London, June 25, it was learned today.

He entered Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney, Thursday, suffering from what was believed to be heart trouble. Hospital authorities today said his condition is "improving."

Original plan was to leave here June 16, and this will still be followed if the colonel has rallied sufficiently by then. Last January he was stricken with pneumonia, but recovered rapidly.

Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, VC, 1254 Lyall, also leaves June 16. He and his wife intend to stay in England until July 20.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, 1268 Tattersal, and Mrs. Pearkes will be going.

HOLIDAY IN AUSTRIA—Wallis Warfield Simpson, left, does calisthenics at Austrian spa. Duke of Windsor's aide-de-camp, Dudley Forwood, acts as instructor. A friend, Mrs. Buist is at right.

in those days. The invitation list was strictly limited; and, as the board of governors' judgment concerning eligibility carried the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, the issuing of invitations was awaited in a state of suspense bordering on agony.

One morning, the postman put into my hand a large envelope of fine texture that I instantly recognized. I was one of the fortunate 47 invited.

From that moment until the cotillion I was lost to all other earthly considerations.

Looking back upon that season of 1915, and considering that most of us, before long, were to find ourselves classed as the first postwar, or "lost," generation, I am struck by how simple, how decorous, how really calm our lives were.

The word "date" had not then come into vogue; we spoke of "engagements" with boys. On gala occasions we formed theatre parties.

But the usual evening was in a quieter tempo. A boy would telephone to ask whether one would be "home" after dinner. He could usually count upon a fairly breathless affirmative.

The young man would appear about 8 o'clock. There would be an interval of polite conversation with the parents, or, in my case, with my mother. Then the elders would witndraw, leaving the privacy of the living room to the young. But the privacy was only an illusion. Even though out of sight, the older generation hovered vigilantly in near proximity.

I doubt that any Baltimore girl of my age ever went to a restaurant alone with a boy.

I think today's more natural relationships are far better, but something has been lost. Seldom do I witness nowadays the profound respect that my generation had for our elders.

Late in the winter Corinne Mustin, my cousin Lelia's sister, invited me to visit her at Pensacola, Florida. Her husband, Captain Henry Mustin of the U.S. Navy, had recently been appointed commandant of the new air station there.

The month was April, 1916.

The day after I arrived I wrote my mother a letter beginning: "I have just met the world's most fascinating aviator. . . ."

The fascinating aviator was Lieut. Earl Winfield Spencer. We met casually at lunch.

'Mile of Pennies' Aim of Drive By Boys' Band

"A boy who blows a horn won't blow a safe,' said John P. Abel, in an appeal to Victorians today to support a campaign to raise money to assist the Victoria Boys' Band.

Mr. Abel, president, said the band Monday will start a house-to-house canvass in the city to raise a "mile of pennies" for the purchase of uniforms and instruments.

The boys will canvass for two weeks, he said.

"The band is not sponsored by or affiliated with any society or other organization," said Mr. Abel. "Your support for this cause is urgently requested."

World Crusade For Peace Urged By Lions' Head

QUEBEC (CP) — International president Humberto Valenzuela of the Lions Clubs said Sunday he would like to see a world peace crusade under taken jointly by all similar service organizations.

Mr. Valenzuela, who has been visiting 65 of the 75 countries where there are Lions Clubs, said in an interview he would like to make a suggestion to the international bureau of Lions Clubs at its next assembly in Miami, June 27-30.

The Santiago, Chile, man said he has been struck by the number of soldiers and war weapons he has seen "in a world which aspires towards peace at any price."

"However, there is the arms race in the Arab world . . . what I saw in Egypt made a particular impression on me.

"I cannot understand that all these countries that wish for peace can arm in the manner of Egypt, for example, and all the Middle East countries.

Wild Mob Pulls French Troops From Train

Protest Recalls For Algeria Service

ST. NAZAIRE, France (AP) —A mob of about 1,500 men stormed through police lines today and carried home in triumph a group of reservists who were scheduled to leave by train for service in Algeria.

A force of about 1,000 mobile guards and special riot police, swinging gunbutts and clubs was unable to check the demonstrators' march on the railway station in this heavy Communist seaport and shipbuilding town. Tear gas and practice grenades also were used in vain.

The mob threw anything within reach at the police—stones, iron bars and heavy bolts. Several persons were injured on both sides.

About 200 reservists were on the train, due to leave for the Mediterranean at noon.

LEAVE JOBS

The protest started off with about 300 persons swarming over the railway tracks and around the station, and swelled rapidly as workers left their jobs in metal working plants and in the construction industry at the call of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail.

The non-Communist unions did not order their men to join in the walkout but expressed sympathy with the reservists recalled to active duty.

Demonstrations against sending troops to Algeria have been increasing. A train between Bourg Saint Maurice and Chambery in the French Alps was delayed for 40 minutes Sunday. The demonstration ended when it was learned no recalled soldiers were on the train.

While the fighting at St. Nazaire was still in progress, the reservists left the railroad station to go home. Demonstrators picked them up and carried them on their shoulders.

Word passed through this city that similar action might be taken later today at Nantes. A big force of policeman was on duty around the station at Nantes.

Mrs. Grace Dawe Succumbs in City

Mrs. Grace Dawe, 1564 Rockland, a resident of Victoria since 1912, died Thursday in the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was the widow of Rev. William Henry Dawe, former curate of Christ Church Cathedral. There is no immediate family in Victoria.

Funeral will be held Monday, with the cortege leaving Hayward's Chapel at 1.25 p.m. for Christ Church Cathedral, where Very Rev. Dean Brian Whitlow will officiate at 1.30. Cremation will follow.

Mrs. Dawe was born in England but lived much of her life in Victoria.

She was a member of B.C. Electric Quarter Century Club and BCE Retired Employees' Association, and for many years served actively in Christ Church Women's Auxiliary.

PICKED OUT OF TRASH CAN

Policemen Breathe Life Into Abandoned Infant

NEW YORK (UP)—Two policemen saved a new-born baby, abandoned in a trash can, from death Sunday by breathing life into his fragile body.

Paul Llorens, superintendent of a dingy Harlem tenement, discovered the infant crammed into a rubbish can beneath a stairway.

Llorens called police and patrolmen Paul Gottlieb and Dennis Healy raced to the building.

The body of the hours-old infant was cold when they arrived. His face was blue from suffocation and his umbilical cord was tangled around his tiny throat, cutting off his breath.

Healy disentangled the cord and massaged the baby's chest.

They tried to tie the cord to stem the bleeding, but had no string so Gottlieb pulled two parking tickets from his pocket, tore the twine from them and stemmed the flow of blood.

Then the two officers took turns breathing into the baby's mouth. Perspiration covered their faces as they grimly blew life into the fragile body. They heard a sound.

"The baby started to cry and then we knew we had him," Gottlieb said.

An ambulance summoned by Gottlieb finally arrived, and by that time the child was crying loudly.

Doctors put the baby on the incubator and said he was in "very good condition" today.

Each of the policeman has two children.

New Flood Crest Menaces Creston

Kootenay Town Reinforces Dikes; Fraser Valley Situation Easier

CRESTON (BUP)—Waters of the surging Kootenay River were at the critical level of 23½ feet at Creston Sunday night with apparently a higher crest to come.

Trucks hauled dirt all day yesterday to reinforce the dikes, which were constantly patrolled by men and periodically inspected from the air.

With no sign of a letup in the hot weather, opinions vary as to when the Kootenay will crest.

At Cranbrook, cooler nights have lowered the levels of roaring streams, and the situation is eased, although the emergency is not yet considered over.

A close watch is being maintained on stretches of highway threatened by floods, but it is no longer necessary for the public works department to tow cars through 18 inches of water in the Yahk district.

The usual high water period in the Cranbrook area is the first week in June, and there is still a good deal of snow to come down.

Meanwhile, the flood threat with the Fraser River at Mission has passed for the present.

The river dropped a further two inches in the past 24 hours.

Tickets for the Velda Willie "Maytime Revue," sponsored by Esquimalt Chapter, IODE, may be obtained at the Royal Theatre tonight, prior to the performance at 8 p.m.

ISLAND HIGHWAY CHECK REJECTS HALF OF CARS

NANAIMO (BUP)—Almost half the cars checked over the weekend by Nanaimo and District Traffic and Safety Association were rejected because of faults and the drivers will likely receive check-up slips from police this week.

The voluntary check preceded an official compulsory RCMP check which began this morning and will continue until Thursday.

Check-up slips require a car owner to have faults in his auto repaired and then report back to police for confirmation.

'Down on Ice Field' Radios Missing Pilot

WINNIPEG (CP) — A third SOS signal and terse message, "down on an icefield," strengthened the hope Sunday that a pilot missing nine days in the Arctic barrens about 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg was safe.

RCAF headquarters at Winnipeg reported indications were the signals, picked up at 5.25 a.m. Sunday by a marine radio station on Nottingham Island, came from C. C. Crossley. The 60-year-old pilot from Toronto has been missing since May 19 on a flight from a secret DEW-line site to Churchill, Man. No other planes are known to be missing in the area.

The messages were garbled, but a bearing indicated the pilot's position was near Sturges Island, northwest of Southampton Island and between Southampton and Melville peninsula.

THREE SEARCHERS

Three RCAF aircraft operating out of Coral Harbor were expected to investigate the latest report.

Two other planes, a Lancaster from Torbay, Nfld., and a Canso from Vancouver, were scheduled to join the search Sunday.

Two SOS signals were picked up Saturday but search planes failed to find any trace of the missing pilot when they scoured the area Saturday night after being grounded by a low ceiling most of the day.

Birds Surprise Husky Crewmen

SEATTLE (AP)—The University of British Columbia varsity threw a scare into Washington's rowing crew Saturday but the Huskies put on a spurt in the final 200 meters to defeat the Canadians by a scant 12 feet.

The Washington crew covered the choppy 2,000-meter course on Lake Washington in 6.02.6, just nine-tenths of a second ahead of their surprisingly strong northern rivals.

Sievers Sinks Sox; Braves Still Lead

IT TOOK PAY RAISE TO STOP LONG COLD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dale Long, Pittsburgh's slugging first baseman who has set a major league record of hitting home runs in seven consecutive games, has been rewarded with a $2,500 pay boost to put his salary at $16,500.

Long said general manager Joe Brown notified him of the pay increase Saturday night.

"Joe told me when I signed my contract that I would hear from him later," Long declared. "I was asking for $15,000 and he wanted me to sign for $14,000.

"He called Saturday night, and when he said he was tearing up my contract and giving me a new one for a raise of $2,500 I choked up."

Long Set New Mark For Homers

By The Associated Press

If manager Mike Higgins of Boston Red Sox today felt like the fisherman who went out for a whale and came back with a couple of minnows who could blame him?

Six months ago Red Sox engineered a deal with Washington, acquiring pitcher Bob Porterfield among others in exchange for five young players and cash. It seemed they had stripped the Senators of their best players but now it is evident the big catch got away. The big catch is Roy Sievers.

What a whale of a job of hitting Sievers has turned in against Red Sox pitching this season, especially at Boston's Fenway Park. In five Washington games at Boston, Sievers blasted 10 hits in 20 times at bat for a torrid .500 average. That's not all. He scored 10 runs, clouted five home runs and two doubles and drove in 11 runs. He also had four for eight and three RBI's in three games in Washington.

MUSIAL SNAPS OUT

The slugging outfielder-turned-first baseman turned on the heat against Boston Sunday, collecting five hits, scoring five runs and driving in five as Washington held the Red Sox to a split in their doubleheader.

It was Roy's 10th inning double that drove in Clint Courtney with the run that gave Washington an 11-10 second-game triumph after Red Sox had come from behind to win the opener 9-7. The big St. Louisian homered in each game, the second four-bagger coming off Porterfield, who failed to finish for the fourth time in five starts. He has a 1-3 record.

Stan Musial snapped out of a slump with seven runs batted in on four hits, one a three-run homer, to lead St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-9 and 12-2 doubleheader sweep over Chicago Cubs.

BRAVES STILL AHEAD

Sparked by rookie first baseman Frank Torre's four straight hits, Milwaukee Braves defeated Cincinnati Redlegs, 7-2, to cling tenaciously to their slim lead. Because they have lost only nine games to St. Louis' 13, Braves are in front in percentages, .640 to .629.

Dale Long's hitting Saturday led Pirates to a 6-2 win over Phillies. He clouted relief pitcher Ben Flower's first pitch in the eighth over the rightfield wall to crack the six-homers-in-six-games mark set in 1922 by Ken William of St. Louis Browns and equalled three times since then.

Dave Ads Glitter To Glossy Record

Dave Emery of United Commercial Travellers, tied another piece to the hottest string in local minor baseball Sunday.

Emery pitched UCT to an 8-1 victory over Menzies Plumbing in Babe Ruth League action at Beacon Hill Park, giving up just one hit. The victory was the fourth straight for Emery and in the four games, he has given up only four hits. He has had a no-hitter, two one-hitters and a two-hitter.

Until Menzies scored on him in the first inning, he had pitched 27 innings of scoreless ball. Losing pitcher was tough-luck Barry Menzies.

Emery struck out 16 and Menzies wiffed 14. Emery also clubbed a three-run homer and a run-producing single. Gordon Mooney got the losers' only hit.

In the other Babe Ruth game, Daryl Lorimer pitched and batted Optimists to an 11-5 victory over McCall-Davey. Lorimer gave up five hits and clouted two triples and a single.

In Pony League action at Carnarvon Park, Jaycees and Cosmopolitans battled to a 4-4 tie that was called by the Sunday curfew. Cosmopolitan pitcher Doug Gilmour struck out 15.

SLUGFEST

In the second half of the double-header, Victoria Police won a wild and woolly 11-6 decision over Oak Bay Police with Ray Benwell hitting three doubles and a single for City Police. Stan McLeod and Garry Foster hit triples for the losers.

Larry De Costa was the big man in the Saanich Babe Ruth League at Reynolds Road. De Costa shut out Patterson, Construction on two hits to give Capital City Service the 4-0 victory.

Two games were played in the Esquimalt-Vic West Little League, Yarrows taking a tight 2-1 victory over Lions and Pirates belting Merchants, 16-0. John Kirkendale of Lions picked up three of his team's hits. Pirates were paced at the plate by Chuck Anslow who had three singles and scored two runs.

Lions outlasted Kinsmen in the American Little League, scoring a loose 16-15 victory with Doug Okerstrom getting the victory. In the other half of the twin bill, Oak Bay Kiwanis edged Elks 7-6, with Dave Pollock batting in the winning run with his third hit.

Two games were played in the Colt League at Windsor Park, Victoria Tire shading Morrisons, 8-6, and Dowells edging Pacific Sheet Metal, 5-4. Saunders hit a home run for Dowells.

On Saturday, Odd Fellows stayed in first place in the National Little League by scoring six runs in the last inning to down Gyros, 6-5.

Take Tom's Word for It--- Gridders Have It Tough

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All right, what does it cost a college football player to get through school in these times?

The recent Pacific Coast conference three-year slapdown of UCLA for boosting its monthly payoff to gridders from $75 to $115 makes the answer important and timely.

The answer, in Tom Thaxter's case, is $171.35 a month.

Thaxter, 21-year-old UCLA guard with one more year of eligibility—if the PCC doesn't take it away from him—outlined his expenses in an interview with Bob Oates, Los Angeles Examiner sportswriter.

Thaxter said his present cost of living includes only one frill — a car, which last month cost him $23.69 to operate. That would make his rock-bottom budget $147.66. Some people have recommended that $150 monthly aid to PCC gridders would not be out of line.

This fall, under a new conference rule, coast football players will draw $100 a month. At present, the figure is $75, plus $40 under the table at UCLA.

Here's Thaxter's careful breakdown of his monthly budget:

Board and room, $78.72; weekend meals (his frat house kitchen closes on Saturdays and Sundays), $24.85; laundromat, $2.80; laundry, $6.20; cleaning, $1.40; toothpaste, 49 cents; haircut, $1.50; books, $3.06; tuition, $10; clothing, $1.24; gasoline, $6.14; car repairs, $4.05; car insurance, $13.50; movies and malts, $3.40.

How does Thaxter make up the difference between $115 and $161? He digs ditches for the gas company in Fresno at $1.74 an hour during the summer. Last summer he saved $550.

If he would do it all over, would he make the same financial deal with UCLA?

"I'd have to if I wanted to play football," Thaxter replies. "You can't do three things at once—go to school, play football and work at a job."

Dramatic Eagle Don's Rich Blow

DALLAS (AP)—Don January shot a dramatic eagle on the 18th green Sunday to win the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Golf Open with 268 for 72 holes.

The young Abilene, Tex., player, making his first tour, staged an uphill drive on the final round to score a three-under-par 67 and win the $6,000 purse money by a stroke over Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, and Doug Ford of Hahopac, N.Y.

Finsterwald closed out with a one-under-par 69 while Ford shot a 67. Both earned $2,700.

CANADIANS TRAIL

Al Balding of Toronto had a 71 Sunday for a final total of 281 while Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., ended up with a 283.

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., scored 69 in each of the first two rounds but dropped out Saturday after scoring a 41 on the first nine holes.

January had no less than three eagles in his final round, sinking a 25-foot putt on the first hole for one, driving within four feet of the pin on the 11th for another and sinking a chip shot from a bunker 15 feet away for the payoff on the 18th.

LONDON (CP) — Canadian-owned Calgary Court will not run in the June 6 Epsom Derby, it was announced during the weekend. Calgary Court, a 100-to-1 shot, is owned by Max Bell of Calgary.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — All grains dropped to lower levels as heavy selling came into the market near the close of trading today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Broad commercial demand had appeared earlier in barley, including buying by exporters, domestic shippers and others. Domestic shippers also were fair buyers of oats. Prices for both grains, however, fell off in late trading. Flax attracted commission house selling while processors were small buyers on recessions. Shipper orders came into rye on declines, but were not enough to offset the heavy carryover of liquidation from Friday.

Weekend export wheat loadings included: the United Kingdom 2,040,000 bushels, Germany 670,000, Czechoslovakia 500,000, Republic of Ireland 180,000, East Germany 115,000, The Netherlands 100,000 and Belgium 75,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Friday except for IWA and domestic No. 1 durum which dropped one-eighth cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains fell sharply on the board of trade today with losses running to 10 cents in soybeans.

The only resistance appeared in wheat, which at one time managed to get above the previous close. It retreated again late in the afternoon on a renewal of liquidation.

July soybeans fell 10 cents, the daily limit, at one time. Supplies of cash soybeans at Chicago increased last week and both bean oil and bean meal sank in the spot market.

Wheat closed ¼-⅝ lower, July 2.01¼-¼, corn 2⅛-3⅞ lower, July 1.47⅝-¾, oats 2¼-2⅞ lower, July 62½-⅝, rye 3½-4⅝ lower, July 1.18⅝-½ and soybeans 3½ to 10 cents lower, July 3.01.

Plywood Skids $12 a Thousand At Portland

PORTLAND (AP)—Quarter-inch plywood dropped $12 a thousand square feet in price list of major Douglas fir plywood producers Friday.

The lists quoted quarter-inch plywood, sound on one side, at $76 a thousand feet.

The Oregon Journal said plywood sales have been running 15,000,000 feet a week behind production. It called the price break "the worst since the big sell-off in October, 1953.

Uranium Sale to U.K. In Sight for Eldorado

LONDON (Reuters)—The United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority has entered into negotiations with Eldorado Mining and Refining, Ltd., a Canadian firm, for the delivery of a "substantial" quantity of uranium before March 31, 1962, it was announced Friday night.

Builders' Problems To Be Studied on Tour

TORONTO (CP)—John Caulfield Smith, executive vice-president of the National House Builders Association, said Friday he plans a cross-country tour to study effects of recent credit restrictions, the "serviced-land problem" and this year's late start in construction.

Mr. Smith is to meet with the association's affiliated groups and attend a conference of western affiliates in Edmonton, June 13.

U.S. Stock Markets To Close Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Financial and commodity markets throughout the United States will be closed Memorial Day, May 30.

European and Canadian markets will be open as usual.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Weakness Nips Toronto List

TORONTO (CP) — Sagging stock market prices hit their lows of the session in closing dealings today. All divisions were down.

Light selling ruled after the first hour and prices drifted steadily lower in all divisions. The industrial losses ranged to three points. Mines were off were much as $1. Western oils declined in irregular fashion after making early headway. Merrill Pete was off $1.37.

Ford A, at $110, and Stelco, at $59.50, dropped about $3. Aluminium was off $1.87.

Consolidated Paper and Industrial Acceptance added a point.

Steep Rock and Geco slipped $1 among mines. Losses of between 30 and 40 cents were marked up to Sherritt, Conwest, Consolidated Sudbury and Hoye.

Gunnar was off 25 cents in uraniums, but Pronto added the same amount.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell in another selloff today despite early buying support.

The decline carried prices down from 1 to about 4 points with all divisions affected.

The market slumped all last Steels and motors were in the forefront of today's drop.

Among Canadian issues, Aluminium Ltd. lost 1⅞. Off fractionally were Canadian Pacific, Distillers-Seagrams, Dome Mines and Hudson Bay Mining. International Nickel dropped a point.

On the American stock exchange Brazilian Traction was off ⅛. Small gains were recorded by Shawinigan, Fargo Oil and Wilrich Petroleums.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER — A very quiet market, prices slightly lower.

Ainsworth Base Metals were added to the list this morning selling 5,500 shares at 12½.

Court Action on Price-Fixing Ordered Against 22 Companies

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to press court charges gainst 22 companies allegedly involved in two separate price-fixing combines, it was learned today.

Twelve of them were named in a restrictive trade practices commission report last January dealing with an alleged combine in the transmission chain industry. The other 10 were involved in the commission's report last September on the $40,000,000 asphalt and tar roofing products industry.

The prosecutions will take place in a Toronto court next fall.

Named in the commission's asphalt and tar report were:

Always remember, if it weren't for the people in this world, there would be no people in this world.

Ralph McCall became a first-time grand-daddy Friday night. Daughter and grandson are just fine, thank you. But please don't ask about Ralph . . . he might tell you.

Those who paid close attention to the front page picture of HMCS Ontario's return home will have no fears for the future of the race.

(There is no—repeat, no—connection between the above two items.)

Something old has been subtracted from Cec Ridout, boss man of King Bros. Ltd. Cec no longer has migraine headaches . . . he obviously must take up another line of work . . . how can you be in the shipping business without headaches?

Pictures of Elvis Presley are now being given away at various places in Victoria . . . warning: don't feed it, it may follow you home.

Jack Boothe was in town for a brief visit last week. . . . I arranged it . . . the briefness, that is . . . for which I am to receive the George medal . . . real George. . . .

Enquiry to Herb Hammill of the Victoria Rock and Alpine Garden Society: I have a rock garden which grows nothing but rocks. Does this entitle me to a blue ribbon? (The rocks are very pretty, even prettier than the ones in my head.)

Is it true certain crew members of Esquimalt-based RCN ships would do well to learn to speak Mexican? (Yes, it is.)

Ron Coulter, police reporter of The Times, is no longer police reporter of The Times. He's a policeman. (Honest, I'm not making this up.)

Saanich residents who saw a cougar and three kittens crossing a field near the Dominion observatory Saturday are "lucky to have seen the animals," Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, said today.

"Few people during their lifetime ever see a live cougar," he said. "They are secretive animals and keep out of man's way."

Dr. Carl said in his opinion cougars are not dangerous and residents have nothing to fear from the animal and its kittens.

Game department officials said no organized hunt is being made for the cougar as they have not received "an official" complaint against the animals.

"Cougars travel far," they said. "Today they may be miles away."

Highway Route Tentative Says Gaglardi

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said in Vancouver Sunday he expects to make a decision this week on the route of the Trans-Canada Highway through eastern B.C.

He denied having made any final decision, although a letter in which he applied for federal aid on a route through Rogers Pass was tabled in the House of Commons recently.

Mr. Gaglardi said the letter was written because he had to make a "tentative" arrangement so that federal authorities could estimate their share of the construction cost.

In January it was estimated the Rogers Pass route would cost about $1,000,000 a mile.

PAY PLAN

The federal government would pay 100 per cent for the 20 miles through Glacier National Park, and under an agreement of last fall, 90 per cent for the other 80 miles.

Mr. Gaglardi said other routes have not been rejected completely but "it looks like Rogers Pass to me."

The route through the Selkirk Mountains has been a source of controversy for several years.

Rogers Pass is between Revelstoke and Golden. Organizations and public officials in southeastern British Columbia have been asking that the highway go through the Jumbo Pass further south, between Windermere and Duncan Lake.

Gas Feeder Line Approval Given Northern Company

The B.C. cabinet today approved a recommendation by the Public Utilities Commission permitting the Prince George Gas Co. Ltd. to construct a gas distribution system at Prince George.

It also approved the construction of a number of gas distribution systems and feeder lines in the B.C. interior together with required feeder lines from the main gas transmisison lines of Westcoast Transmisison Co. Ltd. to these distribution systems and to any industrial plants located in the vicinity.

The order specifies that Prince George Gas Company shall make firm arrangements to secure a supply of gas from Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. by agreement subject to approval by the commission within 60 days.

Inland Gas, which holds a Westcoast franchise to distribute gas throughout B.C. earlier received PUC permission to construct distribution system in Okanagan and Fraser Valley communities.

60 Hunt Missing Invalid

Aged Caycuse Man Feared in Danger

More than 60 men from Caycuse camp and other Cowichan Lake areas, led by the RCMP, at press time were searching for a 63-year-old invalid missing from Caycuse since 5 a.m. Sunday.

The camp is on the south shore of Cowichan Lake, 20 miles west of the village of Lake Cowichan.

Eric Carlson arrived at the Caycuse home of his daughter early Sunday morning, as had been customary for several years, then left immediately.

When there was no sign of him at 11 a.m. an alarm was broadcast, and a search of the surrounding area begun. Duncan police and a tracking dog from Parksville entered into the search Sunday afternoon.

Relatives felt there was a slim chance that he left camp Sunday morning with a stranger. He was described as five feet nine inches in height, weighing 185 pounds, and wearing grey tweed trousers, dark wool shirt and a brown fedora hat. He looks ill, they said.

Mr. Carlson, a widower, had worked at Caycuse for 20 years as a night watchman. Despite an illness several months ago he continued to stay at the camp bunkhouse at night until 5 a.m., then adjourn to the home of his daughter.

Two sons also live at Caycuse.

It was reported that he was not strong enough to go far from camp except by car.

Island Ports Enlivened By 12 Ships

A halt to the long deep-sea shipping slump arrived today, with four ships working in Victoria and eight others at Nanaimo, Chemainus, Tahsis, Cowichan Bay, Duncan Bay and Alberni.

Lumber loadings out of Island ports to date this year are down almost 50 per cent over the same period last year.

Of the four ships at Ogden Point today, three are lifting lumber; Atlantic Trader is taking 656,000 feet for U.K.; Merchant Duke, 820,000 feet for South Africa, and Pacific Unity, a deckload of 300,000 feet for U.K.

The fourth freighter, John Bakke, is unloading 1,200 tons of steel plate from Japan, destined for Yarrows Ltd. Victoria agent for all four is King Bros. Ltd.

The arrival board indicates a continuation of the "feast" following the "famine"—if all ships listed turn up as per schedule, always a big "if" in the shipping business.

Main reason for the slump in lumber shipments out of Vancouver Island is the softening of the U.K. market, coupled with current high charter rates for bottoms.

Gordon Sanborn Wins Jaycee Speech Contest

Another Victoria Jaycee, Bill Fletcher, won the novice speaking contest for Island Jaycees.

Runners-up in the main contest were Ron MacIsaac, Nanaimo, and Bill Helen, Port Alberni. All spoke on "A Young Man's Responsibility in the Free World."

Winner of the district contest in Prince George will go to national oratorical finals in Winnipeg, July 2.

The meeting Sunday, held in Victoria, elected Bill McKeigan, Nanaimo, new director of Vancouver Island district, succeeding Gilbert Thom, Duncan.

IN VICTORIA to consult with local health groups is Miss Rose Mary McClan, Ottawa, Western Regional Director of the Victorian Order of Nurses. She will direct discussions on part-time physiotherapy, hospital referrals of patients and student programs. Miss McClan, who visits 18 VON centres in the four western provinces, arrived from Calgary on Sunday, leaves for Nanaimo Wednesday, and will attend the provincial meeting of the VON in Vancouver June 7, 8 and 9.

Californian Here For Strait Bid

By AB KENT

A love of swimming so strong she came 1,200 miles for a crack at Juan de Fuca Strait is going to be an important factor in Amy Hiland's Victoria-Port Angeles swim try later in the summer.

The bronzed, 32-year-old blonde arrived here with husband Pete late last Friday from their home at Long Beach, Calif., after a three-day drive.

And she'll swim for the American shore whether or not there will be any prize money at stake.

In fact, for 4½ years she has guarded her amateur status jealousy, despite the high level of non-deductible training expenses.

Swimming, according to Pete, "costs more than keeping a racehorse and expenses aren't deductible from income tax unless Amy gives up her amateur standing.

"But she's so crazy about it—and she can really swim—why not let her?"

3-MONTH STAY

The couple are prepared to stay as long as three months in order to train properly and await ideal crossing conditions, but if unable to get suitable accommodation in Victoria they may switch to Port Angeles for training purposes.

If their plans coincide with any prize money arrangements under consideration by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce which hopes to put out an attractive $10,000 purse for a late summer Strait marathon, Amy will go along with it and forget her amateur ticket.

Mrs. Hiland's chief claim as a distance swimmer is her victory last September over Catalina Channel, a 24-mile stretch of violent water mooted by marathoners as tougher than the English Channel.

She set a new Amateur Athletic Union record in that effort, covering the distance in 20 hours in spite of being seasick and having to swim a total of 37 miles to finally set foot on Point Fermin, landing spot on the California mainland.

Water temperature was about 56 degrees and sharks and killer whales swam all around Amy's flotilla. They didn't bother her until the coast guard and several other boats began shooting at them, which angered the ugly fish.

"It was exciting," remarked Amy, but she stayed in the water to finish the swim.

Sea sickness weakened her to the point where her left arm was paralyzed with a cramp for about an hour.

Three weeks ago, in warm Salton Sea, Calif., Amy swam the 12-mile body of water both ways to set a new record and establish herself as the first woman to make a round-trip swim.

Amy has an idea of what she will be fighting in the Strait. She swam for an hour in 46-degree Cordova Bay Sunday and was training again today.

CONFIDENT

"My doctor (Dr. William Slater, formerly an eastern Canadian and now a noted plastic surgeon in Long Beach) has been with me on all my swims, and he thinks I can do the Strait," said Amy.

Dr. Slater was himself a marathoner in his youth.

Born in Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Hiland was in ill health about five years ago and began swimming on advice of Dr. Slater. She loved it and has been in the water the year around for the last 4½ years.

Referring to her original desert home, she said:

"All they've got there is heat. That's why I like swimming so much, because we didn't have any water to speak of there."

After getting settled, the first thing the Hilands want is a sponsor to assist with training expenses. Their own money had a sizeable chunk chopped out at San Luis Obispo en route to Victoria. Pete's car broke down there and he had to put a down payment on a new one so the trip could continue.

City Man Ordained Anglican Deacon At Ottawa Service

Owen Adair Evans, 31, son of Trial Island lightkeeper Owen Evans, was ordained as an Anglican deacon Sunday in Ottawa by Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, bishop of Ottawa.

He has been assigned to special missionary duties in the Ottawa diocese.

Mr. Evans attended Victoria schools before going east to enter the ministry and has also served in the army.

In 1953 he was a padre at Work Point during the summer vacation from university. His last visit to Victoria was at that time.

HARES, HATS AND HOCUS-POCUS

Victoria's oldest practising magician, Frank Merryfield, above, will be on stage June 1 at Victoria High School "Magic Circle Show" at 8 p.m., together with other masters of "black art." The show, sponsored by Cosmopolitan Club, will have proceeds go to charity. At presentation, magician Carl Hemeon's prediction of June 1 Times headline will be opened. It was sealed in envelope more than a week ago.

Citizens to Help Repair Wrecked Home

Kind-hearted citizens today volunteered to help repair and clean up the Saanich log cabin home of Mrs. Pat Cooper, the interior of which was wrecked by person or persons unknown Saturday night.

Mrs. Cooper said she returned from a night spent with her husband's parents in Esquimalt to find her small cabin a shambles; the destruction was complete.

Every piece of furniture was broken or overturned, the windows smashed, the kitchen stove torn from the chimney and dumped upside down, the floor strewn with food.

Saanich police were questioning Mrs. Cooper about the incident. They said she lives in the cabin alone. Her husband is on the mainland.

Today she received offers of assistance from a man willing to replace the broken windows, a woman ready to help with the cleaning, and several other citizens.

Oak Bay Engineer Appointed to Improvement Body

Oak Bay representative to the new Capital District Improvement Commission is municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave, it was announced today.

The appointment rounds out the 11-man board which will recommend beautification projects for the district as a whole and will enable calling of the first meeting, probably early in June.

The board includes six government appointees and two from Victoria, one each from Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

11 Year-Old Hurt In Car Collision

Suffering from head and back injuries after his bicycle collided with a car at the corner of Bay and Cook Sunday morning, Roy Everston, 11, 1041 Bay street, was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

Diver of the car was Mary Elizabeth Drummond.

Hospital officials said the boy's condition is satisfactory.

Jordan River Man Faces Trial In Higher Court

Frank Miller, Jordan River, charged with discharging a firearm with intent to cause bodily harm, was committed in RCMP court today to trial in a higher court.

Charges arose out of an incident May 18 at Jordan River, when four boom men reported they were fired on by a man armed with a shotgun.

Miller was represented by J. A. Byers.

150 Civic Officials Meet Here For Talks on New Municipal Act

About 150 municipal officials from throughout British Columbia gathered at the Empress Hotel today for a two-day convention dealing with matters pertaining to the proposed new municipal act.

The workshop conference, the 18th to be held, consists largely of discussion periods, and questions asked will be forwarded to the department of municipal affairs.

President of the conference, Ronald Thompson, Vancouver city clerk, said in this manner revision of the municipal act would be aided by ideas from "key men" throughout the province.

"I should not like to see something put in the act which should not be there, or something left out that should be in," he said at the opening session.

Mr. Thompson said steps should be taken to widen association membership. As things now stand, there are municipal employees such as doctors and engineers who have their own groups.

"We would be richer in knowledge and experience if they were more closely associated with us," he said.

Delegates were welcomed on behalf of the government by Municipal Affairs Minister W. D. Black and on behalf of the city by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Specifically, talks will deal with classification of local government units, finance, personnel and administration. Election of officers was scheduled for this afternoon.

Tuesday a banquet will be given delegates by the provincial government in the hotel ballroom and life membership certificates in the association presented by the municipal affairs minister.

HARD-WORKING REGISTRATION DESK PERSONNEL at municipal officers' convention under way here registered about 150 delegates from throughout B.C. Left to right are C. W. R. Harper, Nelson city clerk; A. D. Corker, Campbell River village clerk; Miss C. E. Cartmell, Chilliwack treasurer, and Miss A. W. Dunnignan, Merritt clerk. Registration started Sunday and conference opened at 9.15 a.m. today.

Greats in Sports History Presented on Long Play

By PENNY SAVER

For the keen sportsmen in our midst, I've found an interesting long-playing record featuring exerpts from a popular album of greatest moments in sports with active sounds and voices. Greats such as Jim Corbett, Joe Louis, Tony Galento, Grantland Rice, Knute Rockne, Roger Bannister, Lou Gehrig and a dozen others are featured. This record comes with a plastic-cased razor with 10 blades. The razors are classified light, regular or heavy. The razor, with the unbreakable record costs $1.29.

Some time ago, I wrote about some handy money-management booklets I received. They dealt with children's spending, and your budget, and gave practical advice and suggestions concerning problems and pitfalls of handling money. The latest is For Young Moderns which gives hints on how to determine money management goals. How you get, spend and keep track of money is a mystery and chance affair with many, but this booklet gives some easy charts and methods to straighten out the most confused budgets. These booklets are 10 cents. There are other valuable tips and ideas in similar books put out by the same people. "Your Health Dollar," "Your Food Dollar," "Your Clothing Dollar," "Your Shelter Dollar" . . . and on through home furnishings, equipment, shopping and recreation are all yours at 10 cents each.

The Money Management booklets, except for "Young Moderns," "Your Equipment Dollar" and "Your Recreation Dollar," are available in English or French. The complete library, of 10 booklets in an attractive library box, in English only, costs $1.

Gift wrapping and suitable cards are not seasonal things, but are in constant need for showers, birthdays, anniversaries and the many other occasions that warrant a prettily wrapped gift. For 35 cents you can buy two sheets of beautiful paper in violet, thistle, forget-me-not patterns, or with gold on white congratulations paper. With the attractive paper come matching gift enclosure cards that reflect the pattern of the paper. Shower cards and all-occasion cards are yours at seven cents each.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned in the column today or during past weeks.

BEAUTIFUL CHILDREN . . . BY HOUSEZ

This week's layout of Greater Victoria future citizens shows Gregory Richard Coleman in picture No. 1. Gregory is the seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Coleman, 3700 Casey street. Picture No. 2 is that of Michael Travers Dawes. Michael, who is two years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Dawes, 1921 Quamichan avenue. The children of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Olson are seen in No. 3. They are Leslie Jane, age two, and Tracy Patricia, nine-months-old. They live at 407 St. Charles street. (A Victoria Times feature.)

Wife Should Welcome Husband's Associates

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

If it helps a man in his business to be able to entertain friends and business associates, his wife should be prepared for such emergencies.

Hurlock

(Q)—"My husband is one of those men who bring friends or business associates in after work for a drink and then, without consulting me, he will ask them to stay and have supper with us. Our children are grown and in their own homes so I don't have a reason to buy large supplies of food as I did when they were at home. Often I have provided just enough for my husband and myself. It is then very embarrassing to me to have to say I haven't enough food on hand after my husband has already asked the man to stay. I have tried to point out to my husband that this upsets me but he claims it is good business for him and I should be prepared for emergencies like this. Do you think he is right?"—Mrs. W.

(A)—I certainly do think your husband is right, both about the value of entertaining business associates and about your being prepared for such emergencies. If you had small children to feed, it would be unfair ofyour husband to bring in guests as he does.

However, with only the two of you at home, you could easily be ready for unexpected guests. As a matter of fact, when your husband brings a guest home after work for a drink and chat, you could save yourself a lot of last minute rush and embarrassment by asking the guest at once if he won't stay for supper with you. Then you would know just where you stood and could prepare accordingly.

With modern refrigeration and frozen foods, you could have on hand enough food for guests all the time. Have food for a whole meal in a semi-prepared state and frozen, like chicken or beef pies, vegetables, and frozen pies or ice cream.

Most men are not too particular about what they eat, as long as the food is good. Our modern frozen food is so well prepared that, in no time, you could prepare a tempting meal and avoid last-minute rushes or embarrassment.

TODAY'S RECIPE

IRISH FRUIT MOLDS

One package lime-flavored gelatin, 1¾ cups hot water, ¼ cup lemon juice, dash salt, 1 large calavo avocado, ½ cup diced celery, ½ cup well-drained crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, salad greens and mayonnaise.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Blend in lemon juice and salt, and cool until slightly thickened. To prepare avocado, cut into halves, remove seed and skin and dice fruit. Fold avocado, celery, pineapple and pimento into thickened gelatin. Pour into molds and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and serve with mayonnaise. Makes six servings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Young Girl's Fat Face May Be Blessing Later

Q.—"A girl friend and I have a very unusual problem. It seems that we already have our curves under control but we have very full faces and would like to slim them down. Can you help us? I certainly hope you can! Could you possibly print a remedy or do you have a leaflet about this?"

A.—Thank heaven that you have nice full faces because as you grow older the layer of fat between your skin and your facial muscles will decrease. I know that you are not worrying about that now, but the time will come when you will.

The only way to decrease fat on your face is by a general loss in weight. Since your weight is correct, do not worry. You probably look young and lovely.

However, you should take this into consideration in your hair style and makeup. Wear your hair close at the sides and high on top. If you use rouge apply it closer to the nose. Do not take the color far out toward the temples. Also do not tweeze your brows at the inside ends. In other words, the wider your brows are apart the wider it makes your face appear.

Q.—"Lately every time I argue, yell or get nervous I have a terrible itch under my arms. At first it is red like a rash, then that goes away but it still itches at those times terribly. I stopped using deodorants but it didn't help at all. Can you tell me why this happens?"

A.—You have given yourself the answer except you do not realize it. If you argue and yell and get nervous often it's a blessing that your whole family does not break out in a rash.

You've had the word, straight from your own body, about what arguing and yelling does to you. Have you thought what it does to your family?

The itching could come from allergies or some systemic condition. If it continues see your physician. In the meantime try controlling your temper.

Q.—"I have read that a woman must exercise hard at least an hour each day, preferably more, in order to improve her figure. Is this true?"

A.—Nope! Even 20 minutes of exercise done correctly and regularly each day will make a big difference. A half hour is perfect. And, when you exercise take time for the stretch, and rest when you feel tired.

Seattleites Here Briefly

Mrs. George Tilden and Mrs. J. Thomas Dowling, both of Seattle, were in Victoria briefly on the weekend en route back to their homes after a visit to Vancouver. Mrs. Tilden will be better known to Victorians as the "Ann Stirling" of radio station KJR for many years. She is now doing two programs for the Midnight Sun network. Mrs. Dowling, who has been coming to this city for 40 years, is a botanist connected with the Washington State arboratum. While in Victoria the Seattleites had luncheon with Miss Dorothy Cox at her home on Falmouth Road and made a special trip to the Mercer Farm on Blenkinsop Road to see and to hear the skylarks.

From England

Mrs. Rowland Paget arrived in Victoria on Sunday by plane from England to visit her brother, Mr. Robin Cran, 1214 Roslyn Road.

Cabinet to Study Sunday Sport Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial Secretary Wesley Black today advised city council that its Sunday sports by-law will go before the provincial cabinet for consideration.

Mr. Black's routine letter acknowledged receipt of the by-law that would permit Sunday commercial sport here. Council has given two readings to the measure and has asked the cabinet to test its legality in the courts. If the Supreme Court rules the by-law legal, council will give it third and final reading.

New Women's Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced here today that a new women's jail will be built in the Fraser Valley to replace the present women's block at Oakalla Prison Farm.

He made his announcement at the opening session of the annual conference of B.C. Magistrates.

Mr. Bonner did not name the area in the valley where the jail will be built. It will be of the "cottage type" instead of the traditional massive institutional type of building containing a series of cell blocks.

Communists Losing

ROME (UP)—The Italian Communist Party, the largest outside the Iron Curtain, apparently was suffering heavy losses in Italy's nationwide local elections today.

An estimated 85 per cent turnout of Italy's 30,000,000 eligible voters in the balloting helped the pro-Western Christian Democratic Party and its allies to run up big gains at the Reds' expense.

New H-Bomb Blast?

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists announced their instruments indicated the United States set off another hydrogen blast at Bikini today comparable in power to the mighty May 21 H-bomb explosion.

Loggers Get Windfall on Mine Claims

BY DON INGHAM

A free-wheeling mining promoter has brought both sudden prosperity and mystery to a group of loggers at Jordan River.

They are not certain of the details of the last 10 days' operations, but they do know that about 40 of them made $250 each for three days' work, and that the benefactor was Peter A. Schwerdt, well known figure in the oil and mining markets of Canada and the United States.

On the Friday before the Victoria Day weekend Mr. Schwerdt "dropped in" to Jordan River in a helicopter chartered from Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. Starting Saturday, he had the whirlybird ferry men in groups of two to a central location beyond Jordan River, where they staked mining claims.

$100 EACH

The work went on for three days, under licences provided for the men by Mr. Schwerdt, and at the conclusion of the operation he paid them $100 each for rights to their claims, and $50 per day for their efforts.

Since eight claims can be staked on one licence, it is estimated Mr. Schwerdt has more than 300 claims in the area, all within about a 15-mile radius of Jordan River. Some are close to the West Coast road, others are in the vicinity of the B.C. Elec-

'I Tearfully Agreed To Mother's Remarriage'

One afternoon in late childhood, on my return from school my mother gently informed me that she had decided to marry again, putting the situation in eloquent terms in which I was given to understand that it was a case not of losing my mother but gaining a father.

His name was John Rasin. He was a member of a wealthy and politically prominent family.

During his courtship of my mother he had been extremely kind to me. I had liked him until my mother told me of her intention to marry him.

In a flash kindly Mr. Rasin was transformed in my mind into a sinister and hateful rival.

In my shock and hurt I cried out to my mother that I would never let her marry him; that I would run away. Nothing she could say stopped my tears or assuaged my grief. The argument went on for days.

Seeking a way to bring me round, Mother summoned Aunt Bessie Merryman and Cousin Lelia to add the weight of their arguments.

Patiently they explained that my mother loved Mr. Rasin and that since she no longer had my father she wanted and needed Mr. Rasin to fill the void. Her love for him would not subtract from her love for and her need of me.

Finally I tearfully agreed to the wedding, but I still insisted that I did not see why Mr. Rasin had any right to come and live with us afterwards.

Misleading Picture of Role

The newspaper accounts of the wedding list me as having "attended" my mother. This, however, was a misleading picture of my actual role. More truthfully I was in attendance upon the wedding cake.

While the ceremony was in progress in the parlor I slipped out and made my way to the dining room, where the cake stood unguarded on the table. It was never in my mind, I am sure, to damage the beauty of the cake in the slightest. My only object was to determine the precise location of the ring, the thimble, and the dime.

I had in fact located the thimble and was probing for the dime when there came a gasp from the dining room door through which my mother and new stepfather were leading their guests.

The cake was not exactly a shambles but neither could it be said that its original beauty had survived unmarred; and there was I, caught in the dreadful act.

Then, as I whirled around, a roar of laughter went up and I felt myself being hoisted into the air, almost to the ceiling. Finally I came face to face with a very red and happy Mr. Rasin —and all he did, of course, was to give me a great big kiss.

Government Slows Rush On Pipeline

OTTAWA (BUP) — The government retreated in the Commons today under the Opposition's attack on its pipelines loan bill.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent announced the government would not force immediate postponement of debate on the remaining clauses of the bill, currently before the House for clause-by-clause study, as it did on the first three clauses last week.

He said the House could debate whatever clauses it wished of the remaining four for the balance of the week.

But a new debate was launched immediately when Opposition leader George Drew moved a motion of censure on House committee chairman William Robinson (L-Simcoe East), who, he said on Friday when Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) was suspended, had lost the confidence of Opposition members.

Mr. Drew's motion was ruled out of order. However, later, when the Commons went into committee of the whole on the pipeline bill, the deputy chairman, E. T. Applewhaite, took over the chair.

Mr. Robinson had been in the chair throughout the first two days.

Fleming and his PC colleague Howard Green (who fainted in the Parliamentary restaurant after Friday's session) were cheered when they returned to the House today.

Drew's immediate reaction to Mr. St. Laurent's announcement that debate would be permitted on clauses 4 to 7 of the bill, was one of protest. He said the House should revert to clauses 1 and 2, to make a fresh start on clause-by-clause study.

Mr. St. Laurent said it was the government's intention to postpone debate on the earlier clauses of the bill and debate clauses 4 to 7 because they contained the real meat of the legislation.

Speaker Ready To Answer Opposition

OTTAWA (BUP) — Speaker Rene Beaudoin told the Commons today he was willing to submit his record in the speakership to a House committee composed entirely of opposition MPs.

He suggested that the novel committee, with no government supporters on it, be under the chairmanship of Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre), party whip and rules expert.

Beaudoin said that during the weekend he had reviewed all the rulings he had made since the pipeline debate started, and found them all correct, with two minor exceptions. One was a ruling supporting a motion by opposition leader George Drew to divide the bill into two bills, and one was a ruling allowing Knowles to move the adjournment of the House, although he believed at the time that the motion was out of order.

He said a motion to adjourn the House was always in order.

Pupkowski Ordered to Essondale

Czeslaw (Chester) Pupkowski, 42, awaiting trial for murder in Oakalla prison since April 19, was committed today by the B.C. cabinet to the provincial mental hospital at Essondale.

Pupkowski was charged with the murder of his 38-year-old wife, Cecelia, March 24, at their home at 128 Clarence, James Bay.

Police pulled him from the ocean off Dallas Road where he tried to drown himself after he was seen leaving the house, covered with blood.

The cabinet said satisfactory evidence that Pupkowski is "mentally ill" had been submitted.

A preliminary hearing April 19 formed the basis of commitment to trial. A coroner's jury previously determined Mrs. Pupkowski met death at the hands of person or persons unknown.

Police were directed to the waterfront by a neighbor who had seen the accused leave his house on the afternoon of March 24. The neighbor earlier heard screams coming from the house and telephoned police.

They found the woman lying in blood, her throat slashed.

Cpl. Joseph Barlow waded into the water to get Pupkowski, who refused to come ashore and shouted at police to "shoot me!"

World's Top Attained by Two Parties

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Swiss mountaineering teams have made an unprecedented grand slam by twice climbing Everest — world's tallest peak conquered but once before by a British team in 1953—and reaching the summit of neighboring Lhotse, a Nepalese government spokesman announced.

The announcement said the first pair of Swiss climbers to win victory were Ernest Reiss and Fritz Lunchsinger, who climbed to the summit of 27,890 - foot "Lhotse One" May 18.

Following this success, climbers Ernst Schmied and Jurg Marjet toiled up the winding ice-strewn trail which Sir Edmund Hillary and his Sherpa guide, Tensing, followed just three years earlier to pin the Swiss flag to the top of the world's highest mountain May 23.

LPP PICKET COMMONS

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 30 persons today walked a peaceful picket line in front of the Parliament Buildings to protest the government's natural gas pipeline legislation.

The only member of parliament who apparently took notice of the placard-carrying marchers from the Labor-Progressive Communist party was Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William.

He came out of the Parliament Buildings, looked at the picket line and shouted, "Hurray for the Liberals" and "Hurrah for C. D. Howe."

"Take another drink," shouted one of the marchers.

Meeting Wednesday On School Report

NANAIMO (CP) — A 20,000-word report on the disturbance at Nanaimo senior high school on April 19 now is in the hands of Nanaimo district school board.

Board chairman J. C. Rayer said the report on a protest demonstration by senior students would be studied by the board at a special meeting Wednesday evening. The meeting, he felt would not likely be open to the press but he said he expects the board will issue a statement later.

GUARD FOR QUEEN ENLARGED BY YARD

LONDON (AP)—Three Cypriot gunmen today were reported being hunted by police who have thrown a close guard around the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and other members of the Royal Family.

The trooping of the color ceremony next Thursday, at which the Queen will ride on a horse for an hour in the midst of a large crowd on the Horseguards' parade grounds, is giving police a headache.

Scotland Yard has called many extra policemen from outlying districts for duty at the ceremony. All available central London detectives will be mingling with the throngs.

Extra security precautions were evident when the Queen and her children returned from a holiday in Scotland Sunday.

Spectators were cleared from the platform at Euston station at which their train arrived. There were rain-coated men, on a sunny day, at the station. They were presumed to be security men, with coats covering pistols.

No Inquest For Frogman, Paper Claims

Court Inquiry Feared by Gov't?

LONDON (Reuters) — A special death certificate is expected to be issued for Lt.-Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, British frogman who disappeared in Portsmouth Harbor near a Russian cruiser, it was reported Sunday.

The Sunday Dispatch says the certificate will "avoid the necessity of the family having to go to court to get him officially presumed dead."

The newspaper adds: "The government wants to hear no more about Crab's activities.

"They fear that a court inquiry, or a body-less inquest, might mean the disclosure of certain facts which they want kept quiet.

"Even if the hearing were in camera, many people would have to be let into the secret how Crabb met his death and it is thought that the fewer people who know the better.

"Crabb's life insurance cannot be collected until he is officially presumed dead. His estate is being wound up and this money is needed to settle a few debts."

Crabb is presumed to have died in Portsmouth harbor at the time Russian naval units were there when Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev visited England.

In a debate in the House of Commons on Crabb's disappearance, the British Labor opposition raised doubts about the efficiency of the secret service. But Prime Minister Eden refused "to say a word more" about the Crabb case.

Sechelt Fire Under Control

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sechelt peninsula forest fire, threatening the logging village of Egmont, is "reasonably under control."

Vancouver district forester, D. B. Taylor, made the report Sunday after an aerial survey of the 2,500-acre fire.

Egmont's 200 residents, including 40 children, were prepared to evacuate by sea Saturday if the flames broke through firelines two miles from the settlement. Two hundred men and 12 bulldozers still are battling the blaze.

Two major fires were reported to have broken out along the right of way of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. At Oenat Poole creek in the Lillooet district 200 acres were aflame. The second fire at Mile 63 covered 125 acres. The fires, 10 miles apart, were being fought by 80 men.

Col. Cy Peck May Not Attend VC Centennial

Col. Cyrus Peck, 85, one of three district holders of the Victoria Cross, may not be able to attend the VC centennial celebrations in London, June 25, it was learned today.

He entered Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney, Thursday, suffering from what was believed to be heart trouble. Hospital authorities today said his condition is "improving."

Original plan was to leave here June 16, and this will still be followed if the colonel has rallied sufficiently by then. Last January he was stricken with pneumonia, but recovered rapidly.

Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, VC, 1254 Lyall, also leaves June 16. He and his wife intend to stay in England until July 20.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, 1268 Tattersal, and Mrs. Pearkes will be going.

. . . DUCHESS

In time I became fond of Mr. Rasin—I always so addressed him. My mother's life became secure, if not actually serene.

I moved to a boarding school, but in the spring of my first year there the walls of my little castle of contentment were brought tumbling down.

On April 4, 1913, I was called out of the classroom and informed gently that my stepfather had passed away. The marriage had lasted not quite five years.

My mother moved to a small apartment. We were as hard-pressed as we had ever been, for the income from Mr. Rasin's trust fund no longer came to her after his death.

She was once more on her own.

The thought of going to college never occurred to me—it just didn't exist for girls of my upbringing. Nor did I ever, at what might have been for me a fruitful moment of choice, give a thought to finding a job and earning my own living. Baltimore girls of my generation were not sent to school to learn useful vocational skills.

What, then, was life supposed to hold for us? The answer, in a word, was marriage.

However, before a Baltimore girl could be considered eligible for marriage she had to make her debut. This presented a problem, in view of our straitened circumstances.

Fortunately, Uncle Sol came to the rescue. "Naturally, your mother is making arrangements to bring you out this winter," he said.

"Yes," I answered meekly. "At least she hopes to be able to make the arrangements."

"Good," said Uncle Sol. "I want you to know the kind of life your father would have given you if he had lived. I shall help, of course."

He kissed me on the forehead and pressed something into my hand, something crumpled into a small wad. I dared not open my hand until I was back in the car. There were two ten-dollar bills.

This was the beginning of a strange, intermittent and commendable practice. Whenever Uncle Sol thereafter gave me money, it was usually in that odd way—a small wad pressed into my hand at the moment of parting.

To be presented at the Bachelors' Cotillion was a life-and-death matter for Baltimore girls in those days. The invitation list was strictly limited; and, as the board of governors' judgment concerning eligibility carried the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, the issuing of invitations was awaited in a state of suspense bordering on agony.

One morning, the postman put into my hand a large envelope of fine texture that I instantly recognized. I was one of the fortunate 47 invited.

From that moment until the cotillion I was lost to all other earthly considerations.

Looking back upon that season of 1915, and considering that most of us, before long, were to find ourselves classed as the first postwar, or "lost," generation, I am struck by how simple, how decorous, how really calm our lives were.

The word "date" had not then come into vogue; we spoke of "engagements" with boys. On gala occasions we formed theatre parties.

But the usual evening was in a quieter tempo. A boy would telephone to ask whether one would be "home" after dinner. He could usually count upon a fairly breathless affirmative.

The young man would appear about 8 o'clock. There would be an interval of polite conversation with the parents, or, in my case, with my mother. Then the elders would witndraw, leaving the privacy of the living room to the young. But the privacy was only an illusion. Even though out of sight, the older generation hovered vigilantly in near proximity.

I doubt that any Baltimore girl of my age ever went to a restaurant alone with a boy.

I think today's more natural relationships are far better, but something has been lost. Seldom do I witness nowadays the profound respect that my generation had for our elders.

Late in the winter Corinne Mustin, my cousin Lelia's sister, invited me to visit her at Pensacola, Florida. Her husband, Captain Henry Mustin of the U.S. Navy, had recently been appointed commandant of the new air station there.

The month was April, 1916.

The day after I arrived I wrote my mother a letter beginning: "I have just met the world's most fascinating aviator. . . ."

The fascinating aviator was Lieut. Earl Winfield Spencer. We met casually at lunch.

World Crusade For Peace Urged By Lions' Head

QUEBEC (CP) — International president Humberto Valenzuela of the Lions Clubs said Sunday he would like to see a world peace crusade under taken jointly by all similar service organizations.

Mr. Valenzuela, who has been visiting 65 of the 75 countries where there are Lions Clubs, said in an interview he would like to make a suggestion to the international bureau of Lions Clubs at its next assembly in Miami, June 27-30.

The Santiago, Chile, man said he has been struck by the number of soldiers and war weapons he has seen "in a world which aspires towards peace at any price."

"However, there is the arms race in the Arab world . . . what I saw in Egypt made a particular impression on me.

"I cannot understand that all these countries that wish for peace can arm in the manner of Egypt, for example, and all the Middle East countries.

Mishaps Kill 42 in Canada

By the Canadian Press

Forty-two Canadians died accidentally during the weekend, 20 in traffic mishaps and 14 by drowning.

A Canadian Press survey shows from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday 20 persons died in Ontario, seven in Quebec, seven in British Columbia, four in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, and one each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotoia.

Four men were drowned in British Columbia when their boat overturned in the Squamish river. Another drowning and two traffic deaths boosted B.C.'s toll to seven. (See Page 11.)

CCF Proposes Three Names For Webster Seat

VANCOUVER — George Home, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, Alex. B. MacDonald, lawyer and provincial president of the CCF, and Harold Thayer, provincial CCF secretary and editor of CCF news, have been proposed for nomination as CCF candidate in Vancouver East, the seat formerly held by Arnold Webster, former CCF leader who has retired.

Wild Mob Pulls French Troops From Train

Protest Recalls For Algeria Service

ST. NAZAIRE, France (AP) —A mob of about 1,500 men stormed through police lines today and carried home in triumph a group of reservists who were scheduled to leave by train for service in Algeria.

A force of about 1,000 mobile guards and special riot police, swinging gunbutts and clubs was unable to check the demonstrators' march on the railway station in this heavy Communist seaport and shipbuilding town. Tear gas and practice grenades also were used in vain.

The mob threw anything within reach at the police—stones, iron bars and heavy bolts. Several persons were injured on both sides.

About 200 reservists were on the train, due to leave for the Mediterranean at noon.

LEAVE JOBS

The protest started off with about 300 persons swarming over the railway tracks and around the station, and swelled rapidly as workers left their jobs in metal working plants and in the construction industry at the call of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail.

The non-Communist unions did not order their men to join in the walkout but expressed sympathy with the reservists recalled to active duty.

Demonstrations against sending troops to Algeria have been increasing. A train between Bourg Saint Maurice and Chambery in the French Alps was delayed for 40 minutes Sunday. The demonstration ended when it was learned no recalled soldiers were on the train.

While the fighting at St. Nazaire was still in progress, the reservists left the railroad station to go home. Demonstrators picked them up and carried them on their shoulders.

Word passed through this city that similar action might be taken later today at Nantes. A big force of policeman was on duty around the station at Nantes.

'Mile of Pennies' Aim of Drive By Boys' Band

"A boy who blows a horn won't blow a safe,' said John P. Abel, in an appeal to Victorians today to support a campaign to raise money to assist the Victoria Boys' Band.

Mr. Abel, president, said the band Monday will start a house-to-house canvass in the city to raise a "mile of pennies" for the purchase of uniforms and instruments.

The boys will canvass for two weeks, he said.

"The band is not sponsored by or affiliated with any society or other organization," said Mr. Abel. "Your support for this cause is urgently requested."

PICKED OUT OF TRASH CAN

Policemen Breathe Life Into Abandoned Infant

NEW YORK (UP)—Two policemen saved a new-born baby, abandoned in a trash can, from death Sunday by breathing life into his fragile body.

Paul Llorens, superintendent of a dingy Harlem tenement, discovered the infant crammed into a rubbish can beneath a stairway.

Llorens called police and patrolmen Paul Gottlieb and Dennis Healy raced to the building.

The body of the hours-old infant was cold when they arrived. His face was blue from suffocation and his umbilical cord was tangled around his tiny throat, cutting off his breath.

Healy disentangled the cord and massaged the baby's chest.

They tried to tie the cord to stem the bleeding, but had no string so Gottlieb pulled two parking tickets from his pocket, tore the twine from them and stemmed the flow of blood.

Then the two officers took turns breathing into the baby's mouth. Perspiration covered their faces as they grimly blew life into the fragile body. They heard a sound.

"The baby started to cry and then we knew we had him," Gottlieb said.

An ambulance summoned by Gottlieb finally arrived, and by that time the child was crying loudly.

Doctors put the baby on the incubator and said he was in "very good condition" today.

Each of the policeman has two children.

New Flood Crest Menaces Creston

Kootenay Town Reinforces Dikes; Fraser Valley Situation Easier

CRESTON (BUP)—Waters of the surging Kootenay River were at the critical level of 23½ feet at Creston Sunday night with apparently a higher crest to come.

Trucks hauled dirt all day yesterday to reinforce the dikes, which were constantly patrolled by men and periodically inspected from the air.

With no sign of a letup in the hot weather, opinions vary as to when the Kootenay will crest.

At Cranbrook, cooler nights have lowered the levels of roaring streams, and the situation is eased, although the emergency is not yet considered over.

A close watch is being maintained on stretches of highway threatened by floods, but it is no longer necessary for the public works department to tow cars through 18 inches of water in the Yahk district.

The usual high water period in the Cranbrook area is the first week in June, and there is still a good deal of snow to come down.

Meanwhile, the flood threat with the Fraser River at Mission has passed for the present.

The river dropped a further two inches in the past 24 hours.

Tickets for the Velda Willie "Maytime Revue," sponsored by Esquimalt Chapter, IODE, may be obtained at the Royal Theatre tonight, prior to the performance at 8 p.m.

ISLAND HIGHWAY CHECK REJECTS HALF OF CARS

NANAIMO (BUP)—Almost half the cars checked over the weekend by Nanaimo and District Traffic and Safety Association were rejected because of faults and the drivers will likely receive check-up slips from police this week.

The voluntary check preceded an official compulsory RCMP check which began this morning and will continue until Thursday.

Check-up slips require a car owner to have faults in his auto repaired and then report back to police for confirmation.

'Down on Ice Field' Radios Missing Pilot

WINNIPEG (CP) — A third SOS signal and terse message, "down on an icefield," strengthened the hope Sunday that a pilot missing nine days in the Arctic barrens about 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg was safe.

RCAF headquarters at Winnipeg reported indications were the signals, picked up at 5.25 a.m. Sunday by a marine radio station on Nottingham Island, came from C. C. Crossley. The 60-year-old pilot from Toronto has been missing since May 19 on a flight from a secret DEW-line site to Churchill, Man. No other planes are known to be missing in the area.

The messages were garbled, but a bearing indicated the pilot's position was near Sturges Island, northwest of Southampton Island and between Southampton and Melville peninsula.

THREE SEARCHERS

Three RCAF aircraft operating out of Coral Harbor were expected to investigate the latest report.

Two other planes, a Lancaster from Torbay, Nfld., and a Canso from Vancouver, were scheduled to join the search Sunday.

Two SOS signals were picked up Saturday but search planes failed to find any trace of the missing pilot when they scoured the area Saturday night after being grounded by a low ceiling most of the day.

Children Rescued From Flaming Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two small children had a narrow escape from death when a neighbor rescued them from a burning car outside his suburban Burnaby home.

Melvin Marshall, 30, heard the terrified screams of the trapped children, Johnny Redekop, 2, and his sister Nina, 1, and pulled them from the smoke-filled car.

Their father, John Redekop, left the children alone in the car across the street from Marshall's home while he went to a nearby house to borrow some tools. He returned only a few minutes later to find the car in flames.

"The children would have died if Mr. Marshall hadn't got to them," said Mr. Redekop. "They could never have opened a door."

He said he did not know the cause of the blaze. "It could have been a short circuit in the ignition wiring or the children may have found some matches in the glove compartment."

Jet Pilot Risks Life To Save Crowd

CHICAGO (AP)—A navy jet pilot risked his life to avoid crashing into a crowd of about 700 persons while making an emergency landing Sunday at a civilian airport northwest of Chicago.

Witnesses said Lt.-Cmdr. Thomas E. Bourdon, 34 of Muskegon, Mich., a reserve pilot, landed his plane down-wind on the short runway at Paulwaukee airport when his fuel supply was almost exhausted.

George Priester, operator of the airport, said if Bourdon had made a normal into-the-wind landing on the 3,400 foot runway, his plane probably would have slammed into an estimated 700 spectators congregated near the field's administration building.

The navy spokesman said that normally jet fighters need at least 5,000 feet of runway to land.

Bourdon took off from the naval air station at Glenview, a Chicago suburb, on a normal training flight but was unable to land there when a heavy fog closed in on the field. Almost out of fuel, he headed for Palwaukee, the nearest airport.

Halfway down the runway, he retracted the plane's landing gear, causing it to slide on its undercarriage and stop just short of the runway's end.

WESTERN REGION

Sealed tenders will be received at the office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg, until two o'clock, Central Standard Time, in the afternoon of Tuesday, June 19, 1956, for the construction of a stores and car department building at Vancouver, British Columbia.

Plans, specifications and form of contract may be seen, and form of tender obtained from the office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg; District Engineers at Vancouver and Edmonton; and Division Engineers at Victoria, Kamloops and Calgary.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on form supplied by the Railway and accompanied by an accepted cheque drawn on a chartered bank in Canada in favour of Canadian National Railways, equal to five per cent of the total amount of the tender.

No bid bonds will be accepted with tenders for this work.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

A day later another team of Swiss climbers—Adolf Reist and Hands Rudolf von Gunten—fought their way through low clouds to Everest's summit, the announcement said.

"All members of the Swiss team are proud and happy," the Nepalese spokesman reported.

BUSY SEASON

Only the Argentine team attempting to climb the 26,810-foot Mount Dhaykagiri in central Nepal is still in the field.

There has been no report from South American climbers for one month.

The Swiss success, together with the Japanese expedition's double successful assault on Manaslu peak—which previously was unclimbed—May 9 and May 11, makes the present summer season one of the most successful in modern history of Himalayan climbing.

Albert Eggler, leader of the expedition, said in a message to the Nepal foreign office that the two assaults on Everest were made from the 26,000-foot south col between the two mighty peaks.

Eggler said Luchsinger and Reiss reached the Lhotse summit from Camp Six on the south col, while Schmied, Marmet, Reist and Gunsten climbed Everest from Camp Seven on the south col, which is 26,000 feet high.

The Swiss assault groups climbed 1,890 feet from the barren, wind-swept south col to conquer Lhotse, and 3,028 feet to reach the summit of Everest.

LONDON (Reuters) — Brigadier Sir John Hunt, leader of the successful 1953 Everest expedition, said today he was "simply delighted" to hear of the Swiss success.

"Please tell them we send tremendous congratulations from all the members of the 1953 British team," Hunt said.

"Only last week we had a reunion in Wales and discussed the Swiss team. We sent them a message wishing them every success."

tric storage dam, and some are east of the watershed.

When he arrived with his proposition there were some who doubted that Mr. Schwerdt had the wherewithal to back up his ideas, but it was soon found that he was perfectly able financially to do the same thing again next week, and for a good many other weeks if he were so inclined.

The loggers now have their $250 each, which in practically all cases is safely tucked away in a bank account against the likelihood of a forest closure and lack of employment.

The money is doubly pleasing because it is capital gain and not subject to income tax.

And Mr. Schwerdt has 300 claims on—what?

Well, copper has enjoyed a big boom in Canada, and the price of copper is still high. Mr. Schwerdt has been interested in copper prospects before, and it is understood there are a number of expired copper claims in or near the area staked by the Jordan River "miners."

"I had a bit of gambling money and I'm gambling," was the only explanation Mr. Schwerdt would give his part-time helpers.

Bevan Claims British Policy Could Lead to Another War

NEWCASTLE, Eng. (AP) — Aneurin Bevan, left-wing Laborite, told a political meeting Sunday night the present mood of Prime Minister Eden's government could lead Britain into another war.

"It is because these 18th century backwoodsmen in the House of Commons became bloody-minded," he said, "that the situation has developed in Cyprus, and it looks as though the same thing is going to happen in Singapore and Aden."

Bevan said Britain should realize that peoples have the right to be masters in their own land.

"In fact," he said, "the Tories are getting back into the same mood they were in 1937 and 1938 — the same semi-Fascist mood that led us into the world war and could lead us into another."

Man-Made Moon Visible Over Southern U.s. in 1957

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The world's first tiny man-made moon, Project Vanguard, will pass over the southern half of the United States on its first 94-minute race around the earth next year, Dr. W. H. Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory, said Sunday.

"Thus the observations made from this area will be very important in establishing the orbit," he explained.

The only hope of seeing it, he reported, will be when the sun is shining on the object with the observer in darkness beneath it. The satellite will be only 30 inches in diameter.

"This means," Dr. Pickering said, "that you will have to see the satellite just after sunset or just before sunrise." It will be launched from Florida.

He said a network of both radio and optical stations will be established to study the passage of the satellite.

"The satellite itself never will be recovered," he noted. "As time goes on and it slows down from its maximum speed of around four miles per second, the object will re-enter the atmosphere and burn up before it can strike the earth."

HE JUST HATES TO PAY TOLLS

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 21-year-old man was arrested Saturday as he dog-paddled under Granville Bridge. He said he was swimming to avoid paying toll. Granville is a free bridge. The toll bridge, Lions Gate, is five miles away.

Carnation Co. Manager At Royal City Dies

HALIFAX (CP)—Allan W. Cameron, a native of New Westminster, B.C., and district manager of Carnation Co. Ltd. since 1955, died in hospital here Saturday after a lengthy illness. He was 39.

Mr. Cameron was employed with Pitney-Bowes Ltd. of Canada in Vancouver before coming here.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. David F. Cameron, and two brothers, Arthur and James, all of Vancouver.

'The Tender Trap' Snares Plaudits

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

"THE TENDER TRAP"

By Max Schulman and Robert Paul Smith

Charlie Reader ..... Cliff Clarke
Poppy Matson ..... Madonna McCabe
Joe McCall ..... Don Ross
Jessica Collins ..... Marjorie Gilbart
Sylvia Crewes ..... Margaret Dewdney
Julie Gilles ..... Norma King
Earle Lindquist ..... Russel Gurney
Sol Schwartz ..... Don Jacobs

Directed by Phyllis and Jim Dulmage.

It was an excellent first night at Langham Court theatre Saturday, when the Victoria Theatre Guild presented its last play of the season, an exuberant if slight comedy.

By measure of audience reaction, the production, handled by a well co-ordinated team of husband-and-wife directors, was an unqualified success. Laughter was continuous, often explosive in the well-filled theatre.

BIT OF DRAGGING

A few faults were apparent to the critical viewer, such as a bit of dragging at the outset. However, this rapidly picked up and general pace was well maintained.

Modern tone of the set was striking and except for one miscued light, technical side of the production was quite competent.

Margaret Dewdney in the principal female role, gave an intelligent performance though there was some lack of contrast particularly in portrayal of inner emotions.

One of the most delightful pieces of acting in the entire production was that of Norma King, who gave an interpretation that was both animated and charming.

An uneven and overdone southern accent marred what was otherwise a competent performance by Marjorie Gilbart.

ROSS TOPS

Top honors for the show belong to Don Ross who was excellently cast and gave a forthright, convincing performance which he sustained throughout. His line delivery was pointed and perfectly timed so that the full humor of his lines found their mark.

A fine character study by Russel Gurney which was well realized and maintained, a hilarious small bit by Don Jacobs and a commendable performance by Cliff Clarke rounded out a well-balanced male cast.

Most promising of the newcomers on the stage, Saturday, was Madonna McCabe, hitherto principally known for a fine soprano voice. On this occasion she gave an alert, intelligent and pleasantly restrained performance which was in nice contrast to the other three girls.

It was an evening of thoroughly enjoyable entertainment which will be repeated nightly through this week to Saturday.

CARPENTERS CONTRACT FOR 10c IN 2 YEARS

Victoria carpenters in Local 1598 have agreed on a two-year contract providing a total 10 cents an hour increase from firms which are members of Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

First raise, bringing the present $2.25 an hour up by three cents, is effective July 1, and the second boost will be added April 1, 1957.

Carpenters and the exchange also agreed on an additional 2 per cent of gross earnings for holiday pay, bringing the total up to the statutory 4 per cent, plus other minor contract changes.

WORKING HEIGHTS

The Eiffel tower in Paris, apart from its attraction for sightseers, is an important broadcasting station and meteorological centre.

USEFUL MEDICINE

The asafoetida medicinal herb was discovered in India by the British botanist Hugh Falconer, who died in 1865.
